Bricker Amendment Substitute Is Offered

George Makes Bid As Senate Opens Debate

Knowland Doubts Administration Will Accept All Of Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga) entered the battle over the Bricker amendment today with a substitute stating that any international agreement is invalid if it conflicts with the Constitution.

George made his unexpected move as the Senate plunged into debate on the controversial plan of Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) to put a rein on the President's treaty-making powers by constitutional amendment.

The George substitute got in ahead of another being drafted by Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP floor leader, and may cause the Knowland proposal to be withheld.

President Eisenhower has declared his "unalterable opposition" to the Bricker amendment, which he contends would hamper seriously American relations with foreign nations.

Galleries Jammed

The public galleries of the Senate were jammed as the debate began.

Knowland told newsmen that he was going to submit George's proposal to the White House at once to see if it was acceptable to the administration, and also to ask the State and Justice Departments for an opinion.

He said he was certain the administration would go along with at least part of the substitute.

George, senior Democratic member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told reporters the amendment he proposed would leave untouched the present division of state and federal powers, a point of hot dispute in Bricker's plan.

Ike And Bricker Disagree

One clause of the Bricker amendment says "a treaty shall become effective as internal law in the United States only through legislation which would be valid in the absence of a treaty." Eisenhower says this would give individual states the power to repudiate treaties. Bricker disputes this, though he says treaties on some subjects, such as divorce, could not go into effect without action by state legislatures.

George proposed the following as a substitute for the disputed clause:

"No international agreement other than a treaty shall become effective as internal law in the United States except by act of Congress."

Knowland indicated that he was doubtful whether the administration could accept this. But he said he did not anticipate any trouble with the other section of the George substitute, which declares:

"A provision of a treaty or other international agreement which conflicts with this Constitution shall not be of any force or effect."

Widow Awarded $127,500 Judgment

Mrs. Ruth Allendorf, 26, Gary, Ind., whose husband was crushed to death by a switch engine, smiles with her children after a Circuit Court jury awarded her a $127,500 judgment yesterday. Her husband, James, 24, was a switchman for the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railway when he was killed March 3, 1953, in a rail yard near Gary. Children (left to right) are twins Sharon and Cheryl, 3, and Jayme, 18 months.

Condon Member Of Organizations Cited As Pro-Red

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Rep. Robert L. Condon (D-Calif) testified today he once belonged to two organizations later cited as Communist fronts. He denied, however, that he had any Communist or Marxist views at any time.

Condon appeared for a second day before the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee as President Eisenhower told a news conference the Californian has every right to defend himself against charges which led to his being barred from an atomic weapon test.

Did "Stupid" Things

The 41-year-old Condon said he has done various things in the political field which would be "stupid" today.

But he flatly denied most of 13 allegations cited by the Atomic Energy Commission in refusing to let him watch a Nevada atomic explosion with other members of Congress last May.

Condon said he was briefly a member of the League for Peace and Democracy, later cited as subversive by the U. S. attorney general, and for several years belonged to the National Lawyers Guild.

Guild Fights Ruling

The lawyers' guild was cited by Atty. Gen. Brownell as subversive several months ago. It is fighting the ruling.

Condon said he joined the League for Peace and Democracy in 1938 without knowing it was Communist-inspired, and did so because "Hitler and Mussolini posed a threat that unless the rest of the world combined against them, sooner or later there would be war."

Navy Sabotage Worries British

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP)—A wave of minor sabotage aboard British warships is plainly worrying the Admiralty.

The aircraft carrier Ocean was disclosed today as the victim of the Navy's 14th case of malicious damage in the past eight months.

Somebody smashed about 40 of the glass engine room gauges of the Ocean, a 13,190-ton veteran of the Korean War now being refitted at a Deveonport dockyard.

Admiralty police investigators detained an enlisted sailor of the carrier's 1,076-man crew.

"There is no indication of any organized sabotage, Communist or otherwise," an informed naval source told a reporter.

Past cases are attributed to sailors fed up with the Royal Navy, the pride of this maritime nation.

Penalties have ranged up to two years in prison for such things as breaking gauges, spilling fuel oil and cutting telephone lines on vessels ranging from destroyers to heavy aircraft carriers.

Some courtsmartial have stopped handing out dishonorable discharges and ordered the offenders to serve out the rest of their enlistments after release. This, the naval source commented, is just in case any of the guilty parties did the damage to get out of the Navy.

Fights High Coffee Prices With Phone

DETROIT, Jan. 27 (AP)—Hall Wilson, 47, is ready to fight coffee prices "even if it takes forever." His weapon—the telephone.

Wilson has converted 200 Detroit coffee drinkers to tea or milk. He has phoned 209 persons. There are some 700,000 listings in the Detroit phonebook.

"Ma and I bought two pounds of coffee a week, but no more," he said. "We have switched to tea and milk." He is a car inspector for the Wabash Railroad.

Indochina Reds Open Offensive

SAIGON, Indochina, Jan. 26 (AP)—Vietminh rebels, seizing the initiative again in central Indochina, have launched a tough offensive on a 187-mile front and captured two French Union posts within 24 hours.

The Communist-led troops are trying to slice Indochina in two again across the narrow waist extending from Vietnam's seacoast through Laos to the Thailand border. They already have seized 65 miles of strategic colonial highway No. 9 connecting Quang Tri, on the coast, with the French-held post of Seno in western Laos.

The French high command announced last night that a Vietminh in battalion, perhaps 600 men, had captured Muong Pha Lane, on the colonial highway 40 miles east of Seno.

A French spokesman said today the Vietminh had overrun a long stretch of the highway and captured Mong Phine, French Union post 65 miles east of Seno. The garrison withdrew 25 miles farther east to Tchepone.

Humanity To Be Keynote In POW Cases, Ike Says

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower, who commanded millions of troops in World War II, today promised a humanitarian attitude toward former Korean war prisoners whose actions are being questioned.

He told his news conference that sympathy and humanity will enter into consideration of their cases.

The President said he was so disturbed by news of court martial charges against Army Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson that he got in touch with Secretary of Defense Wilson about the case.

Dickenson Under Arrest

But Eisenhower said he did not think the charges were filed just because the corporal chose to remain with the Communists for a while. He indicated there was more to the case than that.

Dickenson, the Cracker's Neck, Va., GI who first refused and then asked repatriation, was placed under arrest at Walter Reed Hospital here last week as he was undergoing final physical examinations preparatory for discharge. He will be held until a board determines whether he should face court martial on charges that he dealt illegally with the enemy to get better treatment for himself.

Approves Discharge Of 21

Eisenhower said sympathy will be used in the cases of those who made germ warfare confessions under Communist pressure. The Marine Corps has ordered an inquiry into the case of Col. Frank H. Schwable of Arlington, Va., who said he signed such a confession while he was held and tortured as a prisoner but repudiated it after he was repatriated.

But the President said he concurred in the decision to give dishonorable discharges to 21 U. S. service men captured by the Communists who refused to return to American custody.

Ike Likes Idea Of Discharge Papers For Federal Workers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower, snapping up a woman newspaper correspondent's idea, said today he's going to find out if employes leaving federal jobs in good standing can be given some sort of "honorable discharge."

The purpose would be to protect them from suspicion they were forced out of government as security risks.

Donald Dawson, who was patronage adviser to former President Truman, said in a speech yesterday that under the Eisenhower administration any employe who leaves the government "runs the risk of being stigmatized as disloyal."

Dawson was referring to the administration's emphasis on its employe security program. Eisenhower said early this month 2,200 federal workers have been lopped off the payroll on security grounds since he took office.

Sarah McClendon, correspondent for a group of Texas newspapers, brought up Dawson's statement at Eisenhower's news conference today and said it squares with the experience of an acquaintance of hers who recently quit his State Department job.

"Is there some way we can devolve a system for tagging these people, like the Army does, with honorable discharges and dishonorable discharges?" asked Miss McClendon.

Some reporters laughed, but Eisenhower took the idea seriously.

First, he said, he's against charging anybody with disloyalty or subversive activity unless that is proved in a court of law.

As for distinguishing between security risks and employes who leave the government with no sort of stigma, Eisenhower said he thought this ought to be possible.

U. N. Allies Discuss Reviving Korea Talks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Communist demands for resumption of the preliminary Korean peace talks were discussed today by representatives of the 16 U. N. Allies who sent troops there.

A State Department spokesman said the group also discussed India's proposal that the U. N. Assembly reconvene to consider Korean problems. He said there was "an exchange of views" on both, but declined to say whether a decision was reached on either.

Meeting with the group was U. S. special Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, to whom the Communists yesterday directed a letter demanding resumption of the talks at Panmunjom. Dean broke off the talks last Dec. 12, demanding a retraction of Red statements accusing the United States of "perfidy."

GIs Who Renounced U. S. Ready To Slip Behind Bamboo Curtain

President Says Program Liberal And Conservative

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today his administration is both liberal and conservative — liberal toward human beings and conservative in handling economic affairs.

He bristled a bit in rejecting any idea that his legislative program is merely an extension of the Democratic "New Deal."

The budget offers the best comment on that, Eisenhower said at his news conference. He said former President Truman's budget was heading further and further into debt and at an increasing rate, whereas his own budget seeks to reduce government spending and go the other way.

Ike Authorizes Quote

The White House authorized direct quotation — something usually barred — of this sentence:

"When it comes down to dealing with the relationships between the human in this country and his government, the people in this administration believe in being what I think we would normally call liberal, and when we deal with the economic affairs of this country, we believe in being conservative."

Under his administration, Eisenhower said, the government is trying to conform with the Constitution and make people realize it is their friend, not their enemy.

The President also said that:

Leniency For Ex-POWs

There will be no harsh treatment for former war prisoners who leaned toward communism for a while.

He has not switched at all in his position on farm price supports.

Associates in Congress tell him they still hope for a compromise on the Bricker constitutional amendment to limit treaty making powers.

He is backing up Secretary of State Dulles on the front line at the Big Four foreign ministers conference in Berlin. Dulles has rejected Russian Foreign Minister Molotov's demand that Red China be included in a Big Five meeting on world problems.

Senate Approves Red Probe Funds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Nearly half a million dollars for investigating Communist activities was voted or cleared for floor action in the Senate today.

The full Senate gave $228,000 to its internal security sub-committee, headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind). The Rules Committee, headed by Jenner, recommended $216,000 for Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and his permanent investigations subcommittee.

McCarthy planned at one time to ask $350,000 but scaled down his request when some Democrats threatened to fight any increase.

The $216,000 voted for McCarthy's subcommittee is the same as it received in the past year, plus about $16,000 to hire a counsel and a clerk for the Democratic members.

Mexico City Theater Burns; No Lives Lost

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 27 (AP)—One of Mexico City's most spectacular fires in years tonight destroyed the Granat Theater. Police said quick action by theater employes averted a panic and there were no fatalities.

Only a few of the audience of 1,500 persons suffered minor injuries in escaping from the burning building, authorities stated.

An explosion in the projection room touched off the fire.

The audience escaped through fire exits as flames billowed through the theater located in downtown Mexico City in a heavily populated market and industrial area.

Turncoats Facing Uncertain Future

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, Jan. 28 (AP)—Twenty-one U. S. soldiers, their backs turned on home, today slip back behind the Bamboo Curtain in the last act of the drama of Korean War prisoners.

Ahead of them lies an uncertain future.

The Americans, all dishonorably discharged after they renounced their homeland, chose life with the Communists and said they would "fight for peace."

Peiping radio reported the Americans and their companions—325 South Koreans and 1 Briton—were busy today packing to leave their unlocked stockade.

Men Given Haircuts

Seven Korean barbers were giving the men haircuts.

"We want to look trim when we get back to Kaesong," the radio quoted Sgt. Richard G. Corden, of East Providence, R. I.

Communist Red Cross representatives were expected at the camp in the neutral zone to take charge of the men. Indian custodial forces were ready to turn over their records.

The Indian Command has disclaimed any responsibility for the prisoners since Jan. 23. On that date the U. N. Command freed 22,000 anti-Red prisoners and the Indians unlocked the gates of the pro-Red camp.

Stayed In Compounds

The 347 pro-Reds remained in their compounds. The Communists refused to take them back as prisoners, contending they should be held pending a peace conference.

The prisoners then petitioned the Reds to accept them as "free men." The Communist Command granted the Communist Red Cross permission to take custody.

House Speaker Proposes Slash In Excise Taxes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., diverging from President Eisenhower's tax policy, called today for slashes in a score or more of excise or sales taxes.

The Republican leader, in a surprise proposal, said all excises above 10 per cent should be brought down to that level, except for liquor and tobacco. Many rates now range from 15 to 25 per cent.

His comments at a news conference promptly drew support from some Democrats and Republicans on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Congressional authorities estimated the proposed cuts would reduce revenue by about 942 million dollars a year at current sales levels. But Martin said increases in sales and employment under the spur of such a tax reduction probably would prevent any actual revenue loss.

He declared excise rates above 10 per cent are "exorbitant" and are injuring many industries.

Martin said he didn't expect the Eisenhower administration to propose any excise cuts, but he hoped the financial situation would be such that the administration would not fight such a move by Congress "when the time comes."

His proposal would lower to 10 per cent the present 20 per cent tax on furs, jewelry, cosmetics, luggage, women's handbags, movie and other admissions, photographic equipment, light bulbs, safe deposit boxes and club dues.

It also would apply to pens and pencils, lighters, local telephone calls, domestic telegrams and leased wires, and personal transportation, all taxed now at 15 per cent.

It would slash the long-distance telephone rate from the present level of 25 per cent.

President Eisenhower, in his annual budget message, did not propose any excise changes and asked Congress to cancel one billion dollars in excise cuts set automatically under present law for April 1.

Two GIs Hanged For Rape-Slaying

GUAM, Thursday, Jan. 28 (AP)—Two Air Force enlisted men were hanged here today for the 1948 jungle rape-murder of pretty Ruth Farnsworth, 27, of San Francisco.

The pair, Herman T. Dennis, 25, of Indianapolis, and Robert W. Burns, 36, of Spokane, Wash., walked separately to their deaths up the 17 steps to a 10 foot-high gallows.

A court-martial convicted them of the slaying after a specialist flown out from the United States with lie detecting equipment had solved the baffling case.

The Farnsworth girl, a civilian employe of the Navy, was found battered and unconscious in dense jungle back of the curio shop where she worked nights. She had been dragged there Dec. 11 and died two days later in a hospital.

Pope Pius Improves

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 27 (AP)—Pope Pius XII was reported improving today from an attack of "nervous stomach." He continued work in his apartment and received his Vatican assistants.

Thief In For Surprise

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 27 (AP)—The thief who looted the home of William Hewitt is in for a surprise. He stole $18 in cash, a $10 wrist watch, and a whiskey bottle. The bottle contained tea.

Hospital Emergency Policy Checked After Baby's Death

CHICAGO, Jan. 27 (AP)—Coroner Walter E. McCarron said today he will check emergency treatment arrangements in every hospital in Cook County because a scalded baby died after it was moved from one hospital to another.

State's Atty. John Gutknecht announced he has asked a reappraisal of all tax-exempt hospitals in the country to determine if they qualify for the listing as tax free "because they are truly charitable or beneficient institutions."

Gutknecht said Woodlawn Hospital—from which the scalded child was turned away—had been granted such tax exemption.

The baby, 5-month-old Laura Helen Lingo, was scalded by a vaporizer Jan. 17. Mrs. Irene Lingo, 23, the mother, testified at the coroner's inquest Tuesday that an intern at Woodlawn Hospital barred her baby from remaining there because she could not put up a deposit of $100.

The baby then was transferred to Cook County Hospital, where free treatment is provided. The baby died the next day.

McCarron declared the hospital did "too much bartering for money." Hospital officials declined to comment.

McCarron told newsmen he will check all hospitals to determine how emergency cases are handled when deposits cannot be made.

Mayor Martin H. Kennelly also directed Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health, to investigate.

The inquest has been continued to Feb. 2, when McCarron said he will subpoena Dr. Frank Maple, president of the Woodlawn Hospital executive board, and Dr. Perry Jenkins, chief of staff.

Dr. Bundesen said he believed the baby would have lived if it had been given "the proper blood or glucose" at Woodlawn.

Russia Insists West Say 'Yes' To Big 5 Talks

Dulles, Hitting Waste Of Time, Urges Start On German Problem

BERLIN, Jan. 27 (AP) — Russia stalled the Berlin conference today from taking up the German peace problem and fought to compel the big Western powers to recognize Red China as an equal.

Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov refused to accept an allied "No" to a Big Five parley with the Chinese Communists on world disarmament and trade in May or June.

He countered with an 80-minute speech repeating his Big Five proposal in detail and conjuring up a prospect of settlements in Asia from such a talk.

Spearheading the Western opposition, Secretary of State Dulles said he declined to "fritter away our time in discussing whether and how to set up a new conference" instead of getting started on the unification of Germany and granting Austria independence.

He emphasized these two problems were the whole purpose of the Big Four meeting here. If they are solved "then, and then only, can we stand before the world as capable of assuming other and heavier tasks," he concluded.

France's Georges Bidault, backing up Dulles, said the Big Five parley would serve no good so long as Peiping was "indirectly supporting" the Vietminh rebels in Indochina.

He frankly told Molotov, who was his dinner host last night: "You disapprove of the regime I represent, but I in turn disapprove of yours."

Bidault added, however, that if the facts and situation of the Red Chinese rulers were to change, a Big Five meeting might ultimately be considered.

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, chairman for the day, advised Molotov that Peiping should first prove its sincerity for world peace by enabling the Korean political conference to get started.

If the German and Austrian questions were solved here, Eden said, the Big Four would be better situated to look at other questions.

All the Western arguments for taking up the German settlement without further delay rolled off Molotov's black-suited back. Although he had waived at the outset of today's session the right to speak again on Peiping's behalf, he launched into a carefully prepared address as soon as the West rested.

Molotov hinted the French might get a settlement of the seven-year-old war in Indochina by playing ball with Red China.

FTC Coffee Price Probe Launched

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission, with the blessing of President Eisenhower, today launched a full-scale investigation to find out whether the high price of coffee is due to speculation and monopoly.

Two Senate committees also said they also are looking into the situation which has put retail coffee prices above $1 a pound and threatens even higher prices.

But there was no immediate indication the price would come back down. Trade sources have insisted there just isn't enough coffee to meet the demand. The supply shortage, not speculation, has brought on the increase, they said.

President Eisenhower brought up the subject of coffee near the start of his news conference, and the White House later authorized direct quotation of his remarks announcing the FTC study.

"On Jan. 13 they started a preliminary investigation to see what was the trouble about coffee prices in this country," Eisenhower said, "and they discovered enough that they thought a full-scale investigation was indicated, and is going to take place. . . ."

Israel Asks U. N. Act In Blockade Of Canal

UNITED NATIONS, N Y., Jan. 27 (AP)—Israel asked the U. N. Security Council today to look into Egypt's blockade of Suez Canal shipping to and from Israeli ports.

Ebba Eban, Israel's ambassador to the United States and permanent U. N. representative, complained of the blockade in a letter to Dr. Charles Malik of Lebanon, January president of the Security Council, and asked that the complaint be put on the agenda.

Men Given Haircuts

Seven Korean barbers were giving the men haircuts.

"We want to look trim when we get back to Kaesong," the radio quoted Sgt. Richard G. Corden, of East Providence, R. I.

Communist Red Cross representatives were expected at the camp in the neutral zone to take charge of the men. Indian custodial forces were ready to turn over their records.

The Indian Command has disclaimed any responsibility for the prisoners since Jan. 23. On that date the U. N. Command freed 22,000 anti-Red prisoners and the Indians unlocked the gates of the pro-Red camp.

Stayed In Compounds

The 347 pro-Reds remained in their compounds. The Communists refused to take them back as prisoners, contending they should be held pending a peace conference.

The prisoners then petitioned the Reds to accept them as "free men." The Communist Command granted the Communist Red Cross permission to take custody.

President Says Program Liberal And Conservative

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today his administration is both liberal and conservative — liberal toward human beings and conservative in handling economic affairs.

He bristled a bit in rejecting any idea that his legislative program is merely an extension of the Democratic "New Deal."

The budget offers the best comment on that, Eisenhower said at his news conference. He said former President Truman's budget was heading further and further into debt and at an increasing rate, whereas his own budget seeks to reduce government spending and go the other way.

Ike Authorizes Quote

The White House authorized direct quotation — something usually barred — of this sentence:

"When it comes down to dealing with the relationships between the human in this country and his government, the people in this administration believe in being what I think we would normally call liberal, and when we deal with the economic affairs of this country, we believe in being conservative."

Under his administration, Eisenhower said, the government is trying to conform with the Constitution and make people realize it is their friend, not their enemy.

The President also said that:

Leniency For Ex-POWs

There will be no harsh treatment for former war prisoners who leaned toward communism for a while.

He has not switched at all in his position on farm price supports.

Associates in Congress tell him they still hope for a compromise on the Bricker constitutional amendment to limit treaty making powers.

He is backing up Secretary of State Dulles on the front line at the Big Four foreign ministers conference in Berlin. Dulles has rejected Russian Foreign Minister Molotov's demand that Red China be included in a Big Five meeting on world problems.

Senate Approves Red Probe Funds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Nearly half a million dollars for investigating Communist activities was voted or cleared for floor action in the Senate today.

The full Senate gave $228,000 to its internal security sub-committee, headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind). The Rules Committee, headed by Jenner, recommended $216,000 for Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and his permanent investigations subcommittee.

McCarthy planned at one time to ask $350,000 but scaled down his request when some Democrats threatened to fight any increase.

The $216,000 voted for McCarthy's subcommittee is the same as it received in the past year, plus about $16,000 to hire a counsel and a clerk for the Democratic members.

Mexico City Theater Burns; No Lives Lost

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 27 (AP)—One of Mexico City's most spectacular fires in years tonight destroyed the Granat Theater. Police said quick action by theater employes averted a panic and there were no fatalities.

Only a few of the audience of 1,500 persons suffered minor injuries in escaping from the burning building, authorities stated.

An explosion in the projection room touched off the fire.

The audience escaped through fire exits as flames billowed through the theater located in downtown Mexico City in a heavily populated market and industrial area.

U. N. Allies Discuss Reviving Korea Talks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Communist demands for resumption of the preliminary Korean peace talks were discussed today by representatives of the 16 U. N. Allies who sent troops there.

A State Department spokesman said the group also discussed India's proposal that the U. N. Assembly reconvene to consider Korean problems. He said there was "an exchange of views" on both, but declined to say whether a decision was reached on either.

Meeting with the group was U. S. special Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, to whom the Communists yesterday directed a letter demanding resumption of the talks at Panmunjom. Dean broke off the talks last Dec. 12, demanding a retraction of Red statements accusing the United States of "perfidy."

House Speaker Proposes Slash In Excise Taxes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., diverging from President Eisenhower's tax policy, called today for slashes in a score or more of excise or sales taxes.

The Republican leader, in a surprise proposal, said all excises above 10 per cent should be brought down to that level, except for liquor and tobacco. Many rates now range from 15 to 25 per cent.

His comments at a news conference promptly drew support from some Democrats and Republicans on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Congressional authorities estimated the proposed cuts would reduce revenue by about 942 million dollars a year at current sales levels. But Martin said increases in sales and employment under the spur of such a tax reduction probably would prevent any actual revenue loss.

He declared excise rates above 10 per cent are "exorbitant" and are injuring many industries.

Martin said he didn't expect the Eisenhower administration to propose any excise cuts, but he hoped the financial situation would be such that the administration would not fight such a move by Congress "when the time comes."

His proposal would lower to 10 per cent the present 20 per cent tax on furs, jewelry, cosmetics, luggage, women's handbags, movie and other admissions, photographic equipment, light bulbs, safe deposit boxes and club dues.

It also would apply to pens and pencils, lighters, local telephone calls, domestic telegrams and leased wires, and personal transportation, all taxed now at 15 per cent.

It would slash the long-distance telephone rate from the present level of 25 per cent.

President Eisenhower, in his annual budget message, did not propose any excise changes and asked Congress to cancel one billion dollars in excise cuts set automatically under present law for April 1.

Hospital Emergency Policy Checked After Baby's Death

CHICAGO, Jan. 27 (AP)—Coroner Walter E. McCarron said today he will check emergency treatment arrangements in every hospital in Cook County because a scalded baby died after it was moved from one hospital to another.

State's Atty. John Gutknecht announced he has asked a reappraisal of all tax-exempt hospitals in the country to determine if they qualify for the listing as tax free "because they are truly charitable or beneficient institutions."

Gutknecht said Woodlawn Hospital—from which the scalded child was turned away—had been granted such tax exemption.

The baby, 5-month-old Laura Helen Lingo, was scalded by a vaporizer Jan. 17. Mrs. Irene Lingo, 23, the mother, testified at the coroner's inquest Tuesday that an intern at Woodlawn Hospital barred her baby from remaining there because she could not put up a deposit of $100.

The baby then was transferred to Cook County Hospital, where free treatment is provided. The baby died the next day.

McCarron declared the hospital did "too much bartering for money." Hospital officials declined to comment.

McCarron told newsmen he will check all hospitals to determine how emergency cases are handled when deposits cannot be made.

Mayor Martin H. Kennelly also directed Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health, to investigate.

The inquest has been continued to Feb. 2, when McCarron said he will subpoena Dr. Frank Maple, president of the Woodlawn Hospital executive board, and Dr. Perry Jenkins, chief of staff.

Dr. Bundesen said he believed the baby would have lived if it had been given "the proper blood or glucose" at Woodlawn.

Two GIs Hanged For Rape-Slaying

GUAM, Thursday, Jan. 28 (AP)—Two Air Force enlisted men were hanged here today for the 1948 jungle rape-murder of pretty Ruth Farnsworth, 27, of San Francisco.

The pair, Herman T. Dennis, 25, of Indianapolis, and Robert W. Burns, 36, of Spokane, Wash., walked separately to their deaths up the 17 steps to a 10 foot-high gallows.

A court-martial convicted them of the slaying after a specialist flown out from the United States with lie detecting equipment had solved the baffling case.

The Farnsworth girl, a civilian employe of the Navy, was found battered and unconscious in dense jungle back of the curio shop where she worked nights. She had been dragged there Dec. 11 and died two days later in a hospital.

Russia Insists West Say 'Yes' To Big 5 Talks

Dulles, Hitting Waste Of Time, Urges Start On German Problem

BERLIN, Jan. 27 (AP) — Russia stalled the Berlin conference today from taking up the German peace problem and fought to compel the big Western powers to recognize Red China as an equal.

Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov refused to accept an allied "No" to a Big Five parley with the Chinese Communists on world disarmament and trade in May or June.

He countered with an 80-minute speech repeating his Big Five proposal in detail and conjuring up a prospect of settlements in Asia from such a talk.

Spearheading the Western opposition, Secretary of State Dulles said he declined to "fritter away our time in discussing whether and how to set up a new conference" instead of getting started on the unification of Germany and granting Austria independence.

He emphasized these two problems were the whole purpose of the Big Four meeting here. If they are solved "then, and then only, can we stand before the world as capable of assuming other and heavier tasks," he concluded.

France's Georges Bidault, backing up Dulles, said the Big Five parley would serve no good so long as Peiping was "indirectly supporting" the Vietminh rebels in Indochina.

He frankly told Molotov, who was his dinner host last night: "You disapprove of the regime I represent, but I in turn disapprove of yours."

Bidault added, however, that if the facts and situation of the Red Chinese rulers were to change, a Big Five meeting might ultimately be considered.

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, chairman for the day, advised Molotov that Peiping should first prove its sincerity for world peace by enabling the Korean political conference to get started.

If the German and Austrian questions were solved here, Eden said, the Big Four would be better situated to look at other questions.

All the Western arguments for taking up the German settlement without further delay rolled off Molotov's black-suited back. Although he had waived at the outset of today's session the right to speak again on Peiping's behalf, he launched into a carefully prepared address as soon as the West rested.

Molotov hinted the French might get a settlement of the seven-year-old war in Indochina by playing ball with Red China.

FTC Coffee Price Probe Launched

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission, with the blessing of President Eisenhower, today launched a full-scale investigation to find out whether the high price of coffee is due to speculation and monopoly.

Two Senate committees also said they also are looking into the situation which has put retail coffee prices above $1 a pound and threatens even higher prices.

But there was no immediate indication the price would come back down. Trade sources have insisted there just isn't enough coffee to meet the demand. The supply shortage, not speculation, has brought on the increase, they said.

President Eisenhower brought up the subject of coffee near the start of his news conference, and the White House later authorized direct quotation of his remarks announcing the FTC study.

"On Jan. 13 they started a preliminary investigation to see what was the trouble about coffee prices in this country," Eisenhower said, "and they discovered enough that they thought a full-scale investigation was indicated, and is going to take place. . . ."

Israel Asks U. N. Act In Blockade Of Canal

UNITED NATIONS, N Y., Jan. 27 (AP)—Israel asked the U. N. Security Council today to look into Egypt's blockade of Suez Canal shipping to and from Israeli ports.

Ebba Eban, Israel's ambassador to the United States and permanent U. N. representative, complained of the blockade in a letter to Dr. Charles Malik of Lebanon, January president of the Security Council, and asked that the complaint be put on the agenda.

Government Undertakes Its Most Gigantic Refinancing Operation

Seeks To Convert $21 Billion In Five Issues Into Two

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The most gigantic refinancing operation in U. S. history was undertaken today. Under it the Treasury will seek to convert 21 billion dollars of five outstanding security issues into two new issues.

Three major aims were seen in the big transaction:

1. To take advantage of comparatively low interest rate. The demand for money has fallen off, as shown by a decrease in bank loans, and hence interest rates are lower than some experts figures they might be later.

2. To convert more of the government's securities into medium or long term obligations, if possible.

3. To reduce the number of maturities of government securities.

In connection with the last point, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and his special deputy for debt management, W. Randolph Burgess, have complained in many speeches that the penchant of the former administration for short-term debt had resulted in a multiplicity of Treasury securities. This meant that some security matured every few weeks and the officials said the money market was kept in a continual uproar.

It was apparent from today's package deal that Humphrey and Burgess are embarked on a program of merging securities to cut down the number of re-financings necessary in any one year and give the money market more breathing space between Treasury operations.

The securities it is proposed to refund include three bond issues, some not due until next year, and a one year certificate of indebtedness, paying 2.25 per cent interest and falling due Feb. 15, and a 4¼ year Treasury note paying 1⅜ per cent due March 15.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey offered exchanges for a new one-year certificate, paying 1⅝ per cent—⅝ of a point less than the maturing certificate—or for a seven-year and nine-month bond paying 2½ per cent interest.

Community Seeks Dognaper

NEW FAIRFIELD, Conn., Jan. 27 (AP)—This little community of 1,300 is on a vigilant alert today over a $100 ransom demand.

School kids, making like posses, are taking the long way home.

The mailman, the milkman, the eggman and the policeman are alerted.

They're all looking for a possible dognaper and for Lady Puggsy, the Ralph L. Baggs' 5-month-old Boxer puppy who disappeared five days ago.

Baggs offered a reward, and before you could say "Lady Puggsy" a man called up to demand $100 for her return.

Baggs is ready to pay, but he hasn't heard from the man since.

Meanwhile, State Police started investigating.

A nearby radio station broadcast the story.

School officials took note of Lady Puggsy's plight on the elementary school bulletin board.

That was all the youngsters needed.

Farm Support Plan Defended By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower defended his flexible farm price support program today while Congress hurried to provide additional funds to meet the growing cost of the program he wants to replace.

Eisenhower told his news conference that never during the 1952 presidential campaign had he promised to continue beyond 1954 the rigid price supports now due to expire at the end of this year. Sen. Young (R-ND) told the Senate yesterday Eisenhower had spoken in favor of the high support level.

Meantime the House voted 323-27 to cancel $741,648,788 of the debt the Commodity Credit Corp. owes the Treasury—in effect restoring that much to its lending power—and the Senate Agriculture Committee voted to add 1¾ billion dollars to the total authorized debt of the CCC.

The CCC is the agriculture agency which administers the crop support program through loan guarantees and purchase of surplus commodities. It reported last week that because of crop loans so far it had only about 16 million dollars left.

The money the house voted today will be added to that when the measure is finally approved. It was appropriated to pay losses of the CCC during the last year.

Security Agent Quits With Blast At Boss

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—William D. Huskey, a State Department security agent who has guarded scores of visiting foreign dignitaries, has quit his post with a declaration that it was "impossible" to work under Scott McLeod, the department's chief of security.

Huskey, a Democrat who has been with the department 12 years, told newsmen today that the agency was riddled with "fear and intimidation." He said McLeod had put impossible restrictions on his work.

Huskey was preparing to accompany President Celal Bayar of Turkey on his tour of the United States. His last tour was with King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece.

Kensington Stone Branded As Hoax

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27 (AP)—A language scholar today branded as a hoax the Kensington rune stone, purporting to show that Scandinavian explorers visited America 130 years before Columbus.

The stone was found in 1898 on a farm owned by Olof Ohman in Douglas County, Minn. It bore an inscription in the ancient runic alphabet telling of a supposed royal Norwegian-Swedish expedition to Minnesota in 1362 during which 10 members of the party were slain by Indians.

The Kensington stone has been a controversial subject ever since.

Dr. Erik Wahlgren, associate professor of Scandinavian and German at the University of California at Los Angeles, now says he has proof the stone is a fake. Dr. Wahlgren, who on a recent field trip visited the Ohman farm and searched Minnesota Historical Society archives, said his findings are based on these principal points:

Spelling errors in the inscription were directly traceable to an old encyclopedia found on the Ohman farm, all materials including the stone necessary to the inscription were obtainable on the Ohman farm, and inexplicable variations of the text were printed by newspapers of the day.

Five Honored For Risking Lives To Save Two Fliers

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 27 (AP)—Two women and three men received Carnegie hero medals today for risking their lives to pull two Air Force pilots from the burning wreckage of a plane near Dayton, Ohio.

The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission — endowed by the late steel king Andrew Carnegie — awarded 21 bronze medals and one silver medal for heroism in nine states and Canada.

Six persons in Ohio received awards, four in Canada, three in New York, two each in Maine and Missouri, and one each in California, Massachusetts, North Dakota, Kansas and Pennsylvania.

Five of those cited lost their lives.

The commission granted pensions totaling $2,880 a year in three cases, $1,000 in death benefits in two cases and $6,500 in awards for educational and other worthy purposes in 17 cases.

Receiving bronze medals in the Dayton plane crash were:

Mrs. Genevieve J. Zimmerman, 41, a housewife; her daughter, Darlene, 19, a student; Daniel H. Warner, 22, also a student; Marion R. Miller, 39, a farmer, and Vernon L. Wheeler, 54, a gravel pit operator. All reside along Dayton, R.D. 8, except Wheeler who lives in Dayton.

Mrs. Zimmerman and her daughter live about 400 feet from the site where the twin-engined Air Force plane bearing pilots John H. Saxon Jr., 30, and Hubert G. Pedersen, 36, crashed last Aug. 21.

The unconscious pilots were trapped in the plane which began to burn. Mrs. Zimmerman ran to the wreckage, pulled Saxon free of the cockpit and helped him walk a safe distance away.

She returned and with the aid of her daughter tried to remove Pedersen. They tugged and pulled at the twisted metal but couldn't free the trapped flier. Warner and Wheeler then appeared and tried to remove Pedersen. The heat from the flames was intense. Miller arrived and working together, the five managed to make a hole in the windshield. They removed Pedersen and hurried toward the edge of the field.

Moments later a burst of flames enveloped the entire plane.

Spanish Ship Crashes Into London Bridge

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Spanish cruise liner Monte Urquila ripped free from her tug escort in the gale-lashed river Thames tonight and crashed broadside into historic London Bridge.

Chunks of masonry from the old stone-built bridge fell on the liner's decks and pedestrians ran in fear the bridge was falling down.

As the 7,723-ton ship continued to buffet the bridge, police stopped traffic across it. The Thames was closed to traffic.

The bridge withstood the buffeting and 2½ hours later the Monte Urquila was pulled free by seven tugs and returned to her dock.

Johns-Manville Sales Up

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—Johns-Manville Corp. reported today 1953 sales set a new high record for the fourth year in a row at $252,642,136 which compared with $244,707,540 in 1952. Net income of $19,661,412 in 1953 was equal to $6.20 a share and compared with $22,619,951, or $7.14 a share in 1952.

Madrid Student Riots Continue

MADRID, Spain, Jan. 27 (AP)—Three students were reported wounded by gunfire and an assault guard was badly hurt today in the third day of street fighting touched off originally by demonstrations for return of Gibraltar by Britain to Spain.

Twelve students were arrested.

There were no signs of an end to the hostilities. The fighting today was more sporadic than previously, but more bitter. The rioters' ranks appeared to be narrowed to the medical and law students. In Coruna, northwestern Spain, 3,000 students paraded, then burned a British flag.

Top police officials and university leaders held separate meetings tonight in an effort to find a way of halting the demonstrations, which began Monday.

The four injured today brought the total casualties to more than 40. More than 20 have been arrested, but most were released after their identities had been checked.

Indochina has an estimated population of 27 million.

Congress Highlights

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The House of Representatives and a Senate committee acted in different ways today to make more money available for farm price supports.

The House voted $741,648,788 in appropriations to write off the Commodity Credit Corp. loss for the fiscal year. The Senate Agriculture Committee sent to the Senate a bill to raise the agency's borrowing power from 6¾ to 8½ billion dollars to finance crop loans and commodity purchases.

Other highlights:

Taxes—House Speaker Martin proposed that Congress act this year to cut to 10 per cent the many excise taxes now higher than that amount. He excepted only tobacco and liquor. Among other things, he would cut in half the taxes on furs, jewelry, cosmetics and entertainment.

Bricker Amendment—Sen. George (D-Ga) entered the battle over the Bricker amendment with a substitute which he said would make no change in the present division of state and federal powers but would invalidate any international agreement conflicting with the Constitution.

Investigations—The Senate voted $228,000 to finance investigations by its internal security subcommittee, and the Rules Committee approved $216,000 more for the investigations subcommittee. This would mean nearly a half million dollars for work of the groups headed by Senators Jenner (R-Ind) and McCarthy (R-Wis).

Statehood—A bill to grant statehood to Hawaii was approved by the Senate Interior Committee, which agreed to vote by Feb. 4 on a similar bill for Alaska.

Coffee—Two Senate committees indicated they may look into the cause of rising coffee prices, which already are being probed by the Federal Trade Commission.

Detroit Coppers Blush Over Antics Of Police Horse

DETROIT, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Detroit Police Department, usually proud of its horse mounted traffic division, today blushed over the antics of one steed.

A woman motorist, a Mrs. Milowndes, said the animal was downright unmannerly.

Mrs. Milowndes appeared in Traffic Court to answer a double parking charge.

She told Referee John C. Carney, she had no trouble with Patrolman Richard Gust until Gust's horse looked at her.

Gust said he stopped to ticket Mrs. Milowndes for double parking. As he was writing out the ticket, Mrs. Milowndes said Gust's horse sneezed in her face.

Carney said Mrs. Milowndes was guilty of double parking. But "because of the horse's impertinence I will suspend sentence."

Meanwhile, State Police started investigating.

A nearby radio station broadcast the story.

School officials took note of Lady Puggsy's plight on the elementary school bulletin board.

That was all the youngsters needed.

Earthquake Recorded

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 27 (AP)—The government seismological observatory recorded an earthquake today at 1:15 p.m. EST. The observatory said the center of the movement seemed to be about 200 miles from Mexico City in an undetermined direction.

A whale doesn't actually spout water. When coming to the surface after a dive, the whale exhales and the column of warm air condenses to water vapor upon contact with the cooler air.

Farm Support Plan Defended By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower defended his flexible farm price support program today while Congress hurried to provide additional funds to meet the growing cost of the program he wants to replace.

Eisenhower told his news conference that never during the 1952 presidential campaign had he promised to continue beyond 1954 the rigid price supports now due to expire at the end of this year. Sen. Young (R-ND) told the Senate yesterday Eisenhower had spoken in favor of the high support level.

Meantime the House voted 323-27 to cancel $741,648,788 of the debt the Commodity Credit Corp. owes the Treasury—in effect restoring that much to its lending power—and the Senate Agriculture Committee voted to add 1¾ billion dollars to the total authorized debt of the CCC.

The CCC is the agriculture agency which administers the crop support program through loan guarantees and purchase of surplus commodities. It reported last week that because of crop loans so far it had only about 16 million dollars left.

The money the house voted today will be added to that when the measure is finally approved. It was appropriated to pay losses of the CCC during the last year.

Security Agent Quits With Blast At Boss

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—William D. Huskey, a State Department security agent who has guarded scores of visiting foreign dignitaries, has quit his post with a declaration that it was "impossible" to work under Scott McLeod, the department's chief of security.

Huskey, a Democrat who has been with the department 12 years, told newsmen today that the agency was riddled with "fear and intimidation." He said McLeod had put impossible restrictions on his work.

Huskey was preparing to accompany President Celal Bayar of Turkey on his tour of the United States. His last tour was with King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece.

Kensington Stone Branded As Hoax

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27 (AP)—A language scholar today branded as a hoax the Kensington rune stone, purporting to show that Scandinavian explorers visited America 130 years before Columbus.

The stone was found in 1898 on a farm owned by Olof Ohman in Douglas County, Minn. It bore an inscription in the ancient runic alphabet telling of a supposed royal Norwegian-Swedish expedition to Minnesota in 1362 during which 10 members of the party were slain by Indians.

The Kensington stone has been a controversial subject ever since.

Dr. Erik Wahlgren, associate professor of Scandinavian and German at the University of California at Los Angeles, now says he has proof the stone is a fake. Dr. Wahlgren, who on a recent field trip visited the Ohman farm and searched Minnesota Historical Society archives, said his findings are based on these principal points:

Spelling errors in the inscription were directly traceable to an old encyclopedia found on the Ohman farm, all materials including the stone necessary to the inscription were obtainable on the Ohman farm, and inexplicable variations of the text were printed by newspapers of the day.

Five Honored For Risking Lives To Save Two Fliers

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 27 (AP)—Two women and three men received Carnegie hero medals today for risking their lives to pull two Air Force pilots from the burning wreckage of a plane near Dayton, Ohio.

The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission — endowed by the late steel king Andrew Carnegie — awarded 21 bronze medals and one silver medal for heroism in nine states and Canada.

Six persons in Ohio received awards, four in Canada, three in New York, two each in Maine and Missouri, and one each in California, Massachusetts, North Dakota, Kansas and Pennsylvania.

Five of those cited lost their lives.

The commission granted pensions totaling $2,880 a year in three cases, $1,000 in death benefits in two cases and $6,500 in awards for educational and other worthy purposes in 17 cases.

Receiving bronze medals in the Dayton plane crash were:

Mrs. Genevieve J. Zimmerman, 41, a housewife; her daughter, Darlene, 19, a student; Daniel H. Warner, 22, also a student; Marion R. Miller, 39, a farmer, and Vernon L. Wheeler, 54, a gravel pit operator. All reside along Dayton, R.D. 8, except Wheeler who lives in Dayton.

Mrs. Zimmerman and her daughter live about 400 feet from the site where the twin-engined Air Force plane bearing pilots John H. Saxon Jr., 30, and Hubert G. Pedersen, 36, crashed last Aug. 21.

The unconscious pilots were trapped in the plane which began to burn. Mrs. Zimmerman ran to the wreckage, pulled Saxon free of the cockpit and helped him walk a safe distance away.

She returned and with the aid of her daughter tried to remove Pedersen. They tugged and pulled at the twisted metal but couldn't free the trapped flier. Warner and Wheeler then appeared and tried to remove Pedersen. The heat from the flames was intense. Miller arrived and working together, the five managed to make a hole in the windshield. They removed Pedersen and hurried toward the edge of the field.

Moments later a burst of flames enveloped the entire plane.

Spanish Ship Crashes Into London Bridge

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Spanish cruise liner Monte Urquila ripped free from her tug escort in the gale-lashed river Thames tonight and crashed broadside into historic London Bridge.

Chunks of masonry from the old stone-built bridge fell on the liner's decks and pedestrians ran in fear the bridge was falling down.

As the 7,723-ton ship continued to buffet the bridge, police stopped traffic across it. The Thames was closed to traffic.

The bridge withstood the buffeting and 2½ hours later the Monte Urquila was pulled free by seven tugs and returned to her dock.

Johns-Manville Sales Up

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—Johns-Manville Corp. reported today 1953 sales set a new high record for the fourth year in a row at $252,642,136 which compared with $244,707,540 in 1952. Net income of $19,661,412 in 1953 was equal to $6.20 a share and compared with $22,619,951, or $7.14 a share in 1952.

Madrid Student Riots Continue

MADRID, Spain, Jan. 27 (AP)—Three students were reported wounded by gunfire and an assault guard was badly hurt today in the third day of street fighting touched off originally by demonstrations for return of Gibraltar by Britain to Spain.

Twelve students were arrested.

There were no signs of an end to the hostilities. The fighting today was more sporadic than previously, but more bitter. The rioters' ranks appeared to be narrowed to the medical and law students. In Coruna, northwestern Spain, 3,000 students paraded, then burned a British flag.

Top police officials and university leaders held separate meetings tonight in an effort to find a way of halting the demonstrations, which began Monday.

The four injured today brought the total casualties to more than 40. More than 20 have been arrested, but most were released after their identities had been checked.

Indochina has an estimated population of 27 million.

Congress Highlights

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The House of Representatives and a Senate committee acted in different ways today to make more money available for farm price supports.

The House voted $741,648,788 in appropriations to write off the Commodity Credit Corp. loss for the fiscal year. The Senate Agriculture Committee sent to the Senate a bill to raise the agency's borrowing power from 6¾ to 8½ billion dollars to finance crop loans and commodity purchases.

Other highlights:

Taxes—House Speaker Martin proposed that Congress act this year to cut to 10 per cent the many excise taxes now higher than that amount. He excepted only tobacco and liquor. Among other things, he would cut in half the taxes on furs, jewelry, cosmetics and entertainment.

Bricker Amendment—Sen. George (D-Ga) entered the battle over the Bricker amendment with a substitute which he said would make no change in the present division of state and federal powers but would invalidate any international agreement conflicting with the Constitution.

Investigations—The Senate voted $228,000 to finance investigations by its internal security subcommittee, and the Rules Committee approved $216,000 more for the investigations subcommittee. This would mean nearly a half million dollars for work of the groups headed by Senators Jenner (R-Ind) and McCarthy (R-Wis).

Statehood—A bill to grant statehood to Hawaii was approved by the Senate Interior Committee, which agreed to vote by Feb. 4 on a similar bill for Alaska.

Coffee—Two Senate committees indicated they may look into the cause of rising coffee prices, which already are being probed by the Federal Trade Commission.

Detroit Coppers Blush Over Antics Of Police Horse

DETROIT, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Detroit Police Department, usually proud of its horse mounted traffic division, today blushed over the antics of one steed.

A woman motorist, a Mrs. Milowndes, said the animal was downright unmannerly.

Mrs. Milowndes appeared in Traffic Court to answer a double parking charge.

She told Referee John C. Carney, she had no trouble with Patrolman Richard Gust until Gust's horse looked at her.

Gust said he stopped to ticket Mrs. Milowndes for double parking. As he was writing out the ticket, Mrs. Milowndes said Gust's horse sneezed in her face.

Carney said Mrs. Milowndes was guilty of double parking. But "because of the horse's impertinence I will suspend sentence."

Double Taxation Of Dividends

In an election year, Congress can be expected to study carefully President Eisenhower's budget proposal for some relief for the "millions of stockholders" who pay federal income tax on dividends. A Federal Reserve Board survey of consumer finances discloses that the proposal at best would bring direct tax relief to only eight per cent of U. S. families.

In early 1953, the survey shows, 92 per cent of all "spending units"—or families—owned no stocks. Of those with a money income of $1,000 before taxes, only two per cent owned stock. Of those with incomes between $5,000 and $7,500, only 10 per cent owned stocks. But of those with incomes of $7,500 or over, 28 per cent owned stocks.

Of the eight per cent of families who hold stocks, the greatest number are small holders. Of all families, only 0.5 per cent have stock holdings valued at $25,000 or over. Two per cent have holdings of between $5,000 and $25,000; another 2 per cent, holdings of between $1,000 and $5,000. Three per cent of all U. S. families hold stocks worth, in the aggregate, less than $500.

The President recommends for 1954 that "a credit of five per cent (on total tax payment) be allowed" as a "partial offset for the corporate tax previously paid" by the corporation issuing the dividend to the stockholder. For 1955: "a credit of 10 per cent"; for 1956 and later years: "15 per cent."

And, "to give the full benefit immediately to small stockholders," the President proposes "that the first $50 of dividends be completely exempted from tax in 1954 and that the first $100 be exempted in 1955 and later years."

Until 1936, dividends were not subject to the normal income tax, but they had to be added to the part of income subject to surtaxes. An earned-income tax credit reduced the inequity to the man making all his income by his labor.

The "double" taxation charged by critics of the present system arises from imposing an income tax on the net earnings of corporations, and then subjecting the distributed earnings to another income tax when they reach individuals in the form of dividends. This double taxation became more burdensome to stockholders with successive increases in the rate of the corporate income tax, now at 52 per cent in the aggregate for most corporations.

An impartial study made by the U. S. Treasury Department's Tax Research Division, originally published in 1946 and since revised, gives these pro and con equity arguments, among others, on double taxation of corporate income and dividends:

Con: If the corporation income tax is not passed on in higher prices or lower wages, it reduces profits available for dividends. Dividends may not immediately be reduced by the full amount of the tax, but ownership of stockholders will be decreased. Since dividends received by individuals are subject to regular individual income tax rates, combined operation of corporation and individual income taxes appears to result in double taxation.

Pro: In the aggregate, dividends are a much larger fraction of high incomes than of low, and the greater part of dividends is received by people with relatively high incomes. Thus, if the corporate tax reduces dividends, it reduces high incomes, in the aggregate and on the average, by a greater percentage than it reduces low incomes. . . . It is argued that the corporation income tax is a broadly progressive tax and that its use adds to the progressivity of the whole tax system.

Year Of Rabbit Ball?

Did batters in both major leagues have an advantage during 1953 that they didn't in the 1952 baseball season? This is a question which is bound to cause all kinds of trouble and may have some people backed against the outfield wall before it's over. An engineering testing company has released in an obscure publication statistics which may rock both leagues.

The civil engineering department of Cooper Union, a scientific testing institution, made tests on a batch of new baseballs from both major leagues. "Our tentative engineering conclusion is that the '53 baseball was a jackrabbit," writes the professor in charge of the experiment.

This is based on the rebound characteristics and the smaller compressions observed for the 1953 baseball. Both would indicate that the 1953 ball would travel farther than the '52 ball with the same applied force. The increase in distance would probably be about eight per cent.

Thus the difference between two of the balls might have meant the difference between a 300-foot out of the scorebooks in 1952 and a 324-foot home run in 1953. The information has been brought to the attention of both leagues and of manufacturers. All claim there was no intentional difference in specifications in the two years.

All this opens up a fascinating vista. Did some obscure employe in a position to do so alter the specifications of, say, the compression of the center? Or did someone in the factory or factories forget something or add something? No one will say with certainty, but the top slugger in each league hit 10 more homers in 1953 than in 1952.

Corn Plasters

New Zealand has tried, with fair success, to encourage the Maoris to assimilate Western culture without losing their old customs or the self respect and viability that went with them.

The visit of the King and Queen to New Zealand attracted attention to the Maoris and their strange mixture of cultures. When they entertained the royal couple with tribal ceremonies in front of reporters and news cameras, the aborigines were subjected to ribbing in the press.

The news stories pointed out, for instance, that some of the Maori clerks, engineers and stenographers were obviously unused to native costume. Some became badly sunburned when they had to go naked above the waist. They painted their faces to simulate genuine tattoo scars. Some even forgot to take off their corn plasters.

It made amusing reading, but it offended the Maoris' pride in their ancient culture. Underlying it was a patronizing implication that the culture was worthless, or that it was phony and not taken seriously.

The fact that the natives were angered by this light-hearted criticism demonstrated, however, that maintaining contact with their old culture while adjusting to the new was of real psychological importance to them.

How To Keep Well

Diarrhea Among Infants

At the turn of the century, diarrhea was a leading cause of death among infants. In those days it was not unusual for 2,000 tots to die each month from this cause in New York City alone. Nowadays, fatalities in children from diarrhea are uncommon.

There are numerous reasons for this improvement. The condition still is rife and now and then occurs in epidemic proportions. But we now know how to treat it and thus ward off the serious complications that formerly led to death. This is done by administering fluids and other nutrient solutions into the blood or under the skin to prevent dehydration and acidosis. Furthermore, many remedies are available to quiet bowel action.

In most instances the cause of diarrhea is infection. In the past, the disease was prevalent in the summer when the weather was hot and humid. It was believed that high atmospheric temperatures reduced the body's ability to cope with micro-organisms, making children more susceptible to bacterial invasion. But this was before the days of refrigeration, pasteurization, and modern sanitation. Corrections along this line have helped but have not eradicated diarrhea entirely. In many parts of the country the hospital census goes up during the winter months as a result of diarrhea in infants and the source of contamination is traceable to respiratory infections rather than to food. So long as the common cold is free to come and go, we can expect a certain amount of diarrhea and intestinal flu. It is not unusual for the youngest member of the family to come down with diarrhea while the older brothers and sisters suffer from running nose, sore throat, or tonsilitis.

In mild diarrhea, the tot may have four to six loose stools a day. He is irritable and lethargic and may refuse to eat for a day or two. Beyond this, nothing else happens. Within 48 hours the condition is brought under control and the feeling of well being returns. On the other hand, if it progresses and becomes more severe, the child will lose water and salt so rapidly, dehydration occurs within 24 hours. As fever mounts the skin becomes hot and dry and convulsions follow. Unless treatment is started death may ensue. Most parents are aware of this danger and call for help before it is too late.

At the hospital, fluids are given into the vein or under the skin and occasionally blood transfusion is needed. The usual bismuth or kaolin products are administered to slow bowel action. Antibiotics like aureomycin and terramycin and the suffonamides are successful in sterilizing the bowel. When these measures are instituted the response is dramatic; within 24 hours the youngster is well on the road to recovery.

TOMORROW: Suit the remedy to the case.

NO HAZARD

Mrs. T. writes: Is there any danger that electric heaters will generate carbon monoxide gas?

REPLY

No.

DIFFERENT PHASES

W. L. writes: What is the difference between acute and chronic diseases and are both curable?

REPLY

A disease is acute when it reaches a crisis rapidly and then subsides. Chronic conditions usually linger and some, like arteriosclerosis, may exist for several decades before causing symptoms. Chronic diseases are less likely to be cured than acute cases.

ALCOHOL AND THE LIVER

K. E. M. writes: My husband drinks heavily over the weekend and has developed hepatitis. Is this disease caused by alcohol?

REPLY

No, but no one with liver disease should drink. Unless your husband mends his ways he is a good candidate for cirrhosis of the liver.

BARBITURATE ADDICTION

S. J. L. writes: Is phenobarbital habit forming?

REPLY

Not when used in recommended dosage by individuals who are emotionally stable. The same cannot be said of the neurotic type who use the sedative as a crutch to escape reality. Regardless of the personality, however, the barbiturates may become habit forming if used in large amounts.

THE OLD ROCKER

M. L. writes: Would sitting in a rocking chair prove helpful to a person with a circulatory disturbance?

REPLY

I doubt it although it is conceivable that if the legs are held out in front and the individual rocks slowly, the flow of blood will be encouraged through gravity.

CORTISONE AND THE HEART

A. P. writes: Does cortisone have any bad effects on the heart?

REPLY

Not on the normal heart. On the other hand, when the heart is severely involved in rheumatic fever, ACTH or cortisone may prove life saving. Conversely, when the old ticker is disabled by arteriosclerosis or high blood pressure, these hormones may have an adverse effect on the organ.

Secretary Benson Bounces Butter Problem Inside Cabinet; State Department Security Official Quits Just Before Turkish President Arrives

WASHINGTON — Here is what happened inside the Eisenhower cabinet regarding the controversial, dynamite-laden but very tempting Russian offer to buy 44,000,000 pounds of surplus American butter.

Actually, the Commodity Credit Corporation, the Agriculture Department subsidiary which buys and stores butter, had OK'd the butter deal. They felt that even if the Russian price was a little low, it would be wise to get part of our butter surplus out of warehouses before it spoiled.

This was the general line, therefore, that sincere, much-criticized Secretary of Agriculture Benson took at the cabinet meeting. He pointed out that butter was accumulating in American warehouses at the rate of over 1,000,000 pounds a day and that getting rid of it was a very real problem.

He also pointed out that the United States was already selling tallow to Soviet Russia, and butter was no more strategic than tallow.

Another argument was that Russia didn't have to have the butter from us. She could buy it elsewhere if she couldn't purchase it on the American market.

Finally Benson pointed out that by stopping the butter sale, the administration would only lose money for the American taxpayers, since the butter would not keep indefinitely. While the butter would be sold a little cheaper than the U. S. support price, even so, it was argued, this was better than a total loss.

Benson Overruled

No one at the cabinet meeting disagreed with Benson on any of the points he raised. The only point where they differed was regarding the reaction of the American public. And almost every member of the cabinet who expressed himself said that to sell butter to Rússia at a cheaper price than to the American housewife would create a nationwide furor.

The support price for butter paid by the Department of Agriculture today is around 67 cents a pound. The world price for butter, offered by Russia, is around 46 cents a pound. This difference of 21 cents a pound, the cabinet finally decided, would bring a very sour reaction from American housewives.

Lower Butter Prices

However, the sale was not entirely killed—as Harold Stassen indicated later. And here is the strategy being discussed for the future.

By April 1, Secretary Benson has to make up his mind whether he will support dairy prices during the coming year. And according to present tentative thinking inside the administration, he will reduce support prices. Benson himself has been a great friend of the dairymen, but administration policies are to reduce farm prices somewhat and he will go along with that policy.

This will put the new price of butter nearer the Russian offer of 46 cents a pound, in which case, it's argued, the Soviet sale would be much more favorably received by the public. Actually the butter already accumulated, and which will be sold, will still be priced at 67 cents, but new butter purchased under the new price-support plan would be cheaper.

Security Officer Quits

Guarding a foreign president while visiting the United States is an extremely delicate, difficult job, and a lot of preparation went into the welcome of Turkish President Celal Bayar who has just arrived in Washington.

President Celal Bayar represents one of the best friends the United States has any place in Europe or Asia. Likewise he happens to be a stubborn foe of adjacent Soviet Russia, which has long coveted the famed waterway connecting the Black Sea with the outside world over which Turkey stands guard.

U. S. officials, therefore, are not unmindful of the fact that a Secret Communist attempt on the Turkish president's life while visiting in the U.S.A. would be interpreted in Turkey as coming from an American and could seriously disrupt relations between the two countries. It was the Nazi-inspired murder of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, while visiting in France before the war, which disrupted Franco-Yugoslav relations and became one step in the march of events leading to war.

Chief job of guarding the life of the visiting president has been that of State Department Security Officer William Huskey, who planned the protection of the King and Queen of Greece and various other visiting dignitaries.

Huskey happens to be a Democrat. His new boss in the State Department, Scott McLeod, happens to be not only a Republican but a close friend of Senator McCarthy, and has been busy as a street cleaner sweeping out every Democrat he could lay his hands on.

McLeod, however, never knew what Huskey's politics were, until one day before the arrival of the Turkish president.

On that day Huskey quit. Ironically, he took a job with the Democratic National Committee.

Bricker Amendment And Berlin Airlift

General Lucius D. Clay, stating opposition to the Bricker Amendment, has this to say:

". . . The necessity of calling Congress into special session and, even if Congress were already in session, holding committee hearings and floor debate, before the President could make such urgent and vital agreements as the arrangements with Great Britain and France for the Berlin Airlift would cripple our military strength to resist aggression just as effectively as the loss of a number of our best divisions of air wings . . ."

That is a very good point to make because many Americans still wonder how it happened that by executive agreement, the United States got stuck with a zone in Berlin which has neither an entrance nor an exit except through Russian territory. That is why the stupendously costly Berlin Airlift was necessary.

One would expect anyone, when he assumed responsibility for an area, for the lives of the people in that area, for his own troops, would make provisions to get in and out of the place at all times and under any circumstances. This was not done with regard to Berlin.

When the Russians cut off our communications, it became necessary to devise the Berlin Airlift and those who devised it are to be praised for their efficiency in its operations. But why did no one think in advance about an entrance an an exit!

The American government should have known in 1943 (Teheran) and February 1945 (Yalta) that Soviet Russia was no longer our ally. The zoning of Berlin was finally arranged by a declaration signed by Allied commanders at Berlin June 5, 1945. By that time there could have been no doubt as to Russia's duplicity. Nevertheless, the Americans went ahead accepting a zone without an entrance or an exit.

And while American public opinion excited itself over the Berlin Airlift, which should never have been necessary, Soviet Russia literally walked off with China. So we got the zone of a German city and the Russians got China!

This is precisely the major reason for the stirring campaign for the Bricker Amendment. It is beyond belief that at the two Quebec conferences, at several Moscow conferences, at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam deals were made and agreements signed which have, from any standpoint, involved us in a state of permanent war.

It is true that if the Bricker Amendment is adopted it will no longer be permissible to avoid writing a treaty over matters which truly require treaties; it will no longer be possible to do by executive agreement that which rightfully belongs in a treaty.

Green Haywood Hackworth, legal adviser to the State Department, in 1940, before a committee of Congress, stated:

"From the point of view of international law, treaties and executive agreements are alike in that both constitute equally binding obligations upon the nation. From the point of view of our constitutional law, however, there are important differences of substance as well as of form. Treaties may be negotiated which depart widely from our existing laws or policies, and the Senate in approving their ratification is subject to no restraint or consideration within the general limits of the treaty-makng power under our form of government other than what is best for our nation. But the President in making executive agreements has no such free hand. He must act scrupulously within the laws and conform to the policies already established by the Congress."

While this is a correct definition of treaties, executive agreements and their differences, the history of our international relations establishes confusion not stipulated in this definition. Theodore Roosevelt stated the case as follows:

"The Constitution did not explicitly give me power to bring about the necessary agreement with Santo Domingo. But the Constitution did not forbid my doing what I did. I put the agreement into effect, and I continued its execution for two years before the Senate acted; and I would have continued it until the end of my term, if necessary, without any action by Congress. But it was far preferable that there should be action by Congress, so that we might be proceeding under a treaty which was the law of the land and not merely by a direction of the chief executive which would lapse when that particular executive left office. I therefore did my best to get the Senate to ratify what I had done."

His successors were not so meticulous.

Matter Of Fact

Where Is Dien Bien Phu?

WASHINGTON

For the first time, the French government has asked the American government to send American troops to the Indo-China War.

The number requested is not great — only 400 air mechanics and maintenance men from the Far East Air Force, to meet an emergency that has recently arisen. The French have indicated that civilian mechanics will do just as well, if the needed number can be found in time. If troops are sent, they will probably not go in uniform. When they arrive, they will find a small training mission of American air maintenance specialists already at work at the Hanoi and Haiphong airfields.

Nonetheless, the French request marks a grave turning point. The French did not ask for the American training mission. In fact, they were most reluctant to accept it, because they were afraid of provoking Chinese Communist intervention. Until now, they have never made a request like the present one, because they did not want American troops in Indo-China. But all that is changing now, as reported in this space.

In short the new French request, though small enough in itself, is very big as a symptom. And the cause of the request, although it will seem incredibly remote to most Americans, is also a very big symptom of the critical nature of the situation in the Far East.

Assumption Began Exploding

The chain of events that led to the new French request, began about a month ago. At that time, Gen. Navarre ordered the establishment of a fortified French outpost in the valley of Dien Bien Phu, a place in northern Indo-China that commands the approaches to Laos. Dien Bien Phu was taken by parachutists. Some 13 of the best French battalions were flown in. The work of fortification and supply build-up was started.

When the order was given to establish the Dien Bien Phu outpost, the French high command still firmly believed that the Communist armies of the Viet Minh would never again attack a fortified French position. The Viet Minh commanders were believed to be "once burned, twice shy." Moreover, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the Viet Minh commander-in-chief, had never before used more than about a division and a half in active combat at one time. The supply shortage had forbidden him to stage larger operations.

For these reasons, the occupation of Dien Bien Phu was thought to involve little or no risk. Thirteen battalions was too large a force to be endangered by a division and a half of the enemy. No enemy attack was expected anyway. The hope was, in fact, that a small number of battalions could hold the fortified post, while the rest attacked the main Viet Minh supply roads.

All these assumptions and expectations began to explode with a loud bang rather soon after the French were fully committed at Dien Bien Phu. The enemy performed the remarkably difficult feat of dragging a considerable number of 37 and 40 millimeter anti-aircraft guns over the mountains, and moving them into position around the Dien Bien Phu perimeter. The approaches to the two small airfields at Dien Bien Phu are extremely difficult. The unarmed transports making their approaches with supplies for the garrison were highly vulnerable to AA-fire.

Human Odds Favor Reds

This shrewd enemy use of aircraft guns caused deep alarm in Saigon and a new panic in Paris about a fortnight ago: Dien Bien Phu cannot be supplied except by air. Any interruption of the air supply held the threat of fatal consequences. Thus the American air mechanics were asked for, to make sure that the damaged transports would be rapidly repaired and the air lift would not be interrupted.

But the AA guns around the Dien Bien Phu perimeter are only part of the story. Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap has also collected a force of totally unprecedented power and moved it up to attacking positions. At least two and a half more, probably three, Viet Minh divisions now surround the little bowl in the mountain that is Dien Bien Phu. The human odds are thus on the order of two and a half to one in favor of the Communists.

What the real odds may be, is another question. In part the answer depends upon the success of the air lift. In part also, it depends on the tenacity and vigor of the French defense. The French commander at Dien Bien Phu is the famous Col. Christian de Castries, who once boasted to one of these reporters of being "the only colonel commanding a division." He has been promoted, since he now has under him the equivalent of a division and a half. He has 19 battlefield citations. He is as foxy as he is brave. If any man can win the day, he should.

A victory at Dien Bien Phu — the smashing of the Viet Minh attack that is just now beginning to develop — would bring enormous returns. The balance of the fighting in Indo-China would be drastically improved. Almost more important, the climate in Paris would be much improved too.

But one thing, alas, is certain. A defeat at Dien Bien Phu, or even a fairly mild French reverse at Dien Bien Phu, will cause the same kind of reactions in Paris that Yorktown caused in Paris 171 years ago. The French will then start to pull out of Indo-China. Of this, the State Department has been plainly and officially warned. No wonder, then, that the National Security Council has been anxiously debating the problem during these last day. The future of Asia may well be at stake in this remote and obscure engagement.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Unfortunately newspaper headlines printed in the United States each day do not reach the people of Europe — at least not right away. So it is regrettable that the people of Great Britain, France and other European countries haven't seen yet the headlines of the last day or two in which it is emphasized in all the dispatches that Senator McCarthy "backed down" or "surrendered" or "retreated" in his controversy with three Democratic senators.

So much has been written abroad about Senator McCarthy as a "dictator," and repeated by returning American visitors, that the latest evidence should be instructive to Europeans. If the Wisconsin senator wasn't powerful enough even to dictate to a minority of his committee, he can't be much of a dictator. Yet abroad they speak of him as about to seize the reins of government any day.

Desirable Reform

What they fail to perceive in Europe is that in the United States public opinion is sovereign and that, when the three Democratic senators staged a walkout last summer because of their insistence that committee staff members be hired and fired by a majority of the committee rather than by the chairman, it was a significant protest. In due time heed was paid to this principle which, by the way, affects all congressional committees. For it should not be assumed that the present episode is the first in which the one-man power of the chairman has been asserted. It has happened just as often when the Democrats were in command of congressional committees, and what has just been adopted—to make a majority vote necessary — is, of course, a desirable reform.

But public opinion works in another way, too. Just as Senator McCarthy said that he didn't like to see one party manning the subcommittee and that the two-party system required representation of the minority as well as majority, it became important for the Democrats not to place themselves in the position of being unwilling to help investigate Communists in government and problems affecting governmental operations which the subcommittee of the Committee on Governmental Operations is authorized to investigate.

So the controversy now has been resolved satisfactorily. It is a fact that Senator McCarthy reversed his position of last summer in the interest of committee harmony. Nobody was put in a concentration camp and nobody was seized and deprived of his right to free speech —and yet there are Americans and Europeans who have slandered the Wisconsin senator by calling him a "Hitler."

Senator McCarthy, moreover, has been attacked as having a presidential ambition. This is supposed to be an improper motive. The point has been made by McCarthy's enemies that he is engaged in the anti-Communist crusade merely to get publicity so he can run for president. What such observers fail to note is that neither political party in recent years—especially after the 1928 experience with the Al Smith candidacy —has shown signs of nominating any Catholic to the presidency. "Liberals" have not said much about this form of discrimination, though the hero of the "liberals"—Franklin D. Roosevelt — was charged in James A. Farley's book with having told a newspaper writer in 1940 that Farley couldn't be named for the vice presidency because of his religion.

Doesn't Seek Presidency

For all practical purposes, there isn't the remotest chance that Senator McCarthy will ever be a candidate for the presidency. This correspondent asked him for a statement on it recently, and he dictated the following:

"I have no interest and no ambition at all in that direction, to be nominated for President of the United States. I think I can do a better job where I am. No one has ever been nominated unless he has gone out for it, and I do not intend to go out for the nomination. There is no such thing as a draft. Unless you go out and work for a nomination, there is no draft.

"I think that pretty well covers it—about as positive as anyone can make it, I think. You'll find that it is not by friends who are talking about McCarthy being a candidate for president. With a very few exceptions, you'll find that those talking about McCarthy being a candidate for president have always been against me, and 90 per cent of them were not for Eisenhower in the last election and will not be for me in the next election, and they are trying to make it appear that I have some interest other than the public interest."

Double Taxation Of Dividends

In an election year, Congress can be expected to study carefully President Eisenhower's budget proposal for some relief for the "millions of stockholders" who pay federal income tax on dividends. A Federal Reserve Board survey of consumer finances discloses that the proposal at best would bring direct tax relief to only eight per cent of U. S. families.

In early 1953, the survey shows, 92 per cent of all "spending units"—or families—owned no stocks. Of those with a money income of $1,000 before taxes, only two per cent owned stock. Of those with incomes between $5,000 and $7,500, only 10 per cent owned stocks. But of those with incomes of $7,500 or over, 28 per cent owned stocks.

Of the eight per cent of families who hold stocks, the greatest number are small holders. Of all families, only 0.5 per cent have stock holdings valued at $25,000 or over. Two per cent have holdings of between $5,000 and $25,000; another 2 per cent, holdings of between $1,000 and $5,000. Three per cent of all U. S. families hold stocks worth, in the aggregate, less than $500.

The President recommends for 1954 that "a credit of five per cent (on total tax payment) be allowed" as a "partial offset for the corporate tax previously paid" by the corporation issuing the dividend to the stockholder. For 1955: "a credit of 10 per cent"; for 1956 and later years: "15 per cent."

And, "to give the full benefit immediately to small stockholders," the President proposes "that the first $50 of dividends be completely exempted from tax in 1954 and that the first $100 be exempted in 1955 and later years."

Until 1936, dividends were not subject to the normal income tax, but they had to be added to the part of income subject to surtaxes. An earned-income tax credit reduced the inequity to the man making all his income by his labor.

The "double" taxation charged by critics of the present system arises from imposing an income tax on the net earnings of corporations, and then subjecting the distributed earnings to another income tax when they reach individuals in the form of dividends. This double taxation became more burdensome to stockholders with successive increases in the rate of the corporate income tax, now at 52 per cent in the aggregate for most corporations.

An impartial study made by the U. S. Treasury Department's Tax Research Division, originally published in 1946 and since revised, gives these pro and con equity arguments, among others, on double taxation of corporate income and dividends:

Con: If the corporation income tax is not passed on in higher prices or lower wages, it reduces profits available for dividends. Dividends may not immediately be reduced by the full amount of the tax, but ownership of stockholders will be decreased. Since dividends received by individuals are subject to regular individual income tax rates, combined operation of corporation and individual income taxes appears to result in double taxation.

Pro: In the aggregate, dividends are a much larger fraction of high incomes than of low, and the greater part of dividends is received by people with relatively high incomes. Thus, if the corporate tax reduces dividends, it reduces high incomes, in the aggregate and on the average, by a greater percentage than it reduces low incomes. . . . It is argued that the corporation income tax is a broadly progressive tax and that its use adds to the progressivity of the whole tax system.

Diarrhea Among Infants

At the turn of the century, diarrhea was a leading cause of death among infants. In those days it was not unusual for 2,000 tots to die each month from this cause in New York City alone. Nowadays, fatalities in children from diarrhea are uncommon.

Within 48 hours the condition is brought under control and the feeling of well being returns. On the other hand, if it progresses and becomes more severe, the child will lose water and salt so rapidly, dehydration occurs within 24 hours. As fever mounts the skin becomes hot and dry and convulsions follow. Unless treatment is started death may ensue. Most parents are aware of this danger and call for help before it is too late.

At the hospital, fluids are given into the vein or under the skin and occasionally blood transfusion is needed. The usual bismuth or kaolin products are administered to slow bowel action. Antibiotics like aureomycin and terramycin and the suffonamides are successful in sterilizing the bowel. When these measures are instituted the response is dramatic; within 24 hours the youngster is well on the road to recovery.

TOMORROW: Suit the remedy to the case.

NO HAZARD

Mrs. T. writes: Is there any danger that electric heaters will generate carbon monoxide gas?

REPLY

No.

DIFFERENT PHASES

W. L. writes: What is the difference between acute and chronic diseases and are both curable?

REPLY

A disease is acute when it reaches a crisis rapidly and then subsides. Chronic conditions usually linger and some, like arteriosclerosis, may exist for several decades before causing symptoms. Chronic diseases are less likely to be cured than acute cases.

ALCOHOL AND THE LIVER

K. E. M. writes: My husband drinks heavily over the weekend and has developed hepatitis. Is this disease caused by alcohol?

REPLY

No, but no one with liver disease should drink. Unless your husband mends his ways he is a good candidate for cirrhosis of the liver.

BARBITURATE ADDICTION

S. J. L. writes: Is phenobarbital habit forming?

REPLY

Not when used in recommended dosage by individuals who are emotionally stable. The same cannot be said of the neurotic type who use the sedative as a crutch to escape reality. Regardless of the personality, however, the barbiturates may become habit forming if used in large amounts.

THE OLD ROCKER

M. L. writes: Would sitting in a rocking chair prove helpful to a person with a circulatory disturbance?

REPLY

I doubt it although it is conceivable that if the legs are held out in front and the individual rocks slowly, the flow of blood will be encouraged through gravity.

CORTISONE AND THE HEART

A. P. writes: Does cortisone have any bad effects on the heart?

REPLY

Not on the normal heart. On the other hand, when the heart is severely involved in rheumatic fever, ACTH or cortisone may prove life saving. Conversely, when the old ticker is disabled by arteriosclerosis or high blood pressure, these hormones may have an adverse effect on the organ.

Secretary Benson Bounces Butter Problem Inside Cabinet; State Department Security Official Quits Just Before Turkish President Arrives

WASHINGTON — Here is what happened inside the Eisenhower cabinet regarding the controversial, dynamite-laden but very tempting Russian offer to buy 44,000,000 pounds of surplus American butter.

Actually, the Commodity Credit Corporation, the Agriculture Department subsidiary which buys and stores butter, had OK'd the butter deal. They felt that even if the Russian price was a little low, it would be wise to get part of our butter surplus out of warehouses before it spoiled.

This was the general line, therefore, that sincere, much-criticized Secretary of Agriculture Benson took at the cabinet meeting. He pointed out that butter was accumulating in American warehouses at the rate of over 1,000,000 pounds a day and that getting rid of it was a very real problem.

He also pointed out that the United States was already selling tallow to Soviet Russia, and butter was no more strategic than tallow.

Another argument was that Russia didn't have to have the butter from us. She could buy it elsewhere if she couldn't purchase it on the American market.

Finally Benson pointed out that by stopping the butter sale, the administration would only lose money for the American taxpayers, since the butter would not keep indefinitely. While the butter would be sold a little cheaper than the U. S. support price, even so, it was argued, this was better than a total loss.

Benson Overruled

No one at the cabinet meeting disagreed with Benson on any of the points he raised. The only point where they differed was regarding the reaction of the American public. And almost every member of the cabinet who expressed himself said that to sell butter to Russia at a cheaper price than to the American housewife would create a nationwide furor.

The support price for butter paid by the Department of Agriculture today is around 67 cents a pound. The world price for butter, offered by Russia, is around 46 cents a pound. This difference of 21 cents a pound, the cabinet finally decided, would bring a very sour reaction from American housewives.

Lower Butter Prices

However, the sale was not entirely killed—as Harold Stassen indicated later. And here is the strategy being discussed for the future.

By April 1, Secretary Benson has to make up his mind whether he will support dairy prices during the coming year. And according to present tentative thinking inside the administration, he will reduce support prices. Benson himself has been a great friend of the dairymen, but administration policies are to reduce farm prices somewhat and he will go along with that policy.

This will put the new price of butter nearer the Russian offer of 46 cents a pound, in which case, it's argued, the Soviet sale would be much more favorably received by the public. Actually the butter already accumulated, and which will be sold, will still be priced at 67 cents, but new butter purchased under the new price-support plan would be cheaper.

Security Officer Quits

Guarding a foreign president while visiting the United States is an extremely delicate, difficult job, and a lot of preparation went into the welcome of Turkish President Celal Bayar who has just arrived in Washington.

President Celal Bayar represents one of the best friends the United States has any place in Europe or Asia. Likewise he happens to be a stubborn foe of adjacent Soviet Russia, which has long coveted the famed waterway connecting the Black Sea with the outside world over which Turkey stands guard.

U. S. officials, therefore, are not unmindful of the fact that a Secret Communist attempt on the Turkish president's life while visiting in the U.S.A. would be interpreted in Turkey as coming from an American and could seriously disrupt relations between the two countries. It was the Nazi-inspired murder of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, while visiting in France before the war, which disrupted Franco-Yugoslav relations and became one step in the march of events leading to war.

Chief job of guarding the life of the visiting president has been that of State Department Security Officer William Huskey, who planned the protection of the King and Queen of Greece and various other visiting dignitaries.

Huskey happens to be a Democrat. His new boss in the State Department, Scott McLeod, happens to be not only a Republican but a close friend of Senator McCarthy, and has been busy as a street cleaner sweeping out every Democrat he could lay his hands on.

McLeod, however, never knew what Huskey's politics were, until one day before the arrival of the Turkish president.

On that day Huskey quit. Ironically, he took a job with the Democratic National Committee.

Bricker Amendment And Berlin Airlift

General Lucius D. Clay, stating opposition to the Bricker Amendment, has this to say:

". . . The necessity of calling Congress into special session and, even if Congress were already in session, holding committee hearings and floor debate, before the President could make such urgent and vital agreements as the arrangements with Great Britain and France for the Berlin Airlift would cripple our military strength to resist aggression just as effectively as the loss of a number of our best divisions of air wings . . ."

That is a very good point to make because many Americans still wonder how it happened that by executive agreement, the United States got stuck with a zone in Berlin which has neither an entrance nor an exit except through Russian territory. That is why the stupendously costly Berlin Airlift was necessary.

One would expect anyone, when he assumed responsibility for an area, for the lives of the people in that area, for his own troops, would make provisions to get in and out of the place at all times and under any circumstances. This was not done with regard to Berlin.

When the Russians cut off our communications, it became necessary to devise the Berlin Airlift and those who devised it are to be praised for their efficiency in its operations. But why did no one think in advance about an entrance an an exit!

The American government should have known in 1943 (Teheran) and February 1945 (Yalta) that Soviet Russia was no longer our ally. The zoning of Berlin was finally arranged by a declaration signed by Allied commanders at Berlin June 5, 1945. By that time there could have been no doubt as to Russia's duplicity. Nevertheless, the Americans went ahead accepting a zone without an entrance or an exit.

And while American public opinion excited itself over the Berlin Airlift, which should never have been necessary, Soviet Russia literally walked off with China. So we got the zone of a German city and the Russians got China!

This is precisely the major reason for the stirring campaign for the Bricker Amendment. It is beyond belief that at the two Quebec conferences, at several Moscow conferences, at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam deals were made and agreements signed which have, from any standpoint, involved us in a state of permanent war.

It is true that if the Bricker Amendment is adopted it will no longer be permissible to avoid writing a treaty over matters which truly require treaties; it will no longer be possible to do by executive agreement that which rightfully belongs in a treaty.

Green Haywood Hackworth, legal adviser to the State Department, in 1940, before a committee of Congress, stated:

"From the point of view of international law, treaties and executive agreements are alike in that both constitute equally binding obligations upon the nation. From the point of view of our constitutional law, however, there are important differences of substance as well as of form. Treaties may be negotiated which depart widely from our existing laws or policies, and the Senate in approving their ratification is subject to no restraint or consideration within the general limits of the treaty-makng power under our form of government other than what is best for our nation. But the President in making executive agreements has no such free hand. He must act scrupulously within the laws and conform to the policies already established by the Congress."

While this is a correct definition of treaties, executive agreements and their differences, the history of our international relations establishes confusion not stipulated in this definition. Theodore Roosevelt stated the case as follows:

"The Constitution did not explicitly give me power to bring about the necessary agreement with Santo Domingo. But the Constitution did not forbid my doing what I did. I put the agreement into effect, and I continued its execution for two years before the Senate acted; and I would have continued it until the end of my term, if necessary, without any action by Congress. But it was far preferable that there should be action by Congress, so that we might be proceeding under a treaty which was the law of the land and not merely by a direction of the chief executive which would lapse when that particular executive left office. I therefore did my best to get the Senate to ratify what I had done."

His successors were not so meticulous.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Where Is Dien Bien Phu?

WASHINGTON

For the first time, the French government has asked the American government to send American troops to the Indo-China War.

The number requested is not great — only 400 air mechanics and maintenance men from the Far East Air Force, to meet an emergency that has recently arisen. The French have indicated that civilian mechanics will do just as well, if the needed number can be found in time. If troops are sent, they will probably not go in uniform. When they arrive, they will find a small training mission of American air maintenance specialists already at work at the Hanoi and Haiphong airfields.

Nonetheless, the French request marks a grave turning point. The French did not ask for the American training mission. In fact, they were most reluctant to accept it, because they were afraid of provoking Chinese Communist intervention. Until now, they have never made a request like the present one, because they did not want American troops in Indo-China. But all that is changing now, as reported in this space.

In short the new French request, though small enough in itself, is very big as a symptom. And the cause of the request, although it will seem incredibly remote to most Americans, is also a very big symptom of the critical nature of the situation in the Far East.

Assumption Began Exploding

The chain of events that led to the new French request, began about a month ago. At that time, Gen. Navarre ordered the establishment of a fortified French outpost in the valley of Dien Bien Phu, a place in northern Indo-China that commands the approaches to Laos. Dien Bien Phu was taken by parachutists. Some 13 of the best French battalions were flown in. The work of fortification and supply build-up was started.

When the order was given to establish the Dien Bien Phu outpost, the French high command still firmly believed that the Communist armies of the Viet Minh would never again attack a fortified French position. The Viet Minh commanders were believed to be "once burned, twice shy." Moreover, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the Viet Minh commander-in-chief, had never before used more than about a division and a half in active combat at one time. The supply shortage had forbidden him to stage larger operations.

For these reasons, the occupation of Dien Bien Phu was thought to involve little or no risk. Thirteen battalions was too large a force to be endangered by a division and a half of the enemy. No enemy attack was expected anyway. The hope was, in fact, that a small number of battalions could hold the fortified post, while the rest attacked the main Viet Minh supply roads.

All these assumptions and expectations began to explode with a loud bang rather soon after the French were fully committed at Dien Bien Phu. The enemy performed the remarkably difficult feat of dragging a considerable number of 37 and 40 millimeter anti-aircraft guns over the mountains, and moving them into position around the Dien Bien Phu perimeter. The approaches to the two small airfields at Dien Bien Phu are extremely difficult. The unarmed transports making their approaches with supplies for the garrison were highly vulnerable to AA-fire.

Human Odds Favor Reds

This shrewd enemy use of aircraft guns caused deep alarm in Saigon and a new panic in Paris about a fortnight ago: Dien Bien Phu cannot be supplied except by air. Any interruption of the air supply held the threat of fatal consequences. Thus the American air mechanics were asked for, to make sure that the damaged transports would be rapidly repaired and the air lift would not be interrupted.

But the AA guns around the Dien Bien Phu perimeter are only part of the story. Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap has also collected a force of totally unprecedented power and moved it up to attacking positions. At least two and a half more, probably three, Viet Minh divisions now surround the little bowl in the mountain that is Dien Bien Phu. The human odds are thus on the order of two and a half to one in favor of the Communists.

What the real odds may be, is another question. In part the answer depends upon the success of the air lift. In part also, it depends on the tenacity and vigor of the French defense. The French commander at Dien Bien Phu is the famous Col. Christian de Castries, who once boasted to one of these reporters of being "the only colonel commanding a division." He has been promoted, since he now has under him the equivalent of a division and a half. He has 19 battlefield citations. He is as foxy as he is brave. If any man can win the day, he should.

A victory at Dien Bien Phu — the smashing of the Viet Minh attack that is just now beginning to develop — would bring enormous returns. The balance of the fighting in Indo-China would be drastically improved. Almost more important, the climate in Paris would be much improved too.

But one thing, alas, is certain. A defeat at Dien Bien Phu, or even a fairly mild French reverse at Dien Bien Phu, will cause the same kind of reactions in Paris that Yorktown caused in Paris 171 years ago. The French will then start to pull out of Indo-China. Of this, the State Department has been plainly and officially warned. No wonder, then, that the National Security Council has been anxiously debating the problem during these last day. The future of Asia may well be at stake in this remote and obscure engagement.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Unfortunately newspaper headlines printed in the United States each day do not reach the people of Europe — at least not right away. So it is regrettable that the people of Great Britain, France and other European countries haven't seen yet the headlines of the last day or two in which it is emphasized in all the dispatches that Senator McCarthy "backed down" or "surrendered" or "retreated" in his controversy with three Democratic senators.

So much has been written abroad about Senator McCarthy as a "dictator," and repeated by returning American visitors, that the latest evidence should be instructive to Europeans. If the Wisconsin senator wasn't powerful enough even to dictate to a minority of his committee, he can't be much of a dictator. Yet abroad they speak of him as about to seize the reins of government any day.

Desirable Reform

What they fail to perceive in Europe is that in the United States public opinion is sovereign and that, when the three Democratic senators staged a walkout last summer because of their insistence that committee staff members be hired and fired by a majority of the committee rather than by the chairman, it was a significant protest. In due time heed was paid to this principle which, by the way, affects all congressional committees. For it should not be assumed that the present episode is the first in which the one-man power of the chairman has been asserted. It has happened just as often when the Democrats were in command of congressional committees, and what has just been adopted—to make a majority vote necessary — is, of course, a desirable reform.

But public opinion works in another way, too. Just as Senator McCarthy said that he didn't like to see one party manning the subcommittee and that the two-party system required representation of the minority as well as majority, it became important for the Democrats not to place themselves in the position of being unwilling to help investigate Communists in government and problems affecting governmental operations which the subcommittee of the Committee on Governmental Operations is authorized to investigate.

So the controversy now has been resolved satisfactorily. It is a fact that Senator McCarthy reversed his position of last summer in the interest of committee harmony. Nobody was put in a concentration camp and nobody was seized and deprived of his right to free speech —and yet there are Americans and Europeans who have slandered the Wisconsin senator by calling him a "Hitler."

Senator McCarthy, moreover, has been attacked as having a presidential ambition. This is supposed to be an improper motive. The point has been made by McCarthy's enemies that he is engaged in the anti-Communist crusade merely to get publicity so he can run for president. What such observers fail to note is that neither political party in recent years—especially after the 1928 experience with the Al Smith candidacy —has shown signs of nominating any Catholic to the presidency. "Liberals" have not said much about this form of discrimination, though the hero of the "liberals"—Franklin D. Roosevelt — was charged in James A. Farley's book with having told a newspaper writer in 1940 that Farley couldn't be named for the vice presidency because of his religion.

Doesn't Seek Presidency

For all practical purposes, there isn't the remotest chance that Senator McCarthy will ever be a candidate for the presidency. This correspondent asked him for a statement on it recently, and he dictated the following:

"I have no interest and no ambition at all in that direction, to be nominated for President of the United States. I think I can do a better job where I am. No one has ever been nominated unless he has gone out for it, and I do not intend to go out for the nomination. There is no such thing as a draft. Unless you go out and work for a nomination, there is no draft.

"I think that pretty well covers it—about as positive as anyone can make it, I think. You'll find that it is not by friends who are talking about McCarthy being a candidate for president. With a very few exceptions, you'll find that those talking about McCarthy being a candidate for president have always been against me, and 90 per cent of them were not for Eisenhower in the last election and will not be for me in the next election, and they are trying to make it appear that I have some interest other than the public interest."

On The Line

NEW YORK (INS)—A lot of Americans who were old enough to turn cartwheels when Charles Lindbergh flew to Paris will find it difficult to keep from becoming self-appointed casting directors for the movie of his life.

When the news flashed from the office of David O. Selznick that Vivien Leigh, an English actress, had been chosen to play Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind," a lot of folks south and north of the Mason Dixon Line toyed with the heady notion of rebellion. She just wasn't Scarlett, not flashing-eyed, Rhett-baiting, turnip-grubbing, indestructible Scarlett. But after we saw her we forgot what Scarlett did look like.

Nobody ever expects Hollywood to know beans when it comes to translating great fictional or factual characters into flesh and blood actors. If Leland Hayward and Billy Wilder, who will produce "The Spirit of St. Louis" independently, chose Johnny Ray to play Lindbergh it would not occasion great surprise. Just indignation.

Matter of fact, Hollywood does a surprisingly good job at that sort of thing, when one considers the mountains of preconceived notions that must be leveled when a picture about a familiar character is offered to the public. For instance, a whole generation came to believe implicitly that Don Ameche, not Alexander Graham Bell, invented the telephone.

The first day Gary Cooper showed up on a set to start playing Lou Gehrig in "Pride of the Yankees," Technical Adviser Pat Flaherty, former major leaguer and a first class actor, tossed him a glove, picked up a ball and a glove himself, and said, "Let's loosen up." He threw the ball to Cooper. It hit him in the chest.

Developed that Gary had never played baseball in his life. As a kid on the plains he had broken his pelvis in a horse accident, and by the time it was fully mended he was in dramatic school. Just happened to miss baseball. But with Lefty O'Doul (I think it was) filling in around first base on the long shots, Cooper became a wonderful Gehrig.

An even more remarkable transition of personality was that of Jimmy Stewart into Monte Stratton, in the picture named for the former Chicago White Sox pitcher who lost a leg in a hunting accident but returned to pitching. Stewart, who probably will be approached to play Lindbergh, has also done a great job making Glenn Miller live again on the screen. Jimmy, a fine chameleon, was Gen. Wainwright's 1-2 choice to play him.

Nobody, especially harumphing John Philip Sousa, would have believed Clifton Webb could play the band-master. But he did, and most believably. William Bendix persuaded a surprising number of people to regard him as Babe Ruth, Burt Lancaster came to look like Jim Thorpe, Hume Cronyn made a more than adequate Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, Alexander Knox's Woodrow Wilson satisfied even Mrs. Wilson and the late Godfrey Tearle's F.D.R., in "The Beginning or the End," pleased Mrs. Roosevelt and the sons.

Sometimes a role is played so well that thereafter the player is typed and, being typed, has been known to fall upon threadbare days. The story of the ham who played Lincoln so often he came to dress like him—stove pipe hat, beard and shawl—is a familiar one, seeing him brooding one day at the Lambs, "Bugs" Baer said, "He won't be happy until somebody assassinates him."

There are many movies in Lindbergh: His rebellious early life, his hard-pressed days as a barnstormer and seat-of-the-pants mail flier, his still incredible flight to Paris, the shocking kidnaping and murder story, his lonely bitter role in the days leading up to Pearl Harbor, his silent and daring war efforts, and now his reemergence by means of his superb book. Messrs. Hayward and Wilder are men of good taste, experienced artists, and will do well with the man we all called—so many years ago—"The Flying Fool."

The story of the ham who played Lincoln so often he came to dress like him—stove pipe hat, beard and shawl — is a familiar one, seeing him brooding one day at the Lambs, "Bugs" Baer said, "He won't be happy until somebody assassinates him."

There are many movies in Lindbergh: His rebellious early life, his hard-pressed days as a barnstormer and seat-of-the-pants mail flier, his still incredible flight to Paris, the shocking kidnaping and murder story, his lonely bitter role in the days leading up to Pearl Harbor, his silent and daring war efforts, and now his reemergence by means of his superb book. Messrs. Hayward and Wilder are men of good taste, experienced artists, and will do well with the man we all called—so many years ago—"The Flying Fool."

Kelland Says GOP Might Lose If Elections Were Held Today

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—Clarence Budington Kelland, noted author and GOP leader, says if congressional elections were held today "it is exceedingly doubtful" the Republicans could keep control of the House and Senate.

He says the public views the Eisenhower administration as "static and not dynamic," "negative instead of positive, and feels that instead of asserting dramatic leadership it has isolated itself from the fight."

Kelland puts a "large part of the onus" for such views on some presidential appointees and advisers.

He also accuses some cabinet members of refusing to cooperate with the President and Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall on official appointments.

Kelland, Republican national committeeman from Arizona, sets forth his views in the February issue of American Magazine. He says recent congressional elections show "the tide is running against the party in power," and blames this on discontent among the GOP rank and file and a "feeling of letdown" by the public generally.

This he traces back to a lack of a firm partisan approach to the administration's problems.

"There can be no such thing as a non-partisan President, any more than there can be a nonsectarian Pope or Archbishop of Canterbury," Kelland writes.

The President has been learning the science of politics "rapidly and efficiently—the hard way," Kelland adds.

"He has learned far more rapidly than have certain of his appointees and advisers."

Kelland says presidential adviser Sherman Adams "displayed a talent amounting to genius for offending party leaders in every state in the union" concerning political appointments.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson is "inclined to be stubborn to the point of arrogance," says Kelland, adding:

"His position seems to be that it is beneath his dignity to allow his hands to be smirched by contact with politics."

Kelland says the Democratic party stayed in power 20 years "because it did not neglect politics by day or by night." He adds the Republicans must do the same if they are to retain office.

CONDON TESTIFIES — Rep. Robert L. Condon (D-Calif) denies categorically in testimony before a Congressional committee in Washington that he is now or ever was a Communist or Communist sympathizer. The 41-year-old legislator appeared before the Senate-House atomic energy committee at his own request. Condon was denied access last summer to an atomic test in Nevada.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 27 (AP)—The tearful mother of a pro-Communist POW who elected to stay with the Reds in Korea refuses to see her son's picture "because it would be like looking at him in his coffin."

Mrs. Carley Jones, a Holiness preacher, is the mother of Pfc. Samuel David Hawkins, 20, one of 21 American POWs who embraced communism. She refused to look at an Associated Press wirephoto of her son taken in Korea when he and others were interviewed after asking the Chinese Communists to accept them as "free men."

Mrs. Jones pleaded for understanding, asking "why don't people realize? Why are they so heartless? I know how strong most people are. They'd never break under torture. But they aren't just children.

"David was captured, wounded in battle, when he was just two months past 17," the mother said. "And I know he was a prisoner for almost three years before the idea of not returning home even entered his head.

"And I know he's not a Communist now. I don't know why he won't come home, but he's not a Communist."

Fanfani Government Apparently Doomed

ROME, Jan. 27 (AP)—The eight-day old "reform" government of Premier Amintore Fanfani appeared doomed today by Italy's feuding political parties.

Right-wing Monarchists, holding the balance of power in the unstable Italian Parliament, announced they will oppose Fanfani in a vote of confidence.

The Monarchist move left Christian Democrat Fanfani with only 265 sure votes in an upcoming test in the 590-seat Chamber of Deputies.

Gangland Stars Visited Luciano In Prison

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 27 (AP)—Democratic pressure brought to light today that Frank Costello and several other high-ranking underworld figures visited vice lord Charles (Lucky) Luciano in prison, purportedly to help in the World War II effort.

The vice-land names were contained in a list of 35 Luciano visitors given to New York's Assembly Democratic leader, Eugene F. Bannigan, by Gov. Dewey's correction commissioner, Edward J Donovan.

Besides Costello, the list included Meyer Lansky, Joseph (Socks) Lanza and Willy Moretti, all gangland stars.

Bannigan declined to give out all of the names because, he said, he feared it might cause injury to persons innocent of any wrongdoing.

The Democrats had been clamoring for years for a list of persons who visited Luciano in Clinton Prison at Dannemora and Great Meadows in two New York State prisons while he was serving about 10 years of a 30-50 year stretch for compelling prostitution.

Luciano was freed in January, 1946, by the Republican Dewey for deportation to his native Italy. The Democrats never have accepted Dewey's explanation that he let Luciano out because it was state policy to release deportable aliens in order to save maintenance costs after they had served what the state considered a reasonable time.

Pro-Red Yank POWs Pack For Trip North

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Chinese Communist radio said the 21 American prisoners of the Korean War who refused repatriation happily packed their books and athletic equipment today for their trip north from Panmunjom.

The broadcast quoted Richard Corden of Providence, R. I., as saying "all we have to do now is pack up our things and go."

Kelland Says GOP Might Lose If Elections Were Held Today

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—Clarence Budington Kelland, noted author and GOP leader, says if congressional elections were held today "it is exceedingly doubtful" the Republicans could keep control of the House and Senate.

He says the public views the Eisenhower administration as "static and not dynamic," "negative instead of positive, and feels that instead of asserting dramatic leadership it has isolated itself from the fight."

Kelland puts a "large part of the onus" for such views on some presidential appointees and advisers.

He also accuses some cabinet members of refusing to cooperate with the President and Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall on official appointments.

Kelland, Republican national committeeman from Arizona, sets forth his views in the February issue of American Magazine. He says recent congressional elections show "the tide is running against the party in power," and blames this on discontent among the GOP rank and file and a "feeling of letdown" by the public generally.

This he traces back to a lack of a firm partisan approach to the administration's problems.

"There can be no such thing as a non-partisan President, any more than there can be a nonsectarian Pope or Archbishop of Canterbury," Kelland writes.

The President has been learning the science of politics "rapidly and efficiently—the hard way," Kelland adds.

"He has learned far more rapidly than have certain of his appointees and advisers."

Kelland says presidential adviser Sherman Adams "displayed a talent amounting to genius for offending party leaders in every state in the union" concerning political appointments.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson is "inclined to be stubborn to the point of arrogance," says Kelland, adding:

"His position seems to be that it is beneath his dignity to allow his hands to be smirched by contact with politics."

Kelland says the Democratic party stayed in power 20 years "because it did not neglect politics by day or by night." He adds the Republicans must do the same if they are to retain office.

CONDON TESTIFIES — Rep. Robert L. Condon (D-Calif) denies categorically in testimony before a Congressional committee in Washington that he is now or ever was a Communist or Communist sympathizer. The 41-year-old legislator appeared before the Senate-House atomic energy committee at his own request. Condon was denied access last summer to an atomic test in Nevada.

Fanfani Government Apparently Doomed

ROME, Jan. 27 (AP)—The eight-day old "reform" government of Premier Amintore Fanfani appeared doomed today by Italy's feuding political parties.

Right-wing Monarchists, holding the balance of power in the unstable Italian Parliament, announced they will oppose Fanfani in a vote of confidence.

The Monarchist move left Christian Democrat Fanfani with only 265 sure votes in an upcoming test in the 590-seat Chamber of Deputies.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 27 (AP)—The tearful mother of a pro-Communist POW who elected to stay with the Reds in Korea refuses to see her son's picture "because it would be like looking at him in his coffin."

Mrs. Carley Jones, a Holiness preacher, is the mother of Pfc. Samuel David Hawkins, 20, one of 21 American POWs who embraced communism. She refused to look at an Associated Press wirephoto of her son taken in Korea when he and others were interviewed after asking the Chinese Communists to accept them as "free men."

Mrs. Jones pleaded for understanding, asking "why don't people realize? Why are they so heartless? I know how strong most people are. They'd never break under torture. But they aren't just children.

"David was captured, wounded in battle, when he was just two months past 17," the mother said. "And I know he was a prisoner for almost three years before the idea of not returning home even entered his head.

"And I know he's not a Communist now. I don't know why he won't come home, but he's not a Communist."

Gangland Stars Visited Luciano In Prison

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 27 (AP)—Democratic pressure brought to light today that Frank Costello and several other high-ranking underworld figures visited vice lord Charles (Lucky) Luciano in prison, purportedly to help in the World War II effort.

The vice-land names were contained in a list of 35 Luciano visitors given to New York's Assembly Democratic leader, Eugene F. Bannigan, by Gov. Dewey's correction commissioner, Edward J Donovan.

Besides Costello, the list included Meyer Lansky, Joseph (Socks) Lanza and Willy Moretti, all gangland stars.

Bannigan declined to give out all of the names because, he said, he feared it might cause injury to persons innocent of any wrongdoing.

The Democrats had been clamoring for years for a list of persons who visited Luciano in Clinton Prison at Dannemora and Great Meadows in two New York State prisons while he was serving about 10 years of a 30-50 year stretch for compelling prostitution.

Luciano was freed in January, 1946, by the Republican Dewey for deportation to his native Italy. The Democrats never have accepted Dewey's explanation that he let Luciano out because it was state policy to release deportable aliens in order to save maintenance costs after they had served what the state considered a reasonable time.

Pro-Red Yank POWs Pack For Trip North

LONDON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Chinese Communist radio said the 21 American prisoners of the Korean War who refused repatriation happily packed their books and athletic equipment today for their trip north from Panmunjom.

The broadcast quoted Richard Corden of Providence, R. I., as saying "all we have to do now is pack up our things and go."

Wholesale Red Desertions Seen If China Attacks

TAIPEH, Formosa, Jan. 27 (AP)—The strong man of anti-Communist Chinese war prisoners predicted today there would be wholesale surrenders in China's Red armies if they attack again in Korea.

"There is only one life and one way to live—to kill Communists," declared Wang Sun-chin, 27, in a talk with newsmen.

Wang, a former Nationalist soldier taken into Red China's army, is now head of Tahu (Great Lake) village one of four built to house the 14,000 Chinese who came here from Korea this week.

Wang, only five feet five, is tough, wiry and docky. His comrades have honored him with the nickname of "Iron Guts."

"If the Korean war starts again," he said, "large numbers of Kung Fei (Communist bandits) will surrender at the first opportunity."

He also predicted that if the Nationalists return to the mainland the Communist regime "will be doomed for the people will rise in support of the Nationalists and Red troops will surrender in droves."

Wang was a 2nd lieutenant in the Nationalist Army when he was captured by Communist forces on the Big South China island of Hainan in May, 1950.

Given four months of retraining, Wang said he was sent into North Korea in October of 1950 as an ammunition carrier with the rank of private. The next month he carried out a carefully laid plan and surrendered.

"My mother and 12-year-old brother were executed in one of their purges of the landlord class," he said. "My father, who was the owner of a grocery store, was spared this fate by dying of natural causes."

Wang said he was elected leader of a camp near Pusan because he organized a successful revolt against North Korean prisoners who ran the camp.

Transferred to Koje Island in January, 1951, pro-Nationalists in the compound once more named him as their leader.

ESCORT OF ROYALTY RESIGNS—William D. Huskey, State Department security agent who for the past 12 years has been escorting visiting kings, queens and other world leaders, prepares a set of kitchen cabinets he built for painting at his home in Washington after resigning his position with a declaration that it was "impossible" to work under Scott McLeod, the State Department's chief of security.

Citizen Stakes Claim To Long-Lost Store Teeth Grabbed By Homesteading Oyster

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP) — George Chesky is a proud man today. He's convinced that, thanks to a homesteading oyster, his long lost store teeth have become a scientific curiosity in the Smithsonian Institution.

Smithsonian officials, on the other hand, are positive they don't admit they can't answer this question:

If those aren't Chesky's teeth, whose teeth are they?

It all began last Sunday while Chesky was reading the Washington Star. There was a story on mollusks, and the illustrations included pictures of the housing habits of oysters. One had attached itself to the bowl of a pipe. A Chesapeake Bay oyster had settled down on a set of false teeth.

"My teeth!" he cried.

Chesky immediately yanked out his present set, and—with his wife joining him in this scientific enterprise—compared it with the picture, tooth for tooth.

"No doubt about it," Chesky said, "They're mine. My wife agrees with me."

Fifteen years ago, Chesky said, he and two companions went fishing in Chesapeake Bay. The fish weren't nibbling, so they went swimming instead. In the course of horsing around, out popped Chesky's teeth and down they sank to an oyster bed 30 feet below.

Chesky, a spray painter who has worn false teeth for 22 of his 43 years, fondly recalls his lost teeth. "They were the best made," he said. "Cost 120 bucks, a lot of money in those days."

Chesky is perfectly willing to let the Smithsonian have the teeth, but he does think it would be nice if the Smithsonian—which has a nice copy of store bought teeth worn by Theodore Roosevelt—also acknowledged who originally owned the oyster's teeth.

This the Smithsonian does not propose to do.

Harald A. Rehder, curator of the mollusk division, says his records show the teeth were dredged up in 1898, or 13 years before Chesky was born.

Incidentally, Rehder says it isn't at all unusual for oysters to attach themselves to some common article.

"The young oyster swims about," he said, "ready to grow on anything solid it can anchor to. They often are found on old bottles."

But this is the only oyster the Smithsonian has with teeth.

All of which leaves Chesky unimpressed. The Smithsonian boys may know their mollusks, but he knows his molars.

"I'd bet a week's salary," he said, "that those are my teeth."

10 Warrants Are Filed As Pickets Bar Struck Silk Mill's Reopening

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., Jan. 27 (AP)—Massed picket lines prevented the reopening of the struck Federal Silk Mills here today and ten warrants were sworn out against six persons in connection with a "commotion" across from the plant.

One woman went to see a doctor after the incident. She is Mrs. L. Ray Manor of Hedgesville, W. Va., an employe who sought to return to work.

Mrs. Manor complained of a pain in her back and said she had been mauled by Glenn R. Brayton, an official of the CIO-United Auto Workers Union at Hagerstown who had helped the CIO-Textile Workers Union organize the picket line.

Mrs. Manor's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Betty Manor, accused Brayton and Catherine Anderson of Wlliamsport with hitting her and knocking her down.

Mrs. Manor's husband, who had driven his wife to the plant along with his daughter-in-law and two or three other women, charged Brayton and Nell Clark of Hagerstown, with damaging his car by kicking one fender loose, bending down the running board, and springing two doors.

C. Pat Ellington, organizer for the Textile Workers Union, said he was on the scene continuously and had not observed or heard about any disturbance.

Robert S. Martin, an officer of the auto workers local at Hagerstown, said he was with Brayton most of the time and saw no disturbance.

The elder Mrs. Manor signed an affidavit for the silk mill firm last June on which it based its attempt to overturn the result of a collective bargaining election. The Textile Workers Union had won collective bargaining rights at the plant last June.

The union contended she had acted as a tool for the company. The examiner who conducted a hearing on it for the National Labor Relations Board reported he could not credit her testimony where it conflicted with that of Ellington, and the NLRB last week denied the company's objection to the election result.

Union members among the plant's 385 workers went on strike Dec. 28, complaining they had not received the customary Christmas bonus.

David Goetz, owner, made no attempt to operate the plant until today, when he invited workers to come back and asked the Washington County sheriff to provide protection to those wishing to cross the picket line.

Sheriff Edward Rowland arrived on the scene about 7:30 a.m. with three uniformed deputies.

At the time 200 to 300 pickets were marching in a long loop up and down the road in front of the main gate. They had parked their cars bumper-to-bumper in front of the plant. Both lines stretched more than a block.

Sheriff Rowland reported there were 10 to 15 people who apparently wanted to work but did not ask to be escorted through the picket line.

Buses Soon Will Replace Trolleys

BALTIMORE, Jan. 27 (AP) — The trolley cars which have carried passengers, mail and freight between Frederick and Thurmont for more than 30 years will soon be replaced by buses.

The Public Service Commission today authorized Potomac Edison Co. to make the conversion after the firm said it could no longer maintain its two old trolleys in safe condition on the 17-mile electric, run.

F. D. Spofford, assistant to the president of Potomac Edison, testified the two trolleys are more than 30 years old. Replacement parts are not available and cars of the same type have not been manufactured for many years.

Spofford promised the buses would maintain "nearly identical" schedules over roads roughly parallel to the present railroad tracks and that there would be no fare increase.

The trolley line is the last passenger interurban run in the state.

No protestants to the conversion appeared at the hearing and the PSC said it had received only one letter opposing the plan.

Falling Stone Kills Worker In Quarry

HARPERS FERRY, W. Va., Jan. 27 (AP) — Elwood Dillow, 41, was killed today by stone which fell on him while working in the Millville quarry of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp.

Dillow had been employed at the quarry since 1936. Other workmen around him were unhurt.

Dr. Earl Allara of Charles Town said Dillow died of a fractured skull.

Nearly 20 vitamins that are known or believed to be important to human well-being have thus far been discovered.

Officer Stabbed, Youth Shot In Threatening Letter Case

FREDERICK, Jan. 27 (AP) — A policeman trying to trap the sender of threatening notes was stabbed and seriously wounded today and a youth, whom he shot, was charged with trying to kill him.

Patrolman Paul W. Mossburg, 27, and the youth were in Frederick Memorial Hospital, the youth under police guard.

Mossburg was knifed in the chest, side and leg early today as he battled with his attacker. His condition was serious.

Hospitalized with a bullet wound in the neck was Malcolm Makel, 15, Negro. Authorities said he was charged with assault with intent to kill the officer. His condition was fair.

Police Chief Charles V. Main said two threatening notes had been left at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Eugene Grumbine. The Grumbines notified police immediately after the first note was received and after a second one was found, a trap was set.

There was no apparent motive for the notes. Police said the sender demanded no money. One threatened death and included a paring knife in the envelope. The second demanded an answer by last night but carried no indication of what answer was expected.

A decoy note was set as a trap and Main and an officer watched the house until midnight, when Mossburg took over. About 1:15 a.m. police got a call that Mossburg had been stabbed.

Police said both Mossburg and the youth were rushed to a hospital, where the youth fled. He later was nabbed at his home.

Main said the knifing and shooting apparently occurred as Mossburg went to question the youth. Main said the story he got was that the officer's gun was knocked from his hand but he called for his wife to bring him another, which she did. The Mossburg's live nearby.

Boone May Precipitate Speaker Fight At Md. House Demo Caucus

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 27 (AP)—Gordon Boone, the Baltimore countian shuffled out of majority floor leadership last year in maneuvers over election of the House speaker, was reported preparing today to make a pitch for the top job himself at next Tuesday's night caucus of Democratic delegates.

"He's out trying to corral votes for speaker, I know that," other delegates confided.

Boone yielded the majority leadership after two years through a deal in which John C. Luber of Baltimore's 5th District was assured reelection as speaker for his third session.

Luber, in return for solid backing of the Eastern Shore's 26 delegates, accepted John Wood Logan of Caroline County as floor leader. Logan has resigned and the Eastern Shore is counting on one of their number again being named. They'll meet to nominate their choice before the full party caucus on the eve of next Wednesday's General Assembly opening.

Although Boone surprised most of the delegates by not adopting obstructionist tactics at the last session, he has been busy since soliciting support for speaker this 30-day term.

The attempt to unseat Luber last year came from within his own Baltimore City delegation. Nineteen of them proposed Chester Tawney of the Third District.

A member of the mutinous 19 said today they hadn't discussed the situation much this year.

"Under ordinary circumstances, if this were a 90-day session, I'd say there would be a serious fight over speaker," the prominent city delegate said. "But since it's only for 30 days, I'm not sure. But there may be some interesting pre-session caucuses.

"If the Eastern Shore is going to caucus and wants to force its choice for sectional advantage, it may arouse a fight up and down the line.

"If Luber's going to be speaker, let him be speaker. And let him name the floor leader. Let's don't go in with the gun loaded.

"Suppose the Western Shore caucuses by itself. And it might. And we say to Luber to appoint one of us floor leader or we have a candidate of our own for speaker. What's Luber going to do then, choose between the Western and Eastern?"

The Western Shore Democrats formed their own caucus group for the first time last session. They were not as closely knit as the solid Eastern Shore, but the Baltimore city delegate implied they might become so in self defense.

Confesses Shooting

WESTMINSTER, Md., Jan. 27 (AP)—Police report 26-year-old Donald D. Wilt of Route 4, Westminster, has confessed to shooting and wounding his wife, but said Wilt could "give no reason" for the attack.

Wilt, charged with assault with intent to kill, is being held here in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Anti-Stalling Plan

BALTIMORE, Jan. 27 (AP)—Traffic Director Henry A. Barnes has told the Baltimore Transit Co. he is considering an order to empower police to summon bus operators who become stalled during bad weather without chains or snow tires.

Jury Is Ordered To Inspect Underground Pentagon Site

LEWISBURG, Pa., Jan. 27 (AP)—A jury in U. S. District Court was ordered today to make a trip to the Waynesboro area to inspect the site of the federal government's secret underground Pentagon installation near the Pennsylvania-Maryland border.

Judge Frederick V. Follmer said the jury picked to try land claims for property seized for the installation will be taken to the site tomorrow.

One claim by Alfred Holt, Baltimore, involves 280 acres. There are a number of others. Holt turned down a government offer for $28,000 for his tract, demanding a higher price.

Judge Follmer said the sole purpose of the trip will be to give the jury "an opportunity to view the premises" involved in the civil suits.

The judge's statement came after selection of the jury to try the Holt claim and other owners in the 1,100 acre tract taken by the government.

Holt claims the land is worth more because of underground mineral deposits. A second claim to the mineral rights has been entered by N. H. Deshler of Belvidere, N. J.

Boone May Precipitate Speaker Fight At Md. House Demo Caucus

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 27 (AP)—Gordon Boone, the Baltimore countian shuffled out of majority floor leadership last year in maneuvers over election of the House speaker, was reported preparing today to make a pitch for the top job himself at next Tuesday's night caucus of Democratic delegates.

"He's out trying to corral votes for speaker, I know that," other delegates confided.

Boone yielded the majority leadership after two years through a deal in which John C. Luber of Baltimore's 5th District was assured reelection as speaker for his third session.

Luber, in return for solid backing of the Eastern Shore's 26 delegates, accepted John Wood Logan of Caroline County as floor leader. Logan has resigned and the Eastern Shore is counting on one of their number again being named. They'll meet to nominate their choice before the full party caucus on the eve of next Wednesday's General Assembly opening.

Although Boone surprised most of the delegates by not adopting obstructionist tactics at the last session, he has been busy since soliciting support for speaker this 30-day term.

The attempt to unseat Luber last year came from within his own Baltimore City delegation. Nineteen of them proposed Chester Tawney of the Third District.

A member of the mutinous 19 said today they hadn't discussed the situation much this year.

"Under ordinary circumstances, if this were a 90-day session, I'd say there would be a serious fight over speaker," the prominent city delegate said. "But since it's only for 30 days, I'm not sure. But there may be some interesting pre-session caucuses.

"If the Eastern Shore is going to caucus and wants to force its choice for sectional advantage, it may arouse a fight up and down the line.

"If Luber's going to be speaker, let him be speaker. And let him name the floor leader. Let's don't go in with the gun loaded.

"Suppose the Western Shore caucuses by itself. And it might. And we say to Luber to appoint one of us floor leader or we have a candidate of our own for speaker. What's Luber going to do then, choose between the Western and Eastern?"

The Western Shore Democrats formed their own caucus group for the first time last session. They were not as closely knit as the solid Eastern Shore, but the Baltimore city delegate implied they might become so in self defense.

Confesses Shooting

WESTMINSTER, Md., Jan. 27 (AP)—Police report 26-year-old Donald D. Wilt of Route 4, Westminster, has confessed to shooting and wounding his wife, but said Wilt could "give no reason" for the attack.

Wilt, charged with assault with intent to kill, is being held here in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Officers said he told them he fired through the window of his home from the front porch Monday night, wounding his 21-year-old wife in the cheek.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 27 (AP)—Traffic Director Henry A. Barnes has told the Baltimore Transit Co. he is considering an order to empower police to summon bus operators who become stalled during bad weather without chains or snow tires.

Jury Is Ordered To Inspect Underground Pentagon Site

LEWISBURG, Pa., Jan. 27 (AP)—A jury in U. S. District Court was ordered today to make a trip to the Waynesboro area to inspect the site of the federal government's secret underground Pentagon installation near the Pennsylvania-Maryland border.

Judge Frederick V. Follmer said the jury picked to try land claims for property seized for the installation will be taken to the site tomorrow.

One claim by Alfred Holt, Baltimore, involves 280 acres. There are a number of others. Holt turned down a government offer for $28,000 for his tract, demanding a higher price.

Judge Follmer said the sole purpose of the trip will be to give the jury "an opportunity to view the premises" involved in the civil suits.

The judge's statement came after selection of the jury to try the Holt claim and other owners in the 1,100 acre tract taken by the government.

Holt claims the land is worth more because of underground mineral deposits. A second claim to the mineral rights has been entered by N. H. Deshler of Belvidere, N. J.

WASHINGTON — Residents of Camp Detrick, near Frederick, may eventually have their right to vote restored under the provisions of a bill I have just introduced in Congress.

Because the federal government has jurisdiction over the camp, its inhabitants are voteless, just as the people of the District of Columbia are. The bill has been referred to the House Armed Services Committee, and I am urging the members to make an early and favorable report on it to the Congress.

After studying the President's proposals to improve our social security laws, I can state that I am in favor of them and will vote for them if they are reported out of committee according to his requests.

The first test of this—and of any bill—is its constitutionality. In our Constitution, Congress is required to promote the "general welfare" of the United States. It is given the task of fighting our enemies, and certainly destitution is one of them.

President Eisenhower has made it clear that the social security program is to supplement, not to replace the many private pension and insurance plans we now have. The purpose of social security, he said, is to increase the standard of living of older people, but not to provide them with their only income. I think this should be repeated again and again, so that young people don't get the idea that the "government will take care of them" when they are no longer able to work.

After a year of careful study of the existing social security laws, the President has asked that 10,000,000 more persons be placed within the system. These would be many professional people—doctors, lawyers, dentists, accountants, architects. Farm and domestic workers would be included. People would be permitted to earn more money on their own during their retirement without having their social security payments limited. Contributions would be made to the social security fund on a larger part of peoples' income than is now the case. In addition, the President has asked that benefit payments be increased to help correct the terrible burden that inflation thrust on people of fixed incomes before the cost of living stopped rising last year.

Like any other legislation, the social security problem has had its political side. There are those who like to say that this party favors it and that party does not. I think that one effect of the President's new proposals will be to banish the thought that this is a partisan issue. In the '30s, Republicans helped a Democrat Congress establish social security. Now, in the light of nearly two decades of experience with it, it is safe to predict that Democrats are going to help a Republican Congress this year to improve the law.

The outing is designed to test the camping skill and equipment of Boy Scouts in cold weather.

None of the buildings at the camp will be used. The Scouts will sleep in their tents, making their beds on the ground.

Using their own cooking gear, they will prepare their meals outdoors.

The Scouts will arrive tomorrow evening and leave Saturday afternoon. If the weather permits, they will participate in winter sports.

There were 70 youths at the first winter camp last year. Willis V. Smith, council scout executive, again will be in charge.

Each unit will have its leader.

Woman Assigned As Fort Hill Teacher

One teacher assignment has been made for the second semester in Allegany County public schools, according to Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools for the Board of Education.

Mrs. Zelia McCullough, Braddock Road, will teach vocational home economics at Fort Hill High School.

She will replace Mrs. Joann L. Horner, whose resignation becomes effective Monday.

Mrs. McCullough taught in Cumberland schools for seven years. From 1928 until 1933 she was at Pennsylvania Avenue High School and from 1933 to 1935 she taught at Allegany High School.

She was graduated from Madison College, Harrisonburg, Va., where she majored in home economics. She also did graduate work at Columbia University and at Iowa State College.

Yesterday, Herbert R. Steiner, state supervisor of physical education and recreation, was at the Board of Education building conferring with officials.

He discussed the county athletic program with Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of physical education; driver education with Rizer, and health program with Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of junior high schools.

Court Fixes Values In Bus Line Dispute

Emery Gets No Money After Illegal Sale

The Emory Motor Coach Lines, Inc., case, which has been going on since 1949, entered into another phase this week in Martinsburg.

Judge D. W. Rodgers of Berkeley County Circuit Court ruled to the effect that the company has no money coming to it as the result of an illegal sale of its assets.

Clarence E. Martin Jr., attorney for R. L. Emery, said the case will be appealed to the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

Judge Rodgers decision placed a value of $55,000 on the physical assets of the firm, which served Cumberland, Paw Paw, Martinsburg, Charles Town, Leesburg, Va., and Washington.

The decision is the culmination in Martinsburg courts by Emery to collect damages from the Mellon National Bank and Trust Company of Pittsburgh which held a deed of trust on the Emery properties.

The sale four years ago was subsequently ruled illegal by the West Virginia Supreme Court.

Judge Rogers' decision stated, in part, that the bus line was "not being operated at a profit on October 31, 1949, and could not thereafter have been operated at a profit and that plaintiffs (Emery and Emery's Motor Coach Lines) on that date were insolvent, that the value of the physical assets at the time of the void sale was not more than $51,000 and that the rights and permits were of only nominal value except the routes from Martinsburg to Shepherdstown and Charles Town, and that $55,000 would be a fair market value of all the assets sold at the illegal sale."

At the time of the Mellon Bank foreclosure under terms of the deed of trust, Emery's Motor Coach Lines, Inc., owed the bank $85,607.42. The company's assets were bought in by the bank for $79,000.

The bank a short time later obtained a deficiency judgment for $9,436.38 but by Judge Rogers' decision this judgment was reduced to $1,369.15 on the basis of making allowances for certain items, mostly insurance and permits claimed by Emery.

At the time of the sale the bus company operated a service within Martinsburg and also had routes throughout the Eastern Panhandle counties. This service was later taken over by the Potomac Coach Lines, Inc., of Hagerstown, and operated for more than a year with the city line being sold again and later abandoned.

The litigation has been in local and state courts since the time of the sale with the West Virginia high court ruling last year that the sale was illegal and directing the Berkeley County Circuit Court to establish whether Emery had suffered damages in excess of what he owed the Mellon Bank.

In this hearing before Judge Rodgers last fall, Emery claimed damages of approximately $750,000 including loss of physical assets and damages for being put out of business.

Judge Rogers decision, however, set the property values and other rights at the $55,000 with no claim for damages on loss of business allowed on the basis that the company had been operating at a loss and was insolvent.

The order entered made permanent previous temporary injunctions against Emery restraining him from interfering with the operation and use of any equipment formerly owned by him or his company.

Attorney Lacy I. Rice, of Martinsburg, one of the trustees under the deed of trust, represented the Mellon Bank as counsel in the litigation.

Hourly-Paid Paperworkers In Agreement With Company On New Retirement Plan

Hourly-paid employes of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke, along with workers at the firm's five other mills, have accepted a new retirement plan which provides a free pension of $60 a month or contributory pensions of $100 or more a month for full-service employes at the age of 65, according to company officials.

Notification of the acceptance by all units of hourly workers came through the collective bargaining agents of the various mill and division locations, to whom the company submitted its pension proposals late in October.

Company officials said the new plan would become effective April 1, if the program receives the necessary approval of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the company's board of directors and stockholders. The proposed plan will be submitted to the stockholders for final approval at the annual meeting to be held in New York March 18.

The plan, which will replace a non-contributory arrangement which has been in effect since 1950, will cover at the outset some 6,000 hourly employes between the ages of 25 and 65 in the company's six mills at Luke, Charleston, S. C., Covington, Va., Mechanicville, N. Y., Tyrone and Williamsburg and in its forestry divisions at Summerville, S. C., Georgetown, S. C., and Manteo, N. C.

The proposed new plan will cost the company an additional $1,000,000 in past service charges and about 50 per cent more a year than it is paying under the current plan for future service. It was developed after a series of conferences with collective bargaining representatives of employes at most of the company locations, followed by many months of study and research.

The plan contains many of the suggestions for improvements made by employes' representatives and presents a unique concept in pension planning in the pulp and paper industry, insofar as benefits are concerned.

Under the plan all employes who have reached the age of 25 and have one year of credited service with the company will automatically become eligible for free pension credits of $1.50 for each year of credited service up to 40 years, which will produce a company pension of $60 a month upon retirement at 65.

If an eligible employe elects to contribute $4.50 a month he will receive pension credits of $2.50 for each year of credited service up to 40 years, which would produce a total pension from the plan of $100 a month upon retirement at age 65.

For employes earning more than $300 a month, there is still another opportunity for earning a larger pension through contributions. Employes in the over-$300 bracket will receive additional credits amounting to 1.25 per cent of their earnings in excess of $300 a month in return for contributions of 2.5 percent on their earnings in excess of $300 a month. Under this system a man earning $400 a month could earn an additional pension of $50 a month over 40 years, bringing his total pension from the plan to $150 upon retirement at 65.

About 70 per cent of the cost of the total pensions paid under the contributory arrangement is borne by the company.

Pensions paid under the proposed new plan will be in addition to any Social Security benefits employes may receive when they retire at 65. As the Social Security program is now set up, this means that many employes retiring at 65 will receive Social Security benefits of $85 a month or $127.50 a month if their wives are 65, in addition to the pensions they earn under the company plan. Under the present plan Social Security benefits are calculated as part of the total pension of a retired employe.

The plan permits retirement as early as age 55, provides opportunities for a member to share his pension with his wife or other member of his family, contains new features to help protect members in the event of compensable injury and permanent disability, gives a member a stake in his pension when he reaches age 50 and has 20 years service, even if he leaves the company, and many other options.

Under the new plan employes eventually will retire automatically at age 65, although no present employe will be affected by this change until at least six years after the plan is started and most will not be affected for 10 years.

Court Fixes Values In Bus Line Dispute

Emery Gets No Money After Illegal Sale

The Emory Motor Coach Lines, Inc., case, which has been going on since 1949, entered into another phase this week in Martinsburg.

Judge D. W. Rodgers of Berkeley County Circuit Court ruled to the effect that the company has no money coming to it as the result of an illegal sale of its assets.

Clarence E. Martin Jr., attorney for R. L. Emery, said the case will be appealed to the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

Judge Rodgers decision placed a value of $55,000 on the physical assets of the firm, which served Cumberland, Paw Paw, Martinsburg, Charles Town, Leesburg, Va., and Washington.

The decision is the culmination in Martinsburg courts by Emery to collect damages from the Mellon National Bank and Trust Company of Pittsburgh which held a deed of trust on the Emery properties.

The sale four years ago was subsequently ruled illegal by the West Virginia Supreme Court.

Judge Rogers' decision stated, in part, that the bus line was "not being operated at a profit on October 31, 1949, and could not thereafter have been operated at a profit and that plaintiffs (Emery and Emery's Motor Coach Lines) on that date were insolvent, that the value of the physical assets at the time of the void sale was not more than $51,000 and that the rights and permits were of only nominal value except the routes from Martinsburg to Shepherdstown and Charles Town, and that $55,000 would be a fair market value of all the assets sold at the illegal sale."

At the time of the Mellon Bank foreclosure under terms of the deed of trust, Emery's Motor Coach Lines, Inc., owed the bank $85,607.42. The company's assets were bought in by the bank for $79,000.

The bank a short time later obtained a deficiency judgment for $9,436.38 but by Judge Rogers' decision this judgment was reduced to $1,369.15 on the basis of making allowances for certain items, mostly insurance and permits claimed by Emery.

At the time of the sale the bus company operated a service within Martinsburg and also had routes throughout the Eastern Panhandle counties. This service was later taken over by the Potomac Coach Lines, Inc., of Hagerstown, and operated for more than a year with the city line being sold again and later abandoned.

The litigation has been in local and state courts since the time of the sale with the West Virginia high court ruling last year that the sale was illegal and directing the Berkeley County Circuit Court to establish whether Emery had suffered damages in excess of what he owed the Mellon Bank.

In this hearing before Judge Rodgers last fall, Emery claimed damages of approximately $750,000 including loss of physical assets and damages for being put out of business.

Judge Rogers decision, however, set the property values and other rights at the $55,000 with no claim for damages on loss of business allowed on the basis that the company had been operating at a loss and was insolvent.

The order entered made permanent previous temporary injunctions against Emery restraining him from interfering with the operation and use of any equipment formerly owned by him or his company.

Attorney Lacy I. Rice, of Martinsburg, one of the trustees under the deed of trust, represented the Mellon Bank as counsel in the litigation.

Hourly-Paid Paperworkers In Agreement With Company On New Retirement Plan

Hourly-paid employes of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke, along with workers at the firm's five other mills, have accepted a new retirement plan which provides a free pension of $60 a month or contributory pensions of $100 or more a month for full-service employes at the age of 65, according to company officials.

Notification of the acceptance by all units of hourly workers came through the collective bargaining agents of the various mill and division locations, to whom the company submitted its pension proposals late in October.

Company officials said the new plan would become effective April 1, if the program receives the necessary approval of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the company's board of directors and stockholders. The proposed plan will be submitted to the stockholders for final approval at the annual meeting to be held in New York March 18.

The plan, which will replace a non-contributory arrangement which has been in effect since 1950, will cover at the outset some 6,000 hourly employes between the ages of 25 and 65 in the company's six mills at Luke, Charleston, S. C., Covington, Va., Mechanicville, N. Y., Tyrone and Williamsburg and in its forestry divisions at Summerville, S. C., Georgetown, S. C., and Manteo, N. C.

The proposed new plan will cost the company an additional $1,000,000 in past service charges and about 50 per cent more a year than it is paying under the current plan for future service. It was developed after a series of conferences with collective bargaining representatives of employes at most of the company locations, followed by many months of study and research.

The plan contains many of the suggestions for improvements made by employes' representatives and presents a unique concept in pension planning in the pulp and paper industry, insofar as benefits are concerned.

Under the plan all employes who have reached the age of 25 and have one year of credited service with the company will automatically become eligible for free pension credits of $1.50 for each year of credited service up to 40 years, which will produce a company pension of $60 a month upon retirement at 65.

If an eligible employe elects to contribute $4.50 a month he will receive pension credits of $2.50 for each year of credited service up to 40 years, which would produce a total pension from the plan of $100 a month upon retirement at age 65.

For employes earning more than $300 a month, there is still another opportunity for earning a larger pension through contributions. Employes in the over-$300 bracket will receive additional credits amounting to 1.25 per cent of their earnings in excess of $300 a month in return for contributions of 2.5 percent on their earnings in excess of $300 a month. Under this system a man earning $400 a month could earn an additional pension of $50 a month over 40 years, bringing his total pension from the plan to $150 upon retirement at 65.

About 70 per cent of the cost of the total pensions paid under the contributory arrangement is borne by the company.

Pensions paid under the proposed new plan will be in addition to any Social Security benefits employes may receive when they retire at 65. As the Social Security program is now set up, this means that many employes retiring at 65 will receive Social Security benefits of $85 a month or $127.50 a month if their wives are 65, in addition to the pensions they earn under the company plan. Under the present plan Social Security benefits are calculated as part of the total pension of a retired employe.

The plan permits retirement as early as age 55, provides opportunities for a member to share his pension with his wife or other member of his family, contains new features to help protect members in the event of compensable injury and permanent disability, gives a member a stake in his pension when he reaches age 50 and has 20 years service, even if he leaves the company, and many other options.

Under the new plan employes eventually will retire automatically at age 65, although no present employe will be affected by this change until at least six years after the plan is started and most will not be affected for 10 years.

Public Affairs Institute Termed State Milestone For Education Of Teachers

Through the Institute of Maryland Public Affairs, Maryland has scored another milestone in education.

Purpose of the institute, sponsored jointly by the Maryland State Teachers Association, the State and County Boards of Education, is to help teachers become better informed citizens, more alert to their responsibilities in a democracy.

Representing each area of Allegany County, 15 teachers are participating in the course, held weekly at the Board of Education office, as are similar groups in each of the 22 other counties of the State and in Baltimore City. Educators from Westernport, Lonaconing, Frostburg, Mt. Savage, Cumberland, Cresaptown and the Flintstone area are enrolled.

During the next five months, this pilot group will make an intensive study of public affairs preparatory to becoming area leaders for larger groups of teachers throughout the county next September.

The primary objective of IMPA is to inform teachers about significant phases and basic issues of governmental operations, with particular emphasis on state and local affairs.

Two workshops on a statewide basis have been conducted by the Maryland State Teachers Association. A two week workshop at Towson State Teachers College during the summer was attended by Miss Gertrude Williams, Beall High School; Robert Morris and Frank Winsheimer, Fort Hill High School and Lewyn C. Davis, junior high supervisor. Each member of the general committee developed a case study for his county. Davis presented one on "Home Rule for Cumberland."

Five county teachers attended the one-day workshop at the Stafford Hotel in December. This included John Grindle, president of the Allegany County Teachers Association; Mrs. Effie Staggers, Bruce; Miss Mary E. Murray, Allegany; Frank Winsheimer, Fort Hill, and Paul Hilaire, Beall.

"Give the people the facts and they will make the right decisions" was the keynote of the address by Dr. Earle T. Hawkins, president of Towson State Teachers College, and a member of the Central Committee of IMPA at the December workshop.

Dr. Hawkins stressed that a person who is unable to speak because he is uninformed ignores the privilege of democracy. A teacher is, first of all, a citizen. He is a citizen educated to a higher degree than the average. He especially should be expected to exercise that vigilance for the public welfare which is the price of democracy.

The Institute of Maryland Public Affairs has attracted nation wide interest and many requests for information regarding it have come from educational institutions and teachers' organizations. The program represents several years of planning and work on the part of the State Teachers Association.

Clerk Gets New Tax Sales Book

A shiny new red-bound book has been added to the volumes in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, for the recording of tax sales.

This new volume is required under the new rules of court for the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Maryland, embracing Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties. The new regulations became effective January 1.

Under the old rules of court all sales by collectors of taxes were placed in the miscellaneous docket of the court. The new rules call for all sales by collectors of taxes to be placed in a book marked "Tax Sales." None has yet been recorded.

The miscellaneous docket is for all cases of petitions for habeas corpus, petitions of appeal from officers of registration, condemnation of land (unless such condemnations are specially provided for otherwise in the Act of Assembly authorizing them), all inquisitions for lunatic paupers and all other matters of like miscellaneous character.

4-H Federation Will Elect New Officers

New officers will be elected and a 1954 program will be arranged when the Allegany County 4-H Boys' Federation meets at the Court House at 8 p. m. Friday, February 5.

Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger has urged all 4-H Club officers to attend the election meeting in his office on the third floor of the Court House.

Paye To Outline Alternate Plan To Kiwanis Club

At today's luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club in Central YMCA, Albert S. Paye, engineer and member of the City Planning Commission, will explain the "Alternate Proposal to the Crosstown Bridge."

According to William J. Edwards, secretary, in his annual report of attendance, nine members have 100 per cent records and 17 attended 40 or more meetings in 1953. Average attendance for the year, however, is shown as .58 below 1952.

Hundred percenters include Edwards who holds the record with perfect attendance for 14 years. Thomas N. Berry and George W. Brown, have attended every session for three years; James W. Bishop, W. S. Cunningham, John L. Carnochan, John W. McClure, and Carl F. Schmutz, two years each; and Charles L. Herath, one year.

New members admitted during 1953 include Capt. Daniel K. Biggs, Walter D. Burd, Robert M. Hunter, Richard W. Kirsch, John W. McNeill and Andrew N. Phillips.

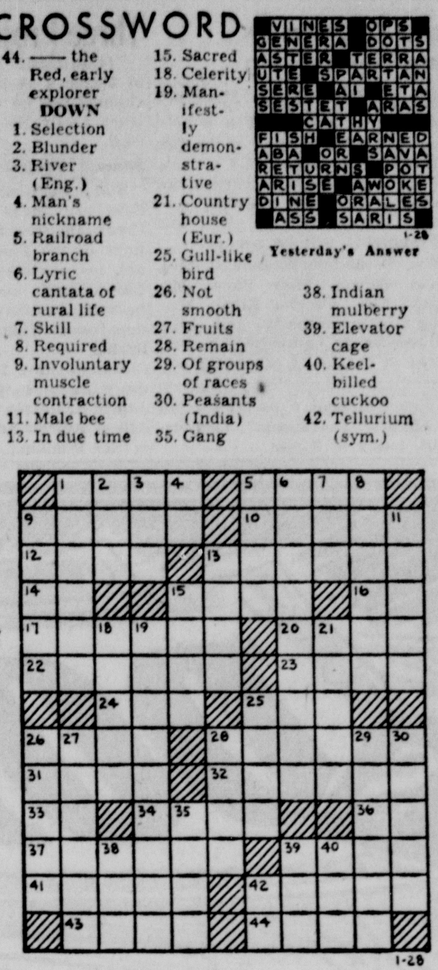

Those who helped hold up the average by attending 40 or more meetings include, William M. Somerville, 49; John L. Ort, 47; Frank V. Carpenter, 46; Edwin T. Dixon, J. Frank Eyman, 45 each; Arthur S. Davis, Fred W. Flurshutz, each 44; G. William Eichner, William E. Landefeld, Harry B. Williams, 43 each; Clarence Lippel, 42; Dr. A. G. T. Twigg, 41; Robert S. Barnes, Fred W. Eiler, George M. Martin, D. Lindley Sloan, and John C. Shoupe, 40 each.

Public Affairs Institute Termed State Milestone For Education Of Teachers

Through the Institute of Maryland Public Affairs, Maryland has scored another milestone in education.

Purpose of the institute, sponsored jointly by the Maryland State Teachers Association, the State and County Boards of Education, is to help teachers become better informed citizens, more alert to their responsibilities in a democracy.

Representing each area of Allegany County, 15 teachers are participating in the course, held weekly at the Board of Education office, as are similar groups in each of the 22 other counties of the State and in Baltimore City. Educators from Westernport, Lonaconing, Frostburg, Mt. Savage, Cumberland, Cresaptown and the Flintstone area are enrolled.

During the next five months, this pilot group will make an intensive study of public affairs preparatory to becoming area leaders for larger groups of teachers throughout the county next September.

The primary objective of IMPA is to inform teachers about significant phases and basic issues of governmental operations, with particular emphasis on state and local affairs.

Two workshops on a statewide basis have been conducted by the Maryland State Teachers Association. A two week workshop at Towson State Teachers College during the summer was attended by Miss Gertrude Williams, Beall High School; Robert Morris and Frank Winsheimer, Fort Hill High School and Lewyn C. Davis, junior high supervisor. Each member of the general committee developed a case study for his county. Davis presented one on "Home Rule for Cumberland."

Five county teachers attended the one-day workshop at the Stafford Hotel in December. This included John Grindle, president of the Allegany County Teachers Association; Mrs. Effie Staggers, Bruce; Miss Mary E. Murray, Allegany; Frank Winsheimer, Fort Hill, and Paul Hilaire, Beall.

"Give the people the facts and they will make the right decisions" was the keynote of the address by Dr. Earle T. Hawkins, president of Towson State Teachers College, and a member of the Central Committee of IMPA at the December workshop.

Dr. Hawkins stressed that a person who is unable to speak because he is uninformed ignores the privilege of democracy. A teacher is, first of all, a citizen. He is a citizen educated to a higher degree than the average. He especially should be expected to exercise that vigilance for the public welfare which is the price of democracy.

The Institute of Maryland Public Affairs has attracted nation wide interest and many requests for information regarding it have come from educational institutions and teachers' organizations. The program represents several years of planning and work on the part of the State Teachers Association.

Clerk Gets New Tax Sales Book

A shiny new red-bound book has been added to the volumes in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, for the recording of tax sales.

This new volume is required under the new rules of court for the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Maryland, embracing Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties. The new regulations became effective January 1.

Under the old rules of court all sales by collectors of taxes were placed in the miscellaneous docket of the court. The new rules call for all sales by collectors of taxes to be placed in a book marked "Tax Sales." None has yet been recorded.

The miscellaneous docket is for all cases of petitions for habeas corpus, petitions of appeal from officers of registration, condemnation of land (unless such condemnations are specially provided for otherwise in the Act of Assembly authorizing them), all inquisitions for lunatic paupers and all other matters of like miscellaneous character.

4-H Federation Will Elect New Officers

New officers will be elected and a 1954 program will be arranged when the Allegany County 4-H Boys' Federation meets at the Court House at 8 p. m. Friday, February 5.

Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger has urged all 4-H Club officers to attend the election meeting in his office on the third floor of the Court House.

Paye To Outline Alternate Plan To Kiwanis Club

At today's luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club in Central YMCA, Albert S. Paye, engineer and member of the City Planning Commission, will explain the "Alternate Proposal to the Crosstown Bridge."

According to William J. Edwards, secretary, in his annual report of attendance, nine members have 100 per cent records and 17 attended 40 or more meetings in 1953. Average attendance for the year, however, is shown as .58 below 1952.

Hundred percenters include Edwards who holds the record with perfect attendance for 14 years, Thomas N. Berry and George W. Brown, have attended every session for three years; James W. Bishop, W. S. Cunningham, John L. Carnochan, John W. McClure, and Carl F. Schmutz, two years each; and Charles L. Herath, one year.

New members admitted during 1953 include Capt. Daniel K. Biggs, Walter D. Burd, Robert M. Hunter, Richard W. Kirsch, John W. McNeill and Andrew N. Phillips.

Those who helped hold up the average by attending 40 or more meetings include, William M. Somerville, 49; John L. Ort, 47; Frank V. Carpenter, 46; Edwin T. Dixon, J. Frank Eyman, 45 each; Arthur S. Davis, Fred W. Flurshutz, each 44; G. William Eichner, William E. Landefeld, Harry B. Williams, 43 each; Clarence Lippel, 42; Dr. A. G. T. Twigg, 41; Robert S. Barnes, Fred W. Eiler, George M. Martin, D. Lindley Sloan, and John C. Shoupe, 40 each.

Protest Filed On Gas Well Regulations

Court Action Taken On Garrett Co. Rule

BALTIMORE, Jan. 27 (AP) — A Uniontown, Pa., drilling firm has asked the Circuit Court to declare unconstitutional the authority of Garrett County's Board of Commissioners to disregard a state law regulating spacing of natural gas and oil wells.

The complaint was filed by Orville Aberly, Robert E. Eberly and William E. Snee.

They claimed they have lost money in their operations around Accident in Garrett County because the commissioners rejected state regulations on drilling space control.

The Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources proposed the regulations first in 1951. They passed the House and died in the Senate.

The bill was passed last year, but only after an amendment gave the Garrett County commissioners the right to accept or reject them. Virtually all of the gas and oil well drilling in Maryland is done in Garrett County.

In urging passage of the regulations last year, Dr. Joseph T. Singewald Jr., director of the geology department, called drilling of 90 gas wells around Mt. Lake Park in the previous two years a "shameful record of wasteful exploitation and financial loss."

He estimated it cost $2,700,000 to drill the 90 wells, of which only 41 produced about 1½ million dollars worth of gas.

Spacing control "would have prevented this enormous financial loss," Dr. Singewald claimed.

Garrett County benefits from a tax on gas produced.

Viet Nam, one of Indo-China's three associated states, holds all but five million of the region's estimated 27 million population.

8 Farmers Acquitted Of Assault

OAKLAND — Eight Garrett County farmers have been acquitted in Oakland on charges of assault and "molesting" an automobile last month at the strikebound Imperial Ice Cream Company receiving station there.

Magistrate William O. Bitzer said he dismissed both counts "for lack of evidence."

Defendants were Owen Martin, Clyde Ervin and Eb Liller, James Gower, Harold White, Raymond Lantz and Aza Queer. Each had posted $500 bond following the alleged incident December 29.

The eight were accused of upsetting a car owned by William Coffman and also occupied by Robert Latkovich, representatives of the Union Mine Workers from Uniontown. They entered not guilty pleas.

Reports said the two union men were in the vehicle in front of the Imperial concern when it was turned over on its side. At the time there were a large number of farmers in the immediate area, determined to see that their milk would be accepted at the station.

Staff Member Of Gov. Talmadge Visits Frostburg

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Roy Krauss, of Griffen, Ga., arrived here this week to visit his aunt, Mrs. Ann Ort, East Main Street.

Krauss is a son of Philip Krauss, a patient in Miners Hospital who was seriously injured several weeks ago on U. S. Route 40 between Big and Little Savage Mountains, while serving as a pallbearer for Mrs. Elizabeth Winebrenner.

Krauss, who came here on account of the injury to his father, is engaged in farming near Griffen, Ga., and is on the staff of Gov. Herman Talmadge with the honorary title of Lieutenant Colonel. He is a native of Baltimore and spent part of his boyhood, from 1909 to 1912, with his grandmother, the late Mrs. Adam Krauss, Washington Street, here.

Col. Krauss reported last evening that his father, although badly injured, is slowly improving.

Mineral County Polio Campaign Far Below Goal

Less Than Half Is Contributed

KEYSER — The third week of the 1954 March of Dimes campaign, ending January 23, shows a total collection of only $2,602.94, only 46 percent of the Mineral County goal, or an average contribution of 11½ cents per person. That is somewhat better than the meager four cents per capita collection of a year ago, but far from attaining the goal set for this year.

H. Brown Oates, county director, believes the public should know how the campaign is going, and each week he makes a full report, detailing what has been done, hoping that citizens of Mineral County will this year respond in a manner that will produce enough to take care of the needs of the county for the year.

Oates reports collections, by communities in the county to date, as follows: Antioch, $25.50; Beryl, $46.71; Burlington, $189.85; Elk Garden, $144.63; Fort Ashby, $206.37; Keyser, $1,425.46; New Creek, $93.80; Piedmont, $286.23; Ridgeley, $110.23; and Wiley Ford, $74.16.

The public school children have contributed $583.02, or an average of 14 cents per child, to date. Beryl School leads with 28 cents per student, followed by Short Gap, Keyser Elementary, Burlington, Wiley Ford, Fort Ashby, New Creek, Patterson's Creek, Lincoln, Limestone, Elk Garden, Keyser High and Piedmont.

Oates reports that adult cards have produced $1,340.90, with a return of 11½ percent of the 7,400 cards that were mailed.

Social organizations have donated $437.86.

There are still a few days left in the alloted period for the campaign in which citizens of Mineral County may send in contributions, said Oates in discussing the campaign's closing days. "If every reader of this news would forward a contribution to the March of Dimes, Keyser, W. Va.," the director said, "then the goal of $5,584 will be reached."

All Frostburg Schools Join March Of Dimes

Stage Set For Mothers March

FROSTBURG — All the local schools and State Teachers College have joined the March of Dimes campaign. Mrs. Kathleen Todd, one of the volunteer workers, reported that State Teachers College accepted 600 envelope containers to be distributed among the students and the training school. Similar containers were distributed to all the pupils of Beall High, Beall Elementary, Hill Street and St. Michael's Parochial, schools.

James Shryock, co-chairman of the drive, stated that a large number of letters have been mailed to business concerns in the Frostburg district appealing for contributions.

Shryock stated that the development and testing of a promising new vaccine, coupled with the continued use of gamma globulin, are placing increasingly heavy demands upon the Foundation's financial resources. In order to assure final victory it is, therefore, imperative that this year's contribution be as generous as possible.

Arrangements have been made to have the fire siren sounded, both here and in Borden Shaft, Friday at 7 p.m., symbolizing the house-to-house soliciting campaign to be made by mothers and other women of the community. Frostburg, Midlothian and Shaft have been divided into sections and all persons are asked to have their front windows and porches illuminated, indicating their desire to have the collectors call for a donation.

8 Farmers Acquitted Of Assault

OAKLAND — Eight Garrett County farmers have been acquitted in Oakland on charges of assault and "molesting" an automobile last month at the strikebound Imperial Ice Cream Company receiving station there.

Magistrate William O. Bitzer said he dismissed both counts "for lack of evidence."

Defendants were Owen Martin, Clyde Ervin and Eb Liller, James Gower, Harold White, Raymond Lantz and Aza Queer. Each had posted $500 bond following the alleged incident December 29.

The eight were accused of upsetting a car owned by William Coffman and also occupied by Robert Latkovich, representatives of the Union Mine Workers from Uniontown. They entered not guilty pleas.

Reports said the two union men were in the vehicle in front of the Imperial concern when it was turned over on its side. At the time there were a large number of farmers in the immediate area, determined to see that their milk would be accepted at the station.

Staff Member Of Gov. Talmadge Visits Frostburg

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Roy Krauss, of Griffen, Ga., arrived here this week to visit his aunt, Mrs. Ann Ort, East Main Street.

Krauss is a son of Philip Krauss, a patient in Miners Hospital who was seriously injured several weeks ago on U. S. Route 40 between Big and Little Savage Mountains, while serving as a pallbearer for Mrs. Elizabeth Winebrenner.

Krauss, who came here on account of the injury to his father, is engaged in farming near Griffen, Ga., and is on the staff of Gov. Herman Talmadge with the honorary title of Lieutenant Colonel. He is a native of Baltimore and spent part of his boyhood, from 1909 to 1912, with his grandmother, the late Mrs. Adam Krauss, Washington Street, here.

Col. Krauss reported last evening that his father, although badly injured, is slowly improving.

Mineral County Polio Campaign Far Below Goal

Less Than Half Is Contributed

KEYSER — The third week of the 1954 March of Dimes campaign, ending January 23, shows a total collection of only $2,602.94, only 46 percent of the Mineral County goal, or an average contribution of 11½ cents per person. That is somewhat better than the meager four cents per capita collection of a year ago, but far from attaining the goal set for this year.

H. Brown Oates, county director, believes the public should know how the campaign is going, and each week he makes a full report, detailing what has been done, hoping that citizens of Mineral County will this year respond in a manner that will produce enough to take care of the needs of the county for the year.

Oates reports collections, by communities in the county to date, as follows: Antioch, $25.50; Beryl, $46.71; Burlington, $189.85; Elk Garden, $144.63; Fort Ashby, $206.37; Keyser, $1,425.46; New Creek, $93.80; Piedmont, $286.23; Ridgeley, $110.23; and Wiley Ford, $74.16.

The public school children have contributed $583.02, or an average of 14 cents per child, to date. Beryl School leads with 28 cents per student, followed by Short Gap, Keyser Elementary, Burlington, Wiley Ford, Fort Ashby, New Creek, Patterson's Creek, Lincoln, Limestone, Elk Garden, Keyser High and Piedmont.

Oates reports that adult cards have produced $1,340.90, with a return of 11½ percent of the 7,400 cards that were mailed.

Social organizations have donated $437.86.

There are still a few days left in the alloted period for the campaign in which citizens of Mineral County may send in contributions, said Oates in discussing the campaign's closing days. "If every reader of this news would forward a contribution to the March of Dimes, Keyser, W. Va.," the director said, "then the goal of $5,584 will be reached."

All Frostburg Schools Join March Of Dimes

Stage Set For Mothers March

FROSTBURG — All the local schools and State Teachers College have joined the March of Dimes campaign. Mrs. Kathleen Todd, one of the volunteer workers, reported that State Teachers College accepted 600 envelope containers to be distributed among the students and the training school. Similar containers were distributed to all the pupils of Beall High, Beall Elementary, Hill Street and St. Michael's Parochial, schools.

James Shryock, co-chairman of the drive, stated that a large number of letters have been mailed to business concerns in the Frostburg district appealing for contributions.

Shryock stated that the development and testing of a promising new vaccine, coupled with the continued use of gamma globulin, are placing increasingly heavy demands upon the Foundation's financial resources. In order to assure final victory it is, therefore, imperative that this year's contribution be as generous as possible.

Arrangements have been made to have the fire siren sounded, both here and in Borden Shaft, Friday at 7 p.m., symbolizing the house-to-house soliciting campaign to be made by mothers and other women of the community. Frostburg, Midlothian and Shaft have been divided into sections and all persons are asked to have their front windows and porches illuminated, indicating their desire to have the collectors call for a donation.

Florabelle Walker Is Vocalist And Instrumentalist

MEYERSDALE—Florabelle Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Walker, 1215 Brubaker Street, Berlin, has been chosen to represent Berlin Brothersvalley Joint High School at the Maple Queen contest, February 24, in Cambria County War Memorial, Johnstown.

Miss Walker, a fair complexioned blonde, has eyes the color of grey-green, each shade predominating with changes in lighting and dress.

The 17-year-old commercial senior has attended Central-Western Chorus for the past two years and All-County Chorus from 1951 to 1953. She has been soloist in the First Brethren Church of Berlin since 1952, and will display her vocal talent at Johnstown.

Active also in instrumental music, the five-foot three and one-half inch student is a member of both the school band and orchestra, being named to All-County Orchestra in 1953 and All-County Band in 1954.

Other than music practices and performances after school hours, Miss Walker says swimming and dancing are her two main hobbies. Her measurements are: bust 34"; waist 28" and hips, 36".

A senatorial scholarship is offered each year to the Maple Queen, and Berlin-Brothersvalley's contestant intends to resume her studies after graduation at Grove City College, Grove City, Pa. While at Berlin high, Florabelle Walker has been active in the Chic and Y-Teens clubs, and is a four-year member of the mixed chorus.

This lovely lady will come to Meyersdale, April 2-4, with nine other girls from Somerset County schools to take part in the festivities as queen, maid of honor or princess.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 27 (INS)—Deborah Kerr was interviewed by Hal Wallis when he was in New York a few weeks ago to play the lead in "Summer and Smoke." Yes, Hal is buying Tennessee Williams' play which was on Broadway a few seasons ago.

"What about 'Tea and Sympathy'?" I asked Hal, because Deborah has said that after she makes "End of the Affair" in London she will return to the "Tea and Sympathy" play.

"That's all right, too, because we don't expect to make 'Summer and Smoke' for a year," Hal replied.

Samuel Fuller, who has permission from 20th to make one outside picture a year, has accepted the Woolf brothers offer to write and direct "The Story of Esther Costello" in England and Ireland this summer.

I just finished reading Nicholas Monsarrat's best seller about a bored, idle American woman who befriends a deaf mute Irish girl and is gradually drawn into one of the worst charity rackets of all time. It's a shocker.

The Woolfs are back of Romulus Films which made "African Queen," "Moulin Rouge" and "Beat the Devil"—and they'll get the best stars available in London and Hollywood for their latest venture.

Mary Murphy was one of the pretty girls who went to Korea on the recent "Operation Ermine Bathing Suit" jaunt — but with Terry Moore rating all the headlines Mary might as well have stayed home. Except the GIs Mary entertained are very grateful, and they make it worthwhile to her.

Today, little Miss Murphy was loaned by Paramount for the W. R. Frank picture "Sitting Bull." It's an outdoor opus in CinemaScope starting Feb. 15.

Mary is doing all right in her career. Her recent films are "The Wild One" opposite Marlon Brando; "Beachhead" and "Main Street to Broadway."

Billy Wilder tells me that Leland Hayward gets here Monday at which time they will discuss "Spirit of St. Louis," the story of Lindbergh's famous flight.

"We are going to put an unknown in the role of Lindbergh," Wilder tells me. "Remember he was only 25 at the time he crossed the ocean. We don't feel that any actor connected with any other picture will be right."

Billy says only the drama of the Lindbergh flight will be used, not his whole life.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Duke Wayne has such a bad sty on his right eye that he's had to cancel all picture layouts.

Sometimes it doesn't pay to be too much of a kidder. Phil Silvers fell backwards over a table on the "Lucky Me" set and knocked himself unconscious. Doris Day thought Phil was gagging and no one paid any attention for at least ten minutes.

The Guy Mitchell-Jackie Loughery settlement has finally been wound up out of court. Guy was given custody of his horse, and Jackie was given the convertible.

Hugh O'Brian, the young actor who won the international press award as "the star of tomorrow," has left Universal-International to free lance. He goes to Europe first and, in the meantime, has been signed for TV shows.

At the Bantam Cock for dinner were Wanda Hendrix and Bob Stack.

Bella Darvi and Bob Calhoun, Ginny Simms' ex, at the Plymouth House for dinner.

Leo McCarey is in Spain and likes it so well he'll make his next picture in Madrid.

The Ray Millands are really getting away from Hollywood come April. They are renting a house on the French Riviera for the summer.

Grace Kelly and Rita Gam have taken an apartment together while they are making films here. When Rita finishes she'll return to New York, and Grace will take a cottage at Malibu for the summer.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

(Distributed By INS)

Shriek Of Silence

Not since the architects got the wrong slant on the Tower of Pisa have there been so many tangented caroms off the sounding board of personal liberty.

For some diluted reason the intelligentsia seem to think they're the prime ribs of civilization. Like the Cabots and the Lodges there are only three plug-ins on their switch-board.

For them there's a hand-rail on the rainbow and for them the birds go tweet-tweet-tweet. They are not to be questioned in the courts of the average man like a delphic oracle with a tin-cup.

Well, let me buzz the aloof intelligentsia in their nickel-plated zones of superiority. If there's wax in your ears you are just ordinary run-of-the-mill. And subject to interrogation the same as John Doe's round-shouldered uncle.

The Bill of Rights stakes you to no more prerogatives than a shoemaker. At least he has a valid alibi for not answering. He might swallow his tacks.

The Constitution that makes you equal keeps you equal. It guarantees you to your day in court. Sometimes against your bitter judgment.

When you are there it would be well to know that all the mills of the gods grind is not corn. And that refusing to answer is a shriek of silence.

If your answer would tend to incriminate and degrade you that's not the fault of the question.

A wife's charm can aid in her husband's advancement and increase the future security of the whole family!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

It is no secret that a wife's charm can aid her husband's climb up the ladder of success or else hold him back on a lower rung. Many companies and corporations check on a man's wife before employing him or promoting him to a more important position.

What are some of the considerations in such matters? Listed below as a few. Check to see how you stack up:

1. Does the wife dress well, yet live within their income?

2. Is she a "meddler," a "climber" or a "busybody?"

3. Is she a good stabilizing influence for her husband — or the type who is more apt to nag and complain the moment her husband gets home?

Social Talents

4. Is she able to put people at ease? Is she a good mixer?

5. Can she remember the names of those she meets at company gatherings and parties?

6. Does she read enough to be a good conversationalist and so that she is at least conversant with such subjects as music, art, literature and current events?

7. In living standards, does she know how to keep up to her husband's executive position — yet also know enough not to overstep and vie with his company superiors?

8. Can she be friendly with other company wives, yet avoid any temptation to gossip?

9. Is she "mobile" — one who is willing to move when and wherever her husband might be transferred?

10. Can she stay out of company "politics," avoid feuds with other wives or husband's secretary?

Self Reliant

11. Is she able to make her own decisions so that she seldom need call her husband and will stay out of his office except on the rarest occasion?

12. Has she a good sense of public relations?

With more and more companies putting a high value on the executive's wife, tact, poise, gracious sociability, capacity for adaptableness, a knowledge of when and how to conform and how to dress well — charm becomes increasingly important to many a family's security!

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 27 (INS)—Deborah Kerr was interviewed by Hal Wallis when he was in New York a few weeks ago to play the lead in "Summer and Smoke." Yes, Hal is buying Tennessee Williams' play which was on Broadway a few seasons ago.

"What about 'Tea and Sympathy'?" I asked Hal, because Deborah has said that after she makes "End of the Affair" in London she will return to the "Tea and Sympathy" play.

"That's all right, too, because we don't expect to make 'Summer and Smoke' for a year," Hal replied.

Samuel Fuller, who has permission from 20th to make one outside picture a year, has accepted the Woolf brothers offer to write and direct "The Story of Esther Costello" in England and Ireland this summer.

I just finished reading Nicholas Monsarrat's best seller about a bored, idle American woman who befriends a deaf mute Irish girl and is gradually drawn into one of the worst charity rackets of all time. It's a shocker.

The Woolfs are back of Romulus Films which made "African Queen," "Moulin Rouge" and "Beat the Devil"—and they'll get the best stars available in London and Hollywood for their latest venture.

Mary Murphy was one of the pretty girls who went to Korea on the recent "Operation Ermine Bathing Suit" jaunt — but with Terry Moore rating all the headlines Mary might as well have stayed home. Except the GIs Mary entertained are very grateful, and they make it worthwhile to her.

Today, little Miss Murphy was loaned by Paramount for the W. R. Frank picture "Sitting Bull." It's an outdoor opus in CinemaScope starting Feb. 15.

Mary is doing all right in her career. Her recent films are "The Wild One" opposite Marlon Brando; "Beachhead" and "Main Street to Broadway."

Billy Wilder tells me that Leland Hayward gets here Monday at which time they will discuss "Spirit of St. Louis," the story of Lindbergh's famous flight.

"We are going to put an unknown in the role of Lindbergh," Wilder tells me. "Remember he was only 25 at the time he crossed the ocean. We don't feel that any actor connected with any other picture will be right."

Billy says only the drama of the Lindbergh flight will be used, not his whole life.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Duke Wayne has such a bad sty on his right eye that he's had to cancel all picture layouts.

Sometimes it doesn't pay to be too much of a kidder. Phil Silvers fell backwards over a table on the "Lucky Me" set and knocked himself unconscious. Doris Day thought Phil was gagging and no one paid any attention for at least ten minutes.

The Guy Mitchell-Jackie Loughery settlement has finally been wound up out of court. Guy was given custody of his horse, and Jackie was given the convertible.

Hugh O'Brian, the young actor who won the international press award as "the star of tomorrow," has left Universal-International to free lance. He goes to Europe first and, in the meantime, has been signed for TV shows.

At the Bantam Cock for dinner were Wanda Hendrix and Bob Stack.

Bella Darvi and Bob Calhoun, Ginny Simms' ex, at the Plymouth House for dinner.

Leo McCarey is in Spain and likes it so well he'll make his next picture in Madrid.

The Ray Millands are really getting away from Hollywood come April. They are renting a house on the French Riviera for the summer.

Grace Kelly and Rita Gam have taken an apartment together while they are making films here. When Rita finishes she'll return to New York, and Grace will take a cottage at Malibu for the summer.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Baering Down On The News

Shriek Of Silence

Not since the architects got the wrong slant on the Tower of Pisa have there been so many tangented caroms off the sounding board of personal liberty.

For some diluted reason the intelligentsia seem to think they're the prime ribs of civilization. Like the Cabots and the Lodges there are only three plug-ins on their switch-board.

For them there's a hand-rail on the rainbow and for them the birds go tweet-tweet-tweet. They are not to be questioned in the courts of the average man like a delphic oracle with a tin-cup.

Well, let me buzz the aloof intelligentsia in their nickel-plated zones of superiority. If there's wax in your ears you are just ordinary run-of-the-mill. And subject to interrogation the same as John Doe's round-shouldered uncle.

The Bill of Rights stakes you to no more prerogatives than a shoemaker. At least he has a valid alibi for not answering. He might swallow his tacks.

The Constitution that makes you equal keeps you equal. It guarantees you to your day in court. Sometimes against your bitter judgment.

When you are there it would be well to know that all the mills of the gods grind is not corn. And that refusing to answer is a shriek of silence.

If your answer would tend to incriminate and degrade you that's not the fault of the question.

A wife's charm can aid in her husband's advancement and increase the future security of the whole family!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

It is no secret that a wife's charm can aid her husband's climb up the ladder of success or else hold him back on a lower rung. Many companies and corporations check on a man's wife before employing him or promoting him to a more important position.

What are some of the considerations in such matters? Listed below as a few. Check to see how you stack up:

1. Does the wife dress well, yet live within their income?

2. Is she a "meddler," a "climber" or a "busybody?"

3. Is she a good stabilizing influence for her husband — or the type who is more apt to nag and complain the moment her husband gets home?

Social Talents

4. Is she able to put people at ease? Is she a good mixer?

5. Can she remember the names of those she meets at company gatherings and parties?

6. Does she read enough to be a good conversationalist and so that she is at least conversant with such subjects as music, art, literature and current events?

7. In living standards, does she know how to keep up to her husband's executive position — yet also know enough not to overstep and vie with his company superiors?

8. Can she be friendly with other company wives, yet avoid any temptation to gossip?

9. Is she "mobile" — one who is willing to move when and wherever her husband might be transferred?

10. Can she stay out of company "politics," avoid feuds with other wives or husband's secretary?

Self Reliant

11. Is she able to make her own decisions so that she seldom need call her husband and will stay out of his office except on the rarest occasion?

12. Has she a good sense of public relations?

With more and more companies putting a high value on the executive's wife, tact, poise, gracious sociability, capacity for adaptableness, a knowledge of when and how to conform and how to dress well — charm becomes increasingly important to many a family's security!

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice—one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success—by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness and lack of proper modulation. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Frederick Newsman Dies Of Heart Ailment

FREDERICK, Jan. 27 (AP)—James Richard Kelly, advertising manager for the Frederick News and Post, died of a heart ailment at his home here early today. He was 39.

Kelly got up early today with what he thought was an attack of indigestion and went downstairs to get a remedy for the discomfort.

His wife found him on the floor.

He was the son of William R. and Mamie Fraley Kelly of near Catoctin Furnace. He graduated from Thurmont High School and from St. John's College, Annapolis, in 1935, coming to the News and Post shortly thereafter.

His wife and three children, ranging in ages from nine months to 11 years, survive. The funeral will be Saturday.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 27 (AP)—The mother of one of the 21 American GI prisoners of war who refused repatriation said today the group should "get a good swift kick" for refusing to come home.

"But they'll come home one by one when they see what's going on in Russia," Mrs. Theodore Seifert of Ashland, Pa., told a newsman today. She is the mother of Cpl. Albert C. Belhomme.

Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

YES, IT IS REAL LUCK

WHEN you see an artistic cardsman play for a lucky break which is required in order to make his contract, and the cards work out as he had hoped, he is likely to be called lucky. He really is. Such developments are sometimes lucky in more ways than one. Perhaps the greatest luck of all is the performer's good fortune in having the perception to see wherein his chance for possible success might lie. Mayhap the average player would not have received the lucky break because he would not have noted the chance for it, or how to use it.

	♠ K J 5 ♥ A 9 8 6 ♦ A K 2 ♣ A 5 3
♠ 9 6 3 ♥ K J 7 ♦ Q J 10 3 ♣ Q J 6	N W E S	♠ 2 ♥ Q 4 2 ♦ 9 8 5 ♣ 10 9 8 7 4 2
	♠ A Q 10 8 7 4 ♥ 10 5 3 ♦ 7 6 4 ♣ K

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 NT	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	6 ♠

Rather odd bidding, perhaps, but based on the foundation that North's opening No Trump calls were only on very strong hands. Even with such a big holding opposite him, South had to do a fine job of successive discarding to bring in the slam.

Three losers were in sight when play began with the lead of the diamond Q—two in hearts and one in diamonds. Now note how South got rid of them. Winning the first trick with the diamond K, he laid down the spade J, sent the 5 to the A and then discontinued trumps in order to leave the K in dummy as a re-entry. The heart 10 was led and covered by the J, which South allowed to win—an unusual and quite sparkling play, as we shall see.

West's return was the diamond 10 to the A. Then came the club 3 to the K, the heart 3 to the A, the club A for a discard of the heart 5, and the heart 9 ruffed by the spade Q to set up the 8 in dummy since the suit broke evenly in the defenders' hands. Now the spade 7 to the K cleared trumps and the heart 8 was used to discard the diamond 7. That left nothing in South's hands except good trumps, so he made his small slam.

Lucky to find the hearts divided 3-3 between the opponents? Yes, indeed. But luckier still to see that this break would give him the contract, if he made proper use of the good fortune.

Tomor'ow's Problem

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

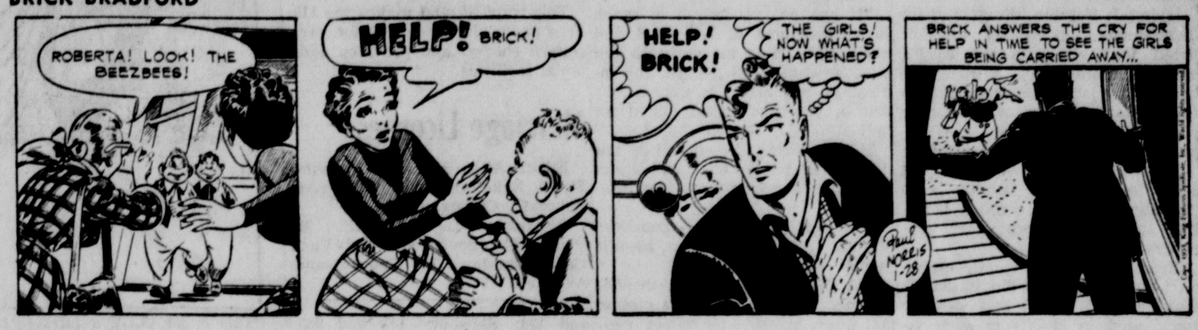

If West had supported East's hearts and leads the K of the suit against South's 5-Clubs, which East doubled, how should the defense proceed?

YES, IT IS REAL LUCK

WHEN you see an artistic cardsman play for a lucky break which is required in order to make his contract, and the cards work out as he had hoped, he is likely to be called lucky. He really is. Such developments are sometimes lucky in more ways than one. Perhaps the greatest luck of all is the performer's good fortune in having the perception to see wherein his chance for possible success might lie. Mayhap the average player would not have received the lucky break because he would not have noted the chance for it, or how to use it.

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 NT	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	6 ♠

Rather odd bidding, perhaps, but based on the foundation that North's opening No Trump calls were only on very strong hands. Even with such a big holding opposite him, South had to do a fine job of successive discarding to bring in the slam.

Three losers were in sight when play began with the lead of the diamond Q—two in hearts and one in diamonds. Now note how South got rid of them. Winning the first trick with the diamond K, he laid down the spade J, sent the 5 to the A and then discontinued trumps in order to leave the K in dummy as a re-entry. The heart 10 was led and covered by the J, which South allowed to win—an unusual and quite sparkling play, as we shall see.

West's return was the diamond 10 to the A. Then came the club 3 to the K, the heart 3 to the A, the club A for a discard of the heart 5, and the heart 9 ruffed by the spade Q to set up the 8 in dummy since the suit broke evenly in the defenders' hands. Now the spade 7 to the K cleared trumps and the heart 8 was used to discard the diamond 7. That left nothing in South's hands except good trumps, so he made his small slam.

Lucky to find the hearts divided 3-3 between the opponents? Yes, indeed. But luckier still to see that this break would give him the contract, if he made proper use of the good fortune.

If West had supported East's hearts and leads the K of the suit against South's 5-Clubs, which East doubled, how should the defense proceed?

Fewer Workers Reported Seeking Jobless Pay Aid

BALTIMORE (AP) — About one-fourth fewer workers made new applications for jobless pay in Maryland last week than the week before, a check showed yesterday.

The State Department of Employment Security reported the number of new applications dropped by about 27 per cent.

It also reported the total number of new applicants and recipients of unemployment compensation was 29,279 — a drop of 1,200 from the week before.

Irving J. Forsyth, director of the department's statistical division, noted that an estimated 650,000 workers in Maryland industries are covered by jobless-pay benefits. So fewer than five per cent of those covered are getting or have applied for compensation, he said.

The department's weekly report said last week's layoffs were "widely distributed through industry, and for the most part temporary."

Mrs. G. N. McDermott, economist and analyst for the statistical division, said recent bad weather contributed to layoffs in such industries as outdoor construction and seafood packing.

Mrs. McDermott said the division's figures merely indicate, rather than measure, the unemployment picture. She pointed out there are 125,000 to 130,000 other workers in Maryland whose jobs do not fall within the unemployment benefit system. Domestic employes fit into still another category, she said.

"There is no doubt unemployment has been rising," said Mrs. McDermott. "It started rising in November.

"It has not yet begun to reach the proportions of late 1949 and early 1950. It is too early to tell exactly what it all means. The indicators are mixed. It may be we are in what has been called an 'adjustment'," she concluded.

The "indicators" recorded by the department for the week ended last Saturday (previous week in parentheses):

New applications for benefits: 995,725 (7,991). Receiving benefit ments: $571,942 ($548,825).

The Cambridge office of the department reported 301 new claims last week, bringing its roll of compensation recipients to 1,388. Other offices included Chestertown 27 and 130; Salisbury 182 and 930; Easton 85 and 310; Crisfield 159 and 239.

Recreation Area Land Acquired

Ten more acres were acquired by the State Department of Forests and Parks for the Dan's Mountain Receration Area near Lonaconing, William H. Johnson, district forester, announced yesterday.

The land was purchased from Casper and Helen Hadley and is a part of St. Bart's Tract on the mountain.

The mineral rights were bought from the Jacob Miller estate, Johnson reported.

This tract of land makes the 110-acre parcel in the recreation area square shaped and provides additional facilities.

Local Bank Debits Increase In November

Debits (check totals) or Cumberland banks increased substantially in November 1953 over November 1952, according to Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond.

The total was $22,883,000 as compared to $19,752,000. For the first 11 months of 1953 the local figure was $274,163,009 while the 1952 amount was $274,170,000.

Fewer Workers Reported Seeking Jobless Pay Aid

BALTIMORE (AP) — About one-fourth fewer workers made new applications for jobless pay in Maryland last week than the week before, a check showed yesterday.

The State Department of Employment Security reported the number of new applications dropped by about 27 per cent.

It also reported the total number of new applicants and recipients of unemployment compensation was 29,279 — a drop of 1,200 from the week before.

Irving J. Forsyth, director of the department's statistical division, noted that an estimated 650,000 workers in Maryland industries are covered by jobless-pay benefits. So fewer than five per cent of those covered are getting or have applied for compensation, he said.

The department's weekly report said last week's layoffs were "widely distributed through industry, and for the most part temporary."

Mrs. G. N. McDermott, economist and analyst for the statistical division, said recent bad weather contributed to layoffs in such industries as outdoor construction and seafood packing.

Mrs. McDermott said the division's figures merely indicate, rather than measure, the unemployment picture. She pointed out there are 125,000 to 130,000 other workers in Maryland whose jobs do not fall within the unemployment benefit system. Domestic employes fit into still another category, she said.

"There is no doubt unemployment has been rising," said Mrs. McDermott. "It started rising in November.

"It has not yet begun to reach the proportions of late 1949 and early 1950. It is too early to tell exactly what it all means. The indicators are mixed. It may be we are in what has been called an 'adjustment'," she concluded.

The "indicators" recorded by the department for the week ended last Saturday (previous week in parentheses):

New applications for benefits: 995,725 (7,991). Receiving benefit ments: $571,942 ($548,825).

The Cambridge office of the department reported 301 new claims last week, bringing its roll of compensation recipients to 1,388. Other offices included Chestertown 27 and 130; Salisbury 182 and 930; Easton 85 and 310; Crisfield 159 and 239.

Recreation Area Land Acquired

Ten more acres were acquired by the State Department of Forests and Parks for the Dan's Mountain Receration Area near Lonaconing, William H. Johnson, district forester, announced yesterday.

The land was purchased from Casper and Helen Hadley and is a part of St. Bart's Tract on the mountain.

The mineral rights were bought from the Jacob Miller estate, Johnson reported.

This tract of land makes the 110-acre parcel in the recreation area square shaped and provides additional facilities.

Archie Moore Retains Lightheavyweight Title

Champ Knocks Maxim Down Twice In Bout

Decision In Miami Unanimous; 16,375 Witness 3rd Meeting

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP) — Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore floored Joey Maxim twice with smashing rights and handed him a savage beating tonight to score his third straight title victory over the former titleholder.

The 37-year-old 175-pound king, who entered the ring as a 6-5 underdog in a surprising late shift of odds, sent the 31-year-old Clevelander crashing to the canvas for a six count in the eighth round and a seven count in the 11th.

Most Impressive Win

This was the most impressive of the three wins the ancient St. Louis-born Negro has racked up against the light-hitting but dead-game Maxim.

Moore gave Joey a good shellacking when he took the title from Maxim in St. Louis Dec. 17, 1952, but he never was able to floor him.

In their second fight in Ogden, Utah, June 24, 1953, Archie barely squeezed through for a narrow decision win.

The votes of the three officials tonight were unanimous and that came as no surprise to the crowd of 16,375 that paid an estimated 189,000 for the nationally telecast and broadcast 15-rounder.

Vote Is Unanimous

Referee Cy Gottfried had it 145-137, Judge Marty Monroe, 148-135 and Judge Mark Erwin, 148-134. The AP card had Moore the winner, 148-131.

Points were awarded under the new NBA system calling for ten points for the winner of the round and nine or less to the loser. For an even round, each gets ten points.

It was the 16th straight victory for the muscular-armed champion who hasn't lost in two years.

The switch in the odds from the 2 to 1 favoring Moore to the 6-5 favoring Maxim undoubtedly was prompted by Moore's weight of 175 pounds at the noon weigh-in. It was the highest he has scaled for his fights with the dark-haired Clevelander and seemed to lend support to the rumors that he had been having a tough time making the class limit of 175. Maxim weighed 174¼.

Grim-lipped and determined, Moore stormed after his old rival from the opening bell. He wore him down with thudding blows to the body through the early rounds, softened him up further with power-packed left jabs and hooks and sent pal Joey on the way with his overhand rights to the head.

Moore started poking Joey with those lefts for keeps in the sixth round as his handlers yelled at him to, "Stick him! stick him!"

Lets Loose Dynamite

In the eighth, Moore let loose with his dynamite. Just seconds after the fans started clapping for action, Archie shot over a right to Joey's chin and the ex-champion stopped in his tracks, and then fell to the floor. He was up at six, eyes glazed, but game as ever.

Again in the 11th the fans started jeering and once more Archie responded. He lunged after the backtracking challenger and clipped him with a fast right-left-right flurry to the head that set up Maxim for a savage right that dropped him for a seven count.

The AP scorecard gave Maxim only two rounds, the fifth and 12th, and called one even, the third. The fifth went to Maxim when the referee penalized Moore one point for a low blow. Moore, ever pressing, ever stalking, was warned four times by the referee to keep his blows up.

Maxim Is Knocked Down

Joey Maxim is on his hands and knees in the ring as Referee Cy Gottfried counts six in the eighth round of the lightheavyweight championship bout at Miami Stadium last night. Archie Moore, defending his crown for the second time against the challenger from whom he won the title, also knocked Maxim down for an eight count in the 11th round. Maxim went down for eight in the eighth round from a beautiful right hand blow to the chin.

Hartman Paces WVIAC Scorers

Carl Averages 25.4 Per Game, Scores 407

Carl Hartman, junior scoring whiz of the Alderson-Broaddus College Battlers, retained his West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference scoring lead in games reported through Tuesday. Carl, former Ridgeley High school ace, has collected 407 points in 16 games for an average of 25.4 per tilt.

Both the point total and high average are tops in the collegiate conference. "Wink" as he is known in this area, scored 62 points in a single game in 1951 for Ridgeley and set an individual scholastic scoring record which still stands of 623 points in a single season with the Blackhawks.

In two years at Alderson-Broaddus the sharpshooting forward accumulated 1,300 points and this season appears well on his way to adding to his laurels.

Second to Hartman in scoring in the conference is Luther Stover of Beckley with 350 tallies. Clair Muscaro of West Va. Tech has 298 in third place. Dick Schamp of Fairmont State, although he has only 237 points, has played just 10 games and is second in average to Hartman with 23.7 per game. Top 10 scorers:

Deahl, Martin Top Moorefield Scorers

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Jan. 27 —Moorefield High's Yellowjackets, overcoming a stubborn Greenbank quint in the second half, scored their 11th victory of the season here tonight by defeating the Blue Eagles, 56-35.

In the nip-and-tuck first two quarters Moorefield held only a slim lead at 12-11 at the close of the initial stanza and 19-17 at intermission. But the Jackets, powered by the goaling of Marion Deahl and Ruell Martin, broke loose in the last two quarters to swamp the visitors, leading 37-25 at the end of the third period and increasing the margin to 21 points at the close of the game.

Deahl punched home 16 markers to pace the Jackets attack, followed closely by teammate Martin's 12 points. High scorers for Greenbank were Bill Orndorff and Brown Cassell, both with 10 tallies.

Series Is Ended

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP) — "I think this one ended our series," light heavyweight champion Archie Moore said tonight after beating Joey Maxim in a title match.

With a big grin on his lips and a small mouse under his left eye, the champion said he wants to fight Rocky Marciano for the heavyweight crown, but "I'll fight Hal Johnson if they'll get up some money."

Johnson, from Philadelphia, is the No. 1 light-heavy contender and the NBA has been urging Moore to give him a crack at the crown.

Archie Moore Retains Lightheavyweight Title

Decision In Miami Unanimous; 16,375 Witness 3rd Meeting

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP) — Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore floored Joey Maxim twice with smashing rights and handed him a savage beating tonight to score his third straight title victory over the former titleholder.

The 37-year-old 175-pound king, who entered the ring as a 6-5 underdog in a surprising late shift of odds, sent the 31-year-old Clevelander crashing to the canvas for a six count in the eighth round and a seven count in the 11th.

Most Impressive Win

This was the most impressive of the three wins the ancient St. Louis-born Negro has racked up against the light-hitting but dead-game Maxim.

Moore gave Joey a good shellacking when he took the title from Maxim in St. Louis Dec. 17, 1952, but he never was able to floor him.

In their second fight in Ogden, Utah, June 24, 1953, Archie barely squeezed through for a narrow decision win.

The votes of the three officials tonight were unanimous and that came as no surprise to the crowd of 16,375 that paid an estimated 189,000 for the nationally telecast and broadcast 15-rounder.

Vote Is Unanimous

Referee Cy Gottfried had it 145-137, Judge Marty Monroe, 148-135 and Judge Mark Erwin, 148-134. The AP card had Moore the winner, 148-131.

Points were awarded under the new NBA system calling for ten points for the winner of the round and nine or less to the loser. For an even round, each gets ten points.

It was the 16th straight victory for the muscular-armed champion who hasn't lost in two years.

The switch in the odds from the 2 to 1 favoring Moore to the 6-5 favoring Maxim undoubtedly was prompted by Moore's weight of 175 pounds at the noon weigh-in. It was the highest he has scaled for his fights with the dark-haired Clevelander and seemed to lend support to the rumors that he had been having a tough time making the class limit of 175. Maxim weighed 174¼.

Grim-lipped and determined, Moore stormed after his old rival from the opening bell. He wore him down with thudding blows to the body through the early rounds, softened him up further with power-packed left jabs and hooks and sent pal Joey on the way with his overhand rights to the head.

Moore started poking Joey with those lefts for keeps in the sixth round as his handlers yelled at him to, "Stick him! stick him!"

Lets Loose Dynamite

In the eighth, Moore let loose with his dynamite. Just seconds after the fans started clapping for action, Archie shot over a right to Joey's chin and the ex-champion stopped in his tracks, and then fell to the floor. He was up at six, eyes glazed, but game as ever.

Again in the 11th the fans started jeering and once more Archie responded. He lunged after the backtracking challenger and clipped him with a fast right-left-right flurry to the head that set up Maxim for a savage right that dropped him for a seven count.

The AP scorecard gave Maxim only two rounds, the fifth and 12th, and called one even, the third. The fifth went to Maxim when the referee penalized Moore one point for a low blow. Moore, ever pressing, ever stalking, was warned four times by the referee to keep his blows up.

Maxim Is Knocked Down

Joey Maxim is on his hands and knees in the ring as Referee Cy Gottfried counts six in the eighth round of the lightheavyweight championship bout at Miami Stadium last night. Archie Moore, defending his crown for the second time against the challenger from whom he won the title, also knocked Maxim down for an eight count in the 11th round. Maxim went down for eight in the eighth round from a beautiful right hand blow to the chin.

Hartman Paces WVIAC Scorers

Carl Averages 25.4 Per Game, Scores 407

Carl Hartman, junior scoring whiz of the Alderson-Broaddus College Battlers, retained his West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference scoring lead in games reported through Tuesday. Carl, former Ridgeley High school ace, has collected 407 points in 16 games for an average of 25.4 per tilt.

Both the point total and high average are tops in the collegiate conference. "Wink" as he is known in this area, scored 62 points in a single game in 1951 for Ridgeley and set an individual scholastic scoring record which still stands of 623 points in a single season with the Blackhawks.

In two years at Alderson-Broaddus the sharpshooting forward accumulated 1,300 points and this season appears well on his way to adding to his laurels.

Second to Hartman in scoring in the conference is Luther Stover of Beckley with 350 tallies. Clair Muscaro of West Va. Tech has 298 in third place. Dick Schamp of Fairmont State, although he has only 237 points, has played just 10 games and is second in average to Hartman with 23.7 per game. Top 10 scorers:

Jackets Defeat Greenbank 56-35 For 11th Victory

Deahl, Martin Top Moorefield Scorers

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Jan. 27—Moorefield High's Yellowjackets, overcoming a stubborn Greenbank quint in the second half, scored their 11th victory of the season here tonight by defeating the Blue Eagles, 56-35.

In the nip-and-tuck first two quarters Moorefield held only a slim lead at 12-11 at the close of the initial stanza and 19-17 at intermission. But the Jackets, powered by the goaling of Marion Deahl and Ruell Martin, broke loose in the last two quarters to swamp the visitors, leading 37-25 at the end of the third period and increasing the margin to 21 points at the close of the game.

Deahl punched home 16 markers to pace the Jackets attack, followed closely by teammate Martin's 12 points. High scorers for Greenbank were Bill Orndorff and Brown Cassell, both with 10 tallies.

Series Is Ended

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP) — "I think this one ended our series," light heavyweight champion Archie Moore said tonight after beating Joey Maxim in a title match.

With a big grin on his lips and a small mouse under his left eye, the champion said he wants to fight Rocky Marciano for the heavyweight crown, but "I'll fight Hal Johnson if they'll get up some money."

Johnson, from Philadelphia, is the No. 1 light-heavy contender and the NBA has been urging Moore to give him a crack at the crown.

Bruce To Clash With Piedmont Tonight At 8 O'Clock

Lions To Seek Revenge For Only Defeat

Piedmont Court Scene Of Return Battle Of Two Top Area Teams

Two of the winningest teams in the tri-state area—Piedmont High School's Lions and Bruce High School's Bulldogs—are all set for the final game of their court series which will be staged tonight on the Piedmont High court at 8 o'clock.

Coach "Huck" Miers' Lions have won 13 games and lost one and they'll put a seven-game winning streak on the line tonight against the only team that has beaten them this season. Bruce defeated Piedmont on the latter's court January 4 by the score of 75-48 and the Bulldogs' followers believe they can duplicate the feat. The series finale is also being played on the Piedmont court which can accommodate a larger crowd than the Westernport gym.

Split On Piedmont Court

Augie Eichhorn's Bruce quint has an 11-1 record to date and the only loss the Bulldogs suffered was on the Piedmont court at the hands of Allegany High. The score was 47-46. The Westernport quint is tied with Allegany for the lead in the W.M.I. League, each team owning 4-1 records. Piedmont heads the Potomac Valley Conference race with 9-0 and also is out in front in the Mineral County loop with six wins and no losses.

A victory for Bruce would give the team from the Maryland side of the Potomac the Tri-Towns championship for the 1954 season. A Piedmont triumph, which would be regarded as an upset, would enable the Lions to share the title.

Here are the records of the teams:

Other scholastic games in the area tonight bring together Franklin High's Panthers and the West Virginia School for the Deaf in a Potomac Valley Conference affair at Franklin and Triplett High of Mt. Jackson, Va. and Mathias High on the latter's court.

Franklin Seeks Tenth

Coach Bob Hartman's Pendleton Countians are figured to register their tenth win of the season at the expense of the Romney quint. The Panthers have bagged four in a row and now own a 9-2 record. West Virginia School for the Deaf has won four and lost five.

Mathias High, coached by Wendell Mathias, has engaged in 13 games, winning seven and losing six.

Duquesne Cagers Roll On; Win Streak Now At 16 Straight

ONE OF THE FEW undefeated major college cage teams, Duquesne university already has won 16 games in a row and aims for its best season on the court. Included in the Dukes' wins this season are victories over Wake Forest, Pitt, Texas, New York U., Brigham Young and Dayton. Leading the scorers is Dick Ricketts, 6' 7" forward, who set a new university scoring mark last season with 606 points. Ricketts is averaging better than 17 points a game this season. Potomac State Resumes Friday Against Concord

Cats To Host Lions At Keyser At 8 P. M.

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 27—The Potomac State Catamounts will top off a week of inactivity because of semester examinations by meeting the fast-stepping Concord Mountain Lions in Keyser Friday night.

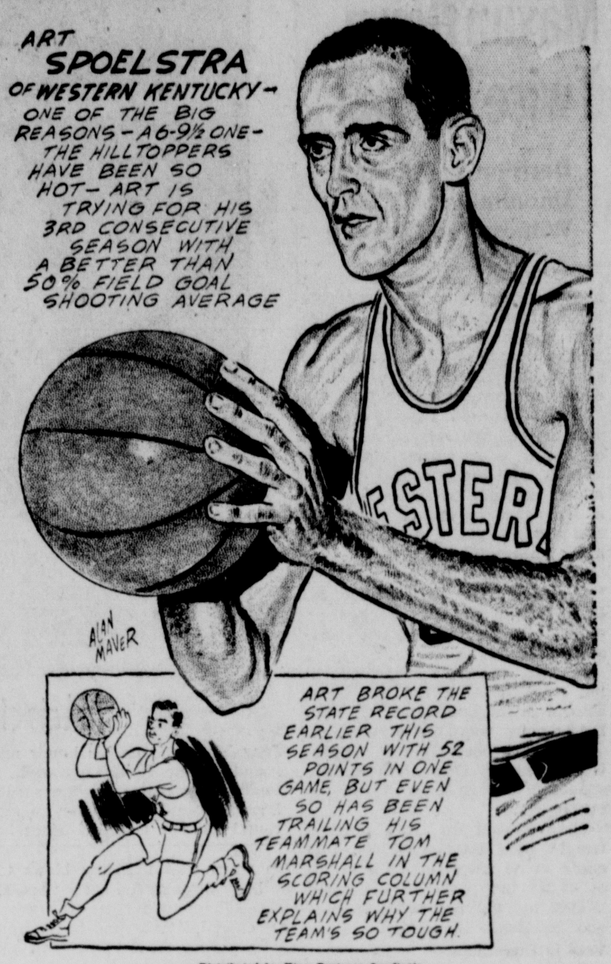

Concord has one of the better teams in the Conference and is the only State team to defeat West Virginia Freshmen's Little Mountaineers. The Catamounts have a game average of well over 70 points, but have only won two games.

Concord is noted for its hard-driving type of basketball, and although it has not won championships the team has spoiled the chances of many other top teams in past years. The Lions have always been a strong contender in the College Tournament. This year they have a veteran team which is spearheaded by their great center Denver Lowe and forward Donald Mikush.

There may be some changes in the Catamount line-up for this game. Andy Porter and Eugene Becker have been gradually working into the Catamount games, because of their height and shooting ability. Neither of these boys have played good defensive ball and have lacked speed and aggressiveness, but in recent games have improved in those departments. Coach Dana Lough remarked today, "Both of these boys can be better than average players in our Conference if they ever find themselves and play up to their capabilities." Lee Sissleberger, Gerald Cool, and Mervin Kessler are playing good ball and have looked particularly good in recent games.

Game time will be 8 p. m.

NFL Bows To Court Rule On Control Of Television

Owners Won't Appeal, Draft Begins Today

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27 (AP)—The National Football League bowed to a court order today and rewrote its controversial rule concerning control of television of league games.

The NFL club owners, in a preliminary to the opening of their annual meeting tomorrow, unanimously decided not to appeal the ruling handed down last fall by Judge Allan K. Grim in U. S. District Court.

Some club owners, feeling that Judge Grim's ruling had vindicated to a certain extent their stand on television controls, wanted to appeal to a higher court in hope of getting a more favorable decision.

Owners Won't Appeal

After hearing the league's lawyers explain and interpret the decision today, they agreed unanimously that there would be no appeal. Then they amended article 10 of their constitution, the section that deals with radio and television, to bring it into line with the court order.

They also added a new section to article 4 of the constitution which binds each club to agree with the provisions of the court decision.

"Throughout the trial we expressed continuously our desire to learn to live with television," said Commissioner Bert Bell. "That's what we will try to do in this situation."

Judge Grim's decision on the government's anti-trust suit, which sought to wipe out all controls of TV by the league, was that the league could black out the immediate areas in which games were being played, but that it could not control television in a club's "home" territory when that club was playing away from home, nor could it control radio broadcasts.

During the trial, the league had maintained that "reasonable" restraint was legal under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. Bell emphasized that the rule changes made today were intended to conform with the court's decision and that if there were any complaints about the controls still exercised, the courts would decide whether or not they were reasonable.

Get Part Of Receipts

The new sections of article 10 permits local broadcasts and telecasts within the city where a game is being played, provided that part of the receipts from such broadcasts are added to the gross receipts of the game. The commissioner will determine the amount and also must approve the sponsors.

With the touchy TV question settled, the clubs will turn to the annual "draft" of college players in an open meeting starting tomorrow morning. Before Saturday they also expect to deal with the impending "war" against Canadian football interests and with some changes in the playing rules.

One bit of business was transacted on the sidelines today when the Chicago Cardinals signed Ray Richards as line coach. Richards coached the Baltimore Colts' line last season.

Bruce To Clash With Piedmont Tonight At 8 O'Clock

Lions To Seek Revenge For Only Defeat

Piedmont Court Scene Of Return Battle Of Two Top Area Teams

Two of the winningest teams in the tri-state area—Piedmont High School's Lions and Bruce High School's Bulldogs—are all set for the final game of their court series which will be staged tonight on the Piedmont High court at 8 o'clock.

Coach "Huck" Miers' Lions have won 13 games and lost one and they'll put a seven-game winning streak on the line tonight against the only team that has beaten them this season. Bruce defeated Piedmont on the latter's court January 4 by the score of 75-48 and the Bulldogs' followers believe they can duplicate the feat. The series finale is also being played on the Piedmont court which can accommodate a larger crowd than the Westernport gym.

Split On Piedmont Court

Augie Eichhorn's Bruce quint has an 11-1 record to date and the only loss the Bulldogs suffered was on the Piedmont court at the hands of Allegany High. The score was 47-46. The Westernport quint is tied with Allegany for the lead in the W.M.I. League, each team owning 4-1 records. Piedmont heads the Potomac Valley Conference race with 9-0 and also is out in front in the Mineral County loop with six wins and no losses.

A victory for Bruce would give the team from the Maryland side of the Potomac the Tri-Towns championship for the 1954 season. A Piedmont triumph, which would be regarded as an upset, would enable the Lions to share the title.

Here are the records of the teams:

Other scholastic games in the area tonight bring together Franklin High's Panthers and the West Virginia School for the Deaf in a Potomac Valley Conference affair at Franklin and Triplett High of Mt. Jackson, Va. and Mathias High on the latter's court.

Franklin Seeks Tenth

Coach Bob Hartman's Pendleton Countians are figured to register their tenth win of the season at the expense of the Romney quint. The Panthers have bagged four in a row and now own a 9-2 record. West Virginia School for the Deaf has won four and lost five.

Mathias High, coached by Wendell Mathias, has engaged in 13 games, winning seven and losing six.

Eric Nesterenko of the Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League hails from the small community of Flin Flon, Manitoba.

Potomac State Resumes Friday Against Concord

Cats To Host Lions At Keyser At 8 P. M.

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 27—The Potomac State Catamounts will top off a week of inactivity because of semester examinations by meeting the fast-stepping Concord Mountain Lions in Keyser Friday night.

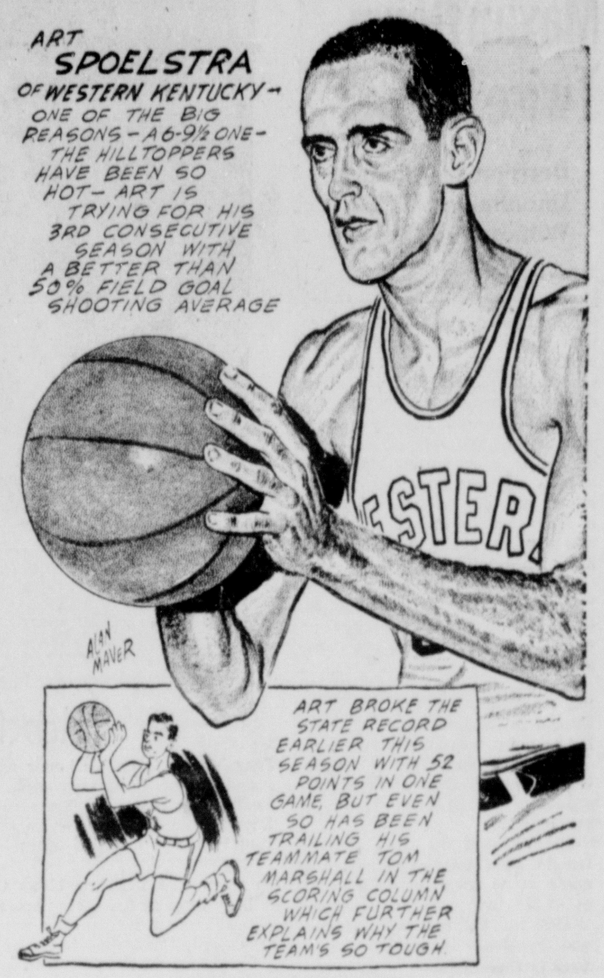

Concord has one of the better teams in the Conference and is the only State team to defeat West Virginia Freshmen's Little Mountaineers. The Catamounts have a game average of well over 70 points, but have only won two games.

Concord is noted for its hard-driving type of basketball, and although it has not won championships the team has spoiled the chances of many other top teams in past years. The Lions have always been a strong contender in the College Tournament. This year they have a veteran team which is spearheaded by their great center Denver Lowe and forward Donald Mikush.

There may be some changes in the Catamount line-up for this game. Andy Porter and Eugene Becker have been gradually working into the Catamount games, because of their height and shooting ability. Neither of these boys have played good defensive ball and have lacked speed and aggressiveness, but in recent games have improved in those departments. Coach Dana Lough remarked today, "Both of these boys can be better than average players in our Conference if they ever find themselves and play up to their capabilities." Lee Sissleberger, Gerald Cool, and Mervin Kessler are playing good ball and have looked particularly good in recent games.

Game time will be 8 p. m.

Trotters Form Police Group

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—Officials from 17 of the nation's major harness racing tracks formed an organizaion today to police the trotting sport in a move that was seen as a challenge to the United States Trotting Assn.

The tracks, most of them major night pari-mutuel plants in metropolitan areas, will be known as Harness Tracks of America, Inc. It is planned to incorporate in Michigan.

"We plan to adopt a code of standards, similar to the Thoroughbred Racing Associations," said Don MacFarlane, general counsel of Hazel Park, Detroit, who was elected president.

MacFarlane added the U. S. Trotting Assn. would be asked to police the sport, with a group similar to the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau—the FBI of flat racing which has been directed by Spencer Drayton since 1946. MacFarlane has conferred with Drayton.

NFL Bows To Court Rule On Control Of Television

Owners Won't Appeal, Draft Begins Today

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27 (AP)—The National Football League bowed to a court order today and rewrote its controversial rule concerning control of television of league games.

The NFL club owners, in a preliminary to the opening of their annual meeting tomorrow, unanimously decided not to appeal the ruling handed down last fall by Judge Allan K. Grim in U. S. District Court.

Some club owners, feeling that Judge Grim's ruling had vindicated to a certain extent their stand on television controls, wanted to appeal to a higher court in hope of getting a more favorable decision.

Owners Won't Appeal

After hearing the league's lawyers explain and interpret the decision today, they agreed unanimously that there would be no appeal. Then they amended article 10 of their constitution, the section that deals with radio and television, to bring it into line with the court order.

They also added a new section to article 4 of the constitution which binds each club to agree with the provisions of the court decision.

"Throughout the trial we expressed continuously our desire to learn to live with television," said Commissioner Bert Bell. "That's what we will try to do in this situation."

Judge Grim's decision on the government's anti-trust suit, which sought to wipe out all controls of TV by the league, was that the league could black out the immediate areas in which games were being played, but that it could not control television in a club's "home" territory when that club was playing away from home, nor could it control radio broadcasts.

During the trial, the league had maintained that "reasonable" restraint was legal under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. Bell emphasized that the rule changes made today were intended to conform with the court's decision and that if there were any complaints about the controls still exercised, the courts would decide whether or not they were reasonable.

Get Part Of Receipts

The new sections of article 10 permits local broadcasts and telecasts within the city where a game is being played, provided that part of the receipts from such broadcasts are added to the gross receipts of the game. The commissioner will determine the amount and also must approve the sponsors.

With the touchy TV question settled, the clubs will turn to the annual "draft" of college players in an open meeting starting tomorrow morning. Before Saturday they also expect to deal with the impending "war" against Canadian football interests and with some changes in the playing rules.

One bit of business was transacted on the sidelines today when the Chicago Cardinals signed Ray Richards as line coach. Richards coached the Baltimore Colts' line last season.

Chicago Cubs Lost $410,690 In '53 Season

Attendance For Team Worst In 9 Years

CHICAGO, Jan. 27 (AP) — Nobody pays to see a loser, the Chicago Cubs could ruefully admit today in announcing nearly a half-million dollar operational loss for 1953.

However, the $410,690 net loss reported by the seventh-place Cubs at the annual meeting of stockholders included $302,277 charged against two of the club's top farm clubs.

The financial report did not go into 1953 attendance at Wrigley Field which was said to be 763,658, lowest in nine years.

But the auditors' figures revealed the Cubs took in $987,253 in gate receipts—$811,323 at home, $175,185 from road games and $745 from exhibitions. Another $502,774 came from concessions, radio-TV fees, park rentals and miscellaneous income.

In all, Cub revenue for last year totaled $1,490,027 against $1,987,300 in total expenses, a drag of $497,273. However, an $86,583 profit by the Los Angeles farm club reduced the net loss to $410,690.

Actual operating expenses, including team salaries and travel, and maintenance of Wrigley Field, totaled $1,240,902.

Along with their artistic shortcomings last season, the Cubs were drained of many patrons by the sensational debut of the Milwaukee Braves some 80 miles to the north.

Wrigley in the past has complained of the trials and tribulations of operating a major league club. He has even indicated he might sell the Cubs "to the right persons for the right price."

The chewing gum company executive has held steadfastly against installing arclights at Wrigley Field, the only major league park which does not have night baseball.

Dom DiMaggio May Seek Job With Tribe

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 27 (AP)—Dom Dimaggio has no immediate plans to return to baseball but admitted today that if he has a change of heart "Cleveland would get first preference because it was the first club to approach me after I became a free agent."

The bespectacled "Little Professor" who patrolled the Boston Red Sox outfield for many years quit last year after an off season ailment prevented his participating in spring training.

Dom is partner in the American Latex Fiber Corp., a new firm which soon will market rubberized fibers for upholstery goods, packaging and bedding.

Navy Quint Whips Franklin-Marshall

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 27 (AP) — Navy held Franklin and Marshall's Carson Lovett to his lowest point total this season in overwhelming the Pennsylvanians 98-68 here today.

Navy's big Don Lange, returning to action after missing four games because of an ankle injury, was given the job of stopping Lovett. He not only held the star F&M center to 14 points, but scored 33 himself.

Lovett's previous low was 23 points against Drexel. He had gone into today's game with a 32.3 average.

Ferzacca Is Named Coach At Marquette

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 27 (AP)—F. L. (Frosty) Ferzacca, athletic director and football coach at Green Bay (Wis.) West High School, has been named the head football coach at Marquette University.

Ted Kluszewski Signs For Highest Cincinnati Pay

CINCINNATI, Jan. 27 (AP) — Ted Kluszewski, home run hitting first baseman, was signed to a 1954 contract by the Cincinnati Redlegs today for the highest pay ever given a player by the club.

The guess was $35,000.

General Manager Gabe Paul said "he's getting the record contract for a Redleg player and that should speak for what we think of Ted."

Kluszewski hit 40 home runs last season, batted in 108 runs, had 25 doubles, scored 97 runs and hit .316 in 149 games. His 40 homers set a new record for a Cincinnati batter. He also led the National League first sackers for the third successive year with a .995 fielding mark.

Harrison Leads Ryder Cup Point Standings

CHICAGO, Jan. 27 (AP) — Dutch Harrison leads the Vardon and Ryder Cup standings and young Fred Wampler's $4,000 heads the money-winning column in pro golf's first statistical reading of 1954.

The Professional Golfers' Assn. today reported that Harrison, who is second in earnings with $3,075, is tops in Ryder Cup points with 163 2-3 and in Vardon Trophy competition with a 70.25 stroke average for eight rounds.

Wampler, former collegiate champion, bagged all his $4,000 by winning the Los Angeles Open.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (INS)—The 1954 Yankees may be the best paid ball club baseball has known.

From a front office source we learn that the 25 regulars of the club plus three coaches and Manager Casey Stengel may draw a total in excess of $600,000.

This is far beyond the payrolls of the Yanks in the heydays of Babe Ruth and Joe DiMaggio.

The Dodgers undoubtedly will top the National League although they have no single player who will get more than half as much as the $80,000 the Cardinals pay Stan Musial.

The Dodgers have many veterans who have been building up their salaries through the years such as Roy Campanella, Peewee Reese and Jackie Robinson who among them will draw more than $100,000.

Walter O'Malley, the Dodger prexy, will be agreeable surprised if his payroll dips under $500,000.

Even the lowly Pirates, with no pros on the club—now that they have disposed of Danny O'Connell and Murry Dickson, probably will have to lay out close to $250,000.

If a ball club paid only the minimum major league salary demanded by baseball law—$6,200—it would have to shell out $155,000 for 25 players besides what it pays its managers and coaches.

The Yanks have no Ted Williams drawing $100,000 but they have a flock of high-priced veterans. Let's break down that $600,000 a little.

Put down $100,000 for Stengel and $15,000 each for what is by far the highest paid coaching trio in baseball—Bill Dickey, Jim Turner and Frank Crosetti. Total $145,000.

Mark down $40,000 for catcher Yogi Berra.

Another $40,000 goes for shortstop Phil Rizzuto and split another $90,000 among the other infielders—Ed Robinson, Joe Collins, Billy Martin, Jerry Coleman, and Gil McDougald. Total, (including Berra) $170,000.

Put down $80,000 for outfielders Gene Woodling, Irv Noren, Mickey Mantle and Hank Bauer.

Now we come to the pitchers, and here we find three of them—Allie Reynolds, Ed Lopat and Vic Raschi—will draw a minimum of $100,000 among them. Add another $20,000 for Ed Ford. Total $120,000.

That gives us a grand total of $515,000 with 10 pitchers, catchers, infielders and outfielders unaccounted for. Give these 10 men an average of $10,000 and you will see that the total goes over $600,000.

Pennants come high.

Trabert At Odds With Aussie Writers

SYDNEY, Jan. 27 (AP)—Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas, who won the Davis Cup doubles for America, were knocked out of the Australian national doubles championships today 24 hours after Trabert was blasted from the singles.

Australians Clive Wilderspin and Neale Fraser, a second-string combination, defeated Seixas and Trabert 6-4, 12-10, 10-8 in the doubles semifinals.

Yesterday, aging John Bromwich lost two sets to Trabert, the No. 1 American player, 1-6, 1-6, then rallied to defeat the Cincinnatian 6-2,6-3, 6-1.

Several Australian tennis writers suggested the Australian Lawn Tennis Assn. look into Trabert's actions and send a report to the U. S. Lawn Tennis Assn.

Trabert retaliated by saying manners of Australian spectators are pretty bad, too.

And he vowed that when he gets home, he's "going to tell officials the truth about what goes on down here, where tennis is really a big sport."

The 12-mile-long Simplon tunnel in the Swiss Alps required eight years to build.

South Branch Loop To Organize Sunday Or Quit For Season

FRANKLIN, W. Va., Jan. 27—A meeting of the South Branch Valley Baseball League has been called by President J. G. Ashenfelter for Sunday at the American Legion Home, Moorefield, at 2 p. m.

At a meeting held last Sunday only three clubs were represented, namely, Franklin, Petersburg and Moorefield. Romney and Lost City were not represented and Wardensville has been considered a doubtful starter after barely managing to complete the 1953 race. The three managers present joined the president in emphasizing the league will be organized Sunday or remain dormant for the 1954 season.

Teams not already affiliated with some other league are cordially invited to attend and present application for membership in the South Branch circuit.

CHICAGO, Jan. 27 (AP)—Outfielder Sam Mele, who has batted .274 in three of his last four major league seasons, today returned his signed 1954 contract to the Chicago White Sox. He was the 28th Sox player to sign.

Diddle Says Winning Team Best For Weakened Hearts

W. Kentucky Coach Had Three Attacks

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Jan. 27 (AP)—Western Kentucky basketball coach Ed Diddle has some advice for other coaches with bad hearts:

"Get yourself a team that can't lose, boys."

Diddle suffered three heart attacks last year that doctors say should have stopped a mule.

Everybody counted Diddle out of the business except Diddle. He's back this season with a team that he thinks could be his best, although he won't say so yet.

"'Tawm' and the rest of my boys are the best heart medicine any coach could possibly have," he drawled.

"Tawm" is Tom Marshall, rated by Diddle as the finest player he has coached in 33 years at Western.

Diddle, who has come through several close games unshaken this season, including a three-overtime victory over Dayton two weeks ago, said:

"I just learned that I had to exercise a little more self-control than I used to. Mother Nature is man's finest teacher. She served notice on me that I had to take it easier if I wanted to stay in the game, and I wanted to stay."

And stay he did. He stayed to watch his Hilltoppers present him with his 601st victory last Saturday, the most ever won at one school by a coach. He stayed to watch them climb steadily in the Associated Press poll until they now are tied for fourth in the nation. And he intends to keep on coaching until he decides for himself he should quit.

Chicago Cubs Lost $410,690 In '53 Season

Attendance For Team Worst In 9 Years

CHICAGO, Jan. 27 (AP) — Nobody pays to see a loser, the Chicago Cubs could ruefully admit today in announcing nearly a half-million dollar operational loss for 1953.

However, the $410,690 net loss reported by the seventh-place Cubs at the annual meeting of stockholders included $302,277 charged against two of the club's top farm clubs.

The financial report did not go into 1953 attendance at Wrigley Field which was said to be 763,658, lowest in nine years.

But the auditors' figures revealed the Cubs took in $987,253 in gate receipts—$811,323 at home, $175,185 from road games and $745 from exhibitions. Another $502,774 came from concessions, radio-TV fees, park rentals and miscellaneous income.

In all, Cub revenue for last year totaled $1,490,027 against $1,987,300 in total expenses, a drag of $497,273. However, an $86,583 profit by the Los Angeles farm club reduced the net loss to $410,690.

Actual operating expenses, including team salaries and travel, and maintenance of Wrigley Field, totaled $1,240,902.

Along with their artistic shortcomings last season, the Cubs were drained of many patrons by the sensational debut of the Milwaukee Braves some 80 miles to the north.

Wrigley in the past has complained of the trials and tribulations of operating a major league club. He has even indicated he might sell the Cubs "to the right persons for the right price."

The chewing gum company executive has held steadfastly against installing arclights at Wrigley Field, the only major league park which does not have night baseball.

Dom DiMaggio May Seek Job With Tribe

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 27 (AP)—Dom Dimaggio has no immediate plans to return to baseball but admitted today that if he has a change of heart "Cleveland would get first preference because it was the first club to approach me after I became a free agent."

The bespectacled "Little Professor" who patrolled the Boston Red Sox outfield for many years quit last year after an off season ailment prevented his participating in spring training.

Dom is partner in the American Latex Fiber Corp., a new firm which soon will market rubberized fibers for upholstery goods, packaging and bedding.

Navy Quint Whips Franklin-Marshall

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 27 (AP) — Navy held Franklin and Marshall's Carson Lovett to his lowest point total this season in overwhelming the Pennsylvanians 98-68 here today.

Navy's big Don Lange, returning to action after missing four games because of an ankle injury, was given the job of stopping Lovett. He not only held the star F&M center to 14 points, but scored 33 himself.

Lovett's previous low was 23 points against Drexel. He had gone into today's game with a 32.3 average.

St. Louis Cards Get Negro Star From San Diego

Obtain Tom Alston For Four Men, Cash

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27 (AP) — First baseman Thomas E. Alston—the first Negro ever to land on the St. Louis Cardinals' player roster—was acquired by the club from San Diego of the Pacific Coast League yesterday for cash in excess of $100,000 and four players.

Alston, a left handed swinger who will be 24 Jan. 31, batted .297 while slugging 23 home runs and driving in 101 runs for the Padres last season.

In addition to the cash payment, believed to be one of the largest sums ever paid for a Negro player, San Diego also receives Cardinal pitcher Eddie Erautt, first baseman-outfielder Dick Sisler, now on the Redbirds' Columbus, Ohio, roster, and two players to be named later who will be optioned to the club.

Alston, a Navy veteran, is 6-foot-5 and throws right handed.

After graduation from the Agricutural and Technical College of North Carolina in 1951 he joined the Jacksonville (Fla.) Eagles, a Negro team which barnstormed through Canada. He was born at Greensboro, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Shroyer

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear father, George W. Anderson, who passed away January 28, 1946.

In our hearts we'd like to stray
Along the road of yesterday.
To hear you laugh, to see you smile,
To talk with you a little while.
We'd love to linger along the way
That leads us back to yesterday.

Loving Children.

Question?

Every day we are being asked "how we can sell such beautiful cars for hundreds of dollars less than the price asked by others?" This is the answer: We spend about five days each week looking for bargains. If it isn't a bargain we pass it up. This is doing it the hard way, but it pays to the buyer, and enables us to undersell our competitors.

We invite you to bring your mechanic with you and try out the car you like.

We expect to sell 500 cars during 1954 no matter how small the profit. Our sales from Jan. 1st to Jan. 23rd amounted to 29 cars, even though this is usually a slow month because of bad weather. This was accomplished with only one salesman, so please be patient if we cannot wait on you right away. Never buy until you have seen our SUPER BARGAINS. Every car has the price on the windshield. Most of our cars were traded on new cars.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our neighbors and friends for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and following the death of our beloved sister, Cora Mae Shroyer. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and donated cars for the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Shroyer

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear father, George W. Anderson, who passed away January 28, 1946.

In our hearts we'd like to stray
Along the road of yesterday.
To hear you laugh, to see you smile,
To talk with you a little while.
We'd love to linger along the way
That leads us back to yesterday.

Loving Children.

Question?

Every day we are being asked "how we can sell such beautiful cars for hundreds of dollars less than the price asked by others?" This is the answer: We spend about five days each week looking for bargains. If it isn't a bargain we pass it up. This is doing it the hard way, but it pays to the buyer, and enables us to undersell our competitors.

We invite you to bring your mechanic with you and try out the car you like.

We expect to sell 500 cars during 1954 no matter how small the profit. Our sales from Jan. 1st to Jan. 23rd amounted to 29 cars, even though this is usually a slow month because of bad weather. This was accomplished with only one salesman, so please be patient if we cannot wait on you right away. Never buy until you have seen our SUPER BARGAINS. Every car has the price on the windshield. Most of our cars were traded on new cars.

Profit-Taking Helps Push Stock Market Downward

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP) — The Stock Market tried to continue its rally today, but it stumbled over profit-taking and closed lower.

Gains and losses spread out over a range of between 1 and 2 points at the most in key areas with the losers holding a slight edge.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 30 cents at $113.00. It was up 90 cents yesterday at the best level in ten months. The industrial component of the average was down 40 cents, railroads lost 30 cents, while utilities were down only 10 cents.

The market broadened out to 1,191 individual issues traded. That is three more than yesterday and the best this month. Minus signs held the edge—480 as compared with 395 gainers. There were 57 new highs and 1 new low for the year recorded.

Volume came to 2,020,000 shares, the third time the two million mark has been passed this year. Yesterday's total was 2,120,000 shares.

Radio Corp. was the day's most active issue, as it was yesterday, with a gain of ⅞ at 25⅞ on a volume of 78,200 shares. It started on a block of 20,000 shares at 25¾.

It was followed by Dow Chemical off ⅝ at 35⅛, U. S. Steel up ⅛ at 41⅜, American Radiator up ⅛ at 15⅛, and Bethlehem Steel up ½ at 54½.

The steel section of the market did very well. After the close yesterday, U. S. Steel turned in an excellent earnings report, and Bethlehem Steel reports tomorrow. Inland Steel gained ½ at 44⅞ after reporting stepped up earnings for last year.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to secure a decree declaring Judith Anne Youngblood to be the adopted child of the Complainants.

The Petition alleges that Judith Anne Youngblood is the grandchild of the Complainants and the daughter of the son of the Complainants, Alvin G. Youngblood, Jr., and Mary B. Youngblood, his wife; that the parents of the said Judith Anne Youngblood have left the said infant in the custody of the Complainants since she was six months old, where she has remained ever since; that the respondent, Mary B. Three Projects Planned Soon In Flood Work

Phases Based On $600,000 Budget

Cumberland city officials and officials of the Corps of Army Engineers yesterday mapped plans for three projects to be undertaken this year with the $600,000 recommended by the President for the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project.

Plans for the projects were discussed at a meeting in the office of Mayor Roy W. Eves, and funds for plans were based on the $600,000 which President Eisenhower has recommended in the budget for the local flood work.

The three projects to be undertaken in the fiscal year beginning July 1 are:

1. Completion of the industrial dam across the Potomac River.

2. Construction of a concrete flood wall on the West side.

3. Initial construction on Phase 1 of the Potomac River channel, which includes dredging, deepening and widening of the river in the vicinity of Smith's Island.

Bids To Be Advertised

Work on the industrial dam consists of construction of the West Virginia half of the dam wall and spillway. The E. J. Albrecht Company of Chicago has completed the two abutments and center pier of the dam and is now finishing up work on the Maryland side of the dam wall and spillway.

The second project discussed yesterday was construction of a concrete flood wall in West Cumberland, beginning at Beall Street and running westerly to a point just west of Long Street.

Mayor Eves said bids for the work will be advertised for contract about the first of April.

Representatives of the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company requested yesterday that the wall line be modified so that it would not run through the company's crushing and screening plant located in that area.

Would Save Money

The mayor said the proposed change in the flood wall line will be put up for approval by the Mayor and Council. He pointed out that the change in the plan would save the city about $70,000 and will save the Federal Government about $60,000. The new plan calls for bending the flood wall around the crushing and screening plant.

Officials pointed out that material to be excavated from the Potomac River channel near the island will be used on earth levees joining the flood wall at Long Street and running approximately 900 feet to Kelly Boulevard along the Potomac River.

The work includes dredging, deepening and widening of the channel. Bids for the initial work

Cumberland Merchants Set Stage For Dollar Day Sale

Stellar Bargains Promised Friday, Saturday

Tri-State Area residents will find a rare merchandising opportunity in Cumberland tomorrow and Saturday when several score merchants offer Dollar Day bargains.

Beginning 1954, most local retailers agree that now is the time to clear their shelves of as much merchandise as possible. Many stores will take their annual inventories after this sale.

Other merchants, who have already inventoried, state they discovered numerous first-class items, some in limited quantity, which they wish to move. Still other merchants explain that they have made special purchases with super values especially for the two-day merchandising event.

It all adds up to what promises to be the most sensational city-wide bunch of bargains offered here in many years.

Throughout the pages of the NEWS today, tomorrow and Saturday, are being featured some of these Dollar Day values.

Robert Little Ebert, chairman of the local Mercantile Bureau said yesterday, "Every merchant I have talked with is determined to offer the greatest values Cumberland has ever seen. Some stores have made special purchases for this sale. Some are marking down year-end stocks as much as half price or more, while some are price-tagging almost everything with reductions that are amazing. And every item is first-class, serviceable, new, clean merchandise."

Ebert and other merchants in Cumberland ventured the prediction that "those people who visit the stores early on both days, will find more values than they ever dreamed about."

Stores will be open regular hours only on both sales days.

Parking lots are adding extra help and police have promised to assist in the handling of traffic in every way possible. Bus service is to be stepped up as needed, and record crowds are being anticipated. The sale lasts two days only—tomorrow and Saturday.

Treat Gets 16,830 New Auto Tags

More than five tons of new Maryland automobile license plates were delivered yesterday to the Allegany County Court House where they will be sold by Tax Collector Ernest B. Treat beginning Tuesday, February 23.

Treat said 16,830 plates were delivered here and the total weight of the many packages was 10,200 pounds.

The tax collector has been issued all of the plates in the GH series from 10-01 to 99-99 and most of the GJ series, from 10-01 to 89-99. Colors on the new plates are the reverse of this year's combination. The background is a bright orange and the letters are black.

During the past year Treat sold some 16,000 plates out of around 20,000 automobiles registered in Allegany County. By law he is required to collect a 15-cent fee besides the cost of the plate, which may be $15 or $23.

Although the sale will start February 23, the new single plate may not be attached until Monday, March 1. The deadline for driving on the present tags is midnight Wednesday, March 31.

Boy Scout Troop 2 Now 30 Years Old

Oldest in the point of continuous service in the Cumberland area, Boy Scout Troop No. 2, sponsored by the Baltimore and Ohio YMCA, will observe its 30th anniversary tomorrow.

The troop was started in 1924 at Southminster Presbyterian Church by Rev. Walter B. Brock, then pastor. It met in the basement of the church until 1929 when it moved to the railroad YMCA.

Troop 2 meets regularly each Monday at 7 p. m. and each year, the troop's birthday is marked with a dinner arranged by the sponsoring organization. This year's dinner is to be held tomorrow night at 6 o'clock at the B&O YMCA.

During its long career the troop has always registered on time with its full quota of Scouts. Many civic contributions have been made through the years and leadership in the troop represents a total of 137 years of active Boy Scout work. Six of the troops leaders and committeemen are former members of the troop.

State Police Will Send Radar Speed Gear To City

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 27 (AP) — Maryland State Troopers plan to move their radar equipment to the Cumberland area Thursday after catching 41 speeders with it here in two days.

Most of those who received tickets come up for trial Feb. 4. The equipment was used on U. S. 11 and Maryland 65 south of Hagerstown.

Man Gets Parole Extension In Shooting Case

Wife Makes Plea In Husband's Behalf

An area man, found guilty of parole violation after he had shot a rifle bullet through the ceiling of his kitchen and then fired on objects in his yard, was given a three-year extension of parole at a hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court.

Richard W. Shipley, 41, of Martin's Mountain, also was fined $10 and costs on a charge of reckless driving for leading police on a wild auto chase along U. S. 40 down the mountain before his arrest.

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason extended Shipley's parole after the defendant's wife, Mrs. Martha Shipley, 26, made a tearful plea in his behalf.

Mrs. Shipley pleaded that Shipley not be sent to jail since she and her children needed his support. She added that her husband had been furloughed from his railroad job since December.

Last August, when Shipley was found guilty of assaulting his wife, Magistrate Mason placed him on probation. Conditions of probation now are that he abstain from all types of alcoholic beverages, be of good behavior generally, treat his wife and two children properly, and seek employment.

The defendant was arrested Tuesday afternoon after Mrs. Shipley had sworn out a warrant for his arrest. She testified her husband had blasted a hole in the ceiling of their kitchen and then had gone outside and fired at various objects in the yard.

Later, Trooper Robert D. Wolford of the State Police and Constable Roy E. Van Fleet arrested Shipley after the auto chase.

Shipley testified that the blast fired inside his home was an accident and that the shooting he had done in his yard was only for target practice. He admitted to the court that he had drunk several beers.

Mason ordered that a high-powered rifle, two shotguns and a .22 calibre rifle, all of which had been taken from Shipley's home by police, be held temporarily by County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya.

County Teachers Will Take Class At Hancock High

Eight Allegany County industrial arts and vocational education teachers will enroll Saturday morning in a class on the history of vocational education which will be conducted each Saturday morning in Hancock High School under the auspices of the University of Maryland and the Vocational Education Department of the State Department of Education.

The class is being offered primarily for in-service training for industrial arts and vocational education teachers in Allegany and Washington counties. It will run for 10 weeks.

J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational, industrial and adult education in the county public school system, said other teachers here may enroll in the Hancock class if they are interested. Teachers definitely planning to take the course are Thomas R. Hinds, John A. Ferguson, Carl R. Weatherholt, Cobern E. Manges Jr., Willard W. Morley, Roger W. Lynch, Wallace M. Walker and Don Foley. An equal number of Hagerstown teachers expect to attend.

Meanwhile, Lonnholm reported that the start of a daytime auto mechanic course at Allegany Trade School has been postponed until Monday because only five veterans showed up for the scheduled first session this past Monday. The supervisor said at least 10 must enroll to justify the class. The instructor will be Joseph S. Acre, former shop foreman at the St. George Motor Company.

Sign Freedom Scroll

Mrs. Mary Jane Stemple, secretary in the city auditor's office, is shown signing the Freedom Scroll in the rotunda of City Hall where it was placed yesterday after arriving here by plane. The scroll was in the rotunda all day yesterday for signatures of the mayor, department heads and other city officials and employes. The document seeking signatures of residents supporting "freedom of mankind" is a project being coordinated by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce for the Crusade for Freedom movement. Standing at left, waiting to sign the document, is Miss Mary E. Clay, secretary in the mayor's office, and standing behind the two women is a Boy Scout guard of honor, (left to right) Wayne Martz, of Troop 1 at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, and Leo Savilisky, Troop 2, sponsored by the B&O YMCA. Scouts, acting as couriers, will circulate the scroll today to obtain other signatures in the city.

Mothers To March On Polio Friday

Hundreds of mothers throughout Allegany County will join tomorrow night in one of the most systematic house-to-house campaigns ever undertaken here.

The Mothers March, as the project is called, is designed to collect as much money as possible, as quickly as possible for the March of Dimes.

Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, Mothers March chairman, has organized the program and believes that every city, village and town is covered by the solicitors.

Women will start out from their homes at 7 p. m. and will stop at every house where a porch light is burning or where a light is shown in a window.

After the solicitation ends at 8 p. m., an immediate report is to be made at a neighborhood collection center, or directly to campaign headquarters at the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

Reports are to be broadcast in a manner similar to broadcasts of election returns, so it is imperative, Mrs. Isiminger points out, that each mother make her report as quickly as possible. It is hoped that a complete tabulation can be made the same night.

Names of solicitors and volunteers in various towns of the county have been published as they were compiled, and some of the Cumberland mothers' names have also been announced.

Others not yet announced include the following:

Antibiotic Drug Spray Stops Fire Blight On Apple Trees

Successful experiments conducted at the University of Missouri by Dr. Robert N. Goodman should encourage Allegany County owners of pear and apple trees, County Agent Ralph F. McHenry believes.

Fire blight, which attacks both pear and apple trees here, has been controlled in the experiments by small quantities of antibiotic drugs in water spray. Dr. Goodman has controlled fire blight by using a combination of streptomycin and terramycin applied to apple trees. Dosages ranged from 100 to 500 parts of antibiotic per million parts of water.

McHenry observed that fire blight is a bacterial disease, no doubt spread from branch to branch by bees and other insects during blossom time. Because of this fact, it sometime is called "blossom blight" here in Allegany County.

The blight attacks the terminal growth around the tree, causing this growth to die. The tree is made to look like fire had scorched and killed the terminal growth around the tree. The disease has been widely scattered around the county many years and has killed many hundreds of trees over a long period of time.

McHenry explained that commercial orchards which have regular spray schedules seldom are bothered by the fire blight because it is stymied early in the spring.

Swanton Mine Is Inspected

Inspector T. J. Ward of the United States Bureau of Mines has recommended preshift and weekly examinations for explosive gas and other hazards, proper roof-testing by face workers and ample fire-fighting facilities at the No. 1 mine of the Duckworth Coal Company near Swanton.

In a federal coal-mine inspection report, Ward also urged the elimination of unsafe roof along one haulageway in the six-man, 15-ton-a-day mine.

Other suggestions called for the installation of a fire door in one mine opening, the removal of combustible materials from the immediate area around the fan installation, and several haulage and electrical betterments. Ward also warned against the use of open lights and smoking underground.

Altogether the inspection report listed 31 violations of the Federal Mine Safety Code.

Masonic Temple Group Elects Directors

The Masonic Temple Association last night elected seven directors during a meeting at the Temple.

They are Roy V. Ringler, Fred P. Keyser, Arch M. Hutcheson, James C. Duff, Frank L. Byrd, Frederick W. Schanning and Harry B. Simpson.

Afterwards the directors named officers for the coming year. Ringler was elected president; Keyser, vice president; Hutcheson, treasurer; Simpson, secretary, and Schanning, custodian of the building.

Local Man Fined $250 On Three Motor Charges

A local man was fined a total of $250 and was given a suspended six-month term in the House of Correction yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court for three motor vehicle violations.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason, who said the charges against Glenn Isner, RD 3, city, were "just about the most serious I have heard since I've been officiating in this court," withheld until yesterday passing of sentence following a hearing last Saturday. Isner was found guilty on all three counts.

Isner was fined $50 for reckless driving and $200 for failing to stop after an accident to render aid. He received a suspended six-month jail term and was placed on probation for failing to stop after an accident involving personal injury.

The personal injury charge involved failure to give assistance to William Fuller, 52, of RD 1, city, last April 12 near Corriganville, after the man was struck by Isner's car. Fuller spent several months in Sacred Heart Hospital as a result of his injuries.

Isner was also involved in another accident at the intersection of U. S. Route 40 and the Mt. Savage Road when his car struck a vehicle driven by John Patrick Sirna of Ridgeley within an hour after Fuller was injured.

Cpl. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police, investigated and preferred charges at Saturday's hearing.

Cpl. Baker said Fuller was awarded a settlement of $5,000 in Circuit Court several weeks ago in a damage suit brought in connection with his injuries.

Jaycees To Consider Constitution Changes

A number of changes in the constitution and by-laws will be considered by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce at its next meeting at 6:30 p. m. next Wednesday at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

One significant change would insert the Jaycee Creed in the constitution. It reads:

"We believe that faith in God gives meaning and purpose to human life: that the brotherhood of man transcends the sovereignty of nations; that economic justice can best be won by free men through free enterprise; that government should be of laws rather than of men; that earth's great treasure lies in human personality and that service to humanity is the best work of life."

Suspected Check Artist Sought By Two Other States

Charles A. Van Dyne Held In County Jail

Authorities of Kentucky and Ohio have notified local police that a Knoxville, Tenn., man lodged in Allegany County jail on a charge of passing three fradulent checks in Cumberland, is also wanted on similar charges in these states.

Charles Albert Van Dyne, 44, is being held in the local jail in default of $1,000 bond for action of the April grand jury. He was nabbed here by City Police officers January 20 in a North Mechanic Street restaurant.

$100 In Rubber Checks

Lt. James E. Van of the City Detective Bureau yesterday said he has notification of the repeated passing of fradulent checks by Van Dyne from authorities of Lexington, Ky., and Cincinnati, Ohio.

Van said some bad checks were obtained in the Kentucky city and that in Cincinnati a hotel was left with an unpaid bill and also some fradulent checks passed, reportedly by Van Dyne.

A pickup was issued for Van Dyne upon receipt of a complaint from a local business establishment. Police said the construction worker had passed three worthless checks totaling $100 on January 15, 16 and 18 at the Windsor Hotel Company here.

Waived Hearing

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and Van said the checks were drawn on the First National Bank of Birmingham, Ala.

On January 26, Van Dyne waived a preliminary hearing before Donald W. Mason in Trial Magistrate Court and was taken to the county lockup in default of bond.

Muir already have filed for re-election to their respective positions. The other official candidates are George F. S. Jeffrey, of Detmold, who seeks election to the County Republican State Central Committee, and his son, Robert Lee Jeffrey, also of Detmold, who seeks nomination to the House of Delegates.

Candidates for state and county offices have until April 19 to file in order to run in the June 28 primary, 70 days after the deadline.

Park Trees Being Removed

A number of beautiful trees which afforded shade in Riverside Park during the summer months are being removed to allow for the construction of the approach to the new bridge being built across the Potomac River between Cumberland and Ridgeley. The new span is part of the current flood control work now going on in that section of the city. Yesterday the trees were uprooted by workmen who are seen above cutting the trees in order that they may be hauled away.

Three Projects Planned Soon In Flood Work

Phases Based On $600,000 Budget

Cumberland city officials and officials of the Corps of Army Engineers yesterday mapped plans for three projects to be undertaken this year with the $600,000 recommended by the President for the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project.

Plans for the projects were discussed at a meeting in the office of Mayor Roy W. Eves, and funds for plans were based on the $600,000 which President Eisenhower has recommended in the budget for the local flood work.

The three projects to be undertaken in the fiscal year beginning July 1 are:

1. Completion of the industrial dam across the Potomac River.

2. Construction of a concrete flood wall on the West side.

3. Initial construction on Phase 1 of the Potomac River channel, which includes dredging, deepening and widening of the river in the vicinity of Smith's Island.

Bids To Be Advertised

Work on the industrial dam consists of construction of the West Virginia half of the dam wall and spillway. The E. J. Albrecht Company of Chicago has completed the two abutments and center pier of the dam and is now finishing up work on the Maryland side of the dam wall and spillway.

The second project discussed yesterday was construction of a concrete flood wall in West Cumberland, beginning at Beall Street and running westerly to a point just west of Long Street.

Mayor Eves said bids for the work will be advertised for contract about the first of April.

Representatives of the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company requested yesterday that the wall line be modified so that it would not run through the company's crushing and screening plant located in that area.

Would Save Money

The mayor said the proposed change in the flood wall line will be put up for approval by the Mayor and Council. He pointed out that the change in the plan would save the city about $70,000 and will save the Federal Government about $60,000. The new plan calls for bending the flood wall around the crushing and screening plant.

Officials pointed out that material to be excavated from the Potomac River channel near the island will be used on earth levees joining the flood wall at Long Street and running approximately 900 feet to Kelly Boulevard along the Potomac River.

The work includes dredging, deepening and widening of the channel. Bids for the initial work

Cumberland Merchants Set Stage For Dollar Day Sale

Stellar Bargains Promised Friday, Saturday

Tri-State Area residents will find a rare merchandising opportunity in Cumberland tomorrow and Saturday when several score merchants offer Dollar Day bargains.

Beginning 1954, most local retailers agree that now is the time to clear their shelves of as much merchandise as possible. Many stores will take their annual inventories after this sale.

Other merchants, who have already inventoried, state they discovered numerous first-class items, some in limited quantity, which they wish to move. Still other merchants explain that they have made special purchases with super values especially for the two-day merchandising event.

It all adds up to what promises to be the most sensational city-wide bunch of bargains offered here in many years.

Throughout the pages of the NEWS today, tomorrow and Saturday, are being featured some of these Dollar Day values.

Robert Little Ebert, chairman of the local Mercantile Bureau said yesterday, "Every merchant I have talked with is determined to offer the greatest values Cumberland has ever seen. Some stores have made special purchases for this sale. Some are marking down year-end stocks as much as half price or more, while some are price-tagging almost everything with reductions that are amazing. And every item is first-class, serviceable, new, clean merchandise."

Ebert and other merchants in Cumberland ventured the prediction that "those people who visit the stores early on both days, will find more values than they ever dreamed about."

Stores will be open regular hours only on both sales days.

Parking lots are adding extra help and police have promised to assist in the handling of traffic in every way possible. Bus service is to be stepped up as needed, and record crowds are being anticipated. The sale lasts two days only—tomorrow and Saturday.

During the past year Treat sold some 16,000 plates out of around 20,000 automobiles registered in Allegany County. By law he is required to collect a 15-cent fee besides the cost of the plate, which may be $15 or $23.

Although the sale will start February 23, the new single plate may not be attached until Monday, March 1. The deadline for driving on the present tags is midnight Wednesday, March 31.

Man Gets Parole Extension In Shooting Case

Wife Makes Plea In Husband's Behalf

An area man, found guilty of parole violation after he had shot a rifle bullet through the ceiling of his kitchen and then fired on objects in his yard, was given a three-year extension of parole at a hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court.

Richard W. Shipley, 41, of Martin's Mountain, also was fined $10 and costs on a charge of reckless driving for leading police on a wild auto chase along U. S. 40 down the mountain before his arrest.

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason extended Shipley's parole after the defendant's wife, Mrs. Martha Shipley, 26, made a tearful plea in his behalf.

Mrs. Shipley pleaded that Shipley not be sent to jail since she and her children needed his support. She added that her husband had been furloughed from his railroad job since December.

Last August, when Shipley was found guilty of assaulting his wife, Magistrate Mason placed him on probation. Conditions of probation now are that he abstain from all types of alcoholic beverages, be of good behavior generally, treat his wife and two children properly, and seek employment.

The defendant was arrested Tuesday afternoon after Mrs. Shipley had sworn out a warrant for his arrest. She testified her husband had blasted a hole in the ceiling of their kitchen and then had gone outside and fired at various objects in the yard.

Later, Trooper Robert D. Wolford of the State Police and Constable Roy E. Van Fleet arrested Shipley after the auto chase.

Shipley testified that the blast fired inside his home was an accident and that the shooting he had done in his yard was only for target practice. He admitted to the court that he had drunk several beers.

Mason ordered that a high-powered rifle, two shotguns and a .22 calibre rifle, all of which had been taken from Shipley's home by police, be held temporarily by County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya.

County Teachers Will Take Class At Hancock High

Eight Allegany County industrial arts and vocational education teachers will enroll Saturday morning in a class on the history of vocational education which will be conducted each Saturday morning in Hancock High School under the auspices of the University of Maryland and the Vocational Education Department of the State Department of Education.

The class is being offered primarily for in-service training for industrial arts and vocational education teachers in Allegany and Washington counties. It will run for 10 weeks.

J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational, industrial and adult education in the county public school system, said other teachers here may enroll in the Hancock class if they are interested. Teachers definitely planning to take the course are Thomas R. Hinds, John A. Ferguson, Carl R. Weatherholt, Cobern E. Manges Jr., Willard W. Morley, Roger W. Lynch, Wallace M. Walker and Don Foley. An equal number of Hagerstown teachers expect to attend.

Meanwhile, Lonnholm reported that the start of a daytime auto mechanic course at Allegany Trade School has been postponed until Monday because only five veterans showed up for the scheduled first session this past Monday. The supervisor said at least 10 must enroll to justify the class. The instructor will be Joseph S. Acre, former shop foreman at the St. George Motor Company.

Sign Freedom Scroll

Mrs. Mary Jane Stemple, secretary in the city auditor's office, is shown signing the Freedom Scroll in the rotunda of City Hall where it was placed yesterday after arriving here by plane. The scroll was in the rotunda all day yesterday for signatures of the mayor, department heads and other city officials and employes. The document seeking signatures of residents supporting "freedom of mankind" is a project being coordinated by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce for the Crusade for Freedom movement. Standing at left, waiting to sign the document, is Miss Mary E. Clay, secretary in the mayor's office, and standing behind the two women is a Boy Scout guard of honor, (left to right) Wayne Martz, of Troop 1 at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, and Leo Savilisky, Troop 2, sponsored by the B&O YMCA. Scouts, acting as couriers, will circulate the scroll today to obtain other signatures in the city.

Mothers To March On Polio Friday

Hundreds of mothers throughout Allegany County will join tomorrow night in one of the most systematic house-to-house campaigns ever undertaken here.

The Mothers March, as the project is called, is designed to collect as much money as possible, as quickly as possible for the March of Dimes.

Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, Mothers March chairman, has organized the program and believes that every city, village and town is covered by the solicitors.

Women will start out from their homes at 7 p. m. and will stop at every house where a porch light is burning or where a light is shown in a window.

After the solicitation ends at 8 p. m., an immediate report is to be made at a neighborhood collection center, or directly to campaign headquarters at the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

Reports are to be broadcast in a manner similar to broadcasts of election returns, so it is imperative, Mrs. Isiminger points out, that each mother make her report as quickly as possible. It is hoped that a complete tabulation can be made the same night.

Names of solicitors and volunteers in various towns of the county have been published as they were compiled, and some of the Cumberland mothers' names have also been announced.

Antibiotic Drug Spray Stops Fire Blight On Apple Trees

Successful experiments conducted at the University of Missouri by Dr. Robert N. Goodman should encourage Allegany County owners of pear and apple trees, County Agent Ralph F. McHenry believes.

Fire blight, which attacks both pear and apple trees here, has been controlled in the experiments by small quantities of antibiotic drugs in water spray. Dr. Goodman has controlled fire blight by using a combination of streptomycin and terramycin applied to apple trees. Dosages ranged from 100 to 500 parts of antibiotic per million parts of water.

McHenry observed that fire blight is a bacterial disease, no doubt spread from branch to branch by bees and other insects during blossom time. Because of this fact, it sometime is called "blossom blight" here in Allegany County.

The blight attacks the terminal growth around the tree, causing this growth to die. The tree is made to look like fire had scorched and killed the terminal growth around the tree. The disease has been widely scattered around the county many years and has killed many hundreds of trees over a long period of time.

McHenry explained that commercial orchards which have regular spray schedules seldom are bothered by the fire blight because it is stymied early in the spring.

Swanton Mine Is Inspected

Inspector T. J. Ward of the United States Bureau of Mines has recommended preshift and weekly examinations for explosive gas and other hazards, proper roof-testing by face workers and ample fire-fighting facilities at the No. 1 mine of the Duckworth Coal Company near Swanton.

In a federal coal-mine inspection report, Ward also urged the elimination of unsafe roof along one haulageway in the six-man, 15-ton-a-day mine.

Other suggestions called for the installation of a fire door in one mine opening, the removal of combustible materials from the immediate area around the fan installation, and several haulage and electrical betterments. Ward also warned against the use of open lights and smoking underground.

Altogether the inspection report listed 31 violations of the Federal Mine Safety Code.

Masonic Temple Group Elects Directors

The Masonic Temple Association last night elected seven directors during a meeting at the Temple.

They are Roy V. Ringler, Fred P. Keyser, Arch M. Hutcheson, James C. Duff, Frank L. Byrd, Frederick W. Schanning and Harry B. Simpson.

Afterwards the directors named officers for the coming year. Ringler was elected president; Keyser, vice president; Hutcheson, treasurer; Simpson, secretary, and Schanning, custodian of the building.

Local Man Fined $250 On Three Motor Charges

A local man was fined a total of $250 and was given a suspended six-month term in the House of Correction yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court for three motor vehicle violations.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason, who said the charges against Glenn Isner, RD 3, city, were "just about the most serious I have heard since I've been officiating in this court," withheld until yesterday passing of sentence following a hearing last Saturday. Isner was found guilty on all three counts.

Isner was fined $50 for reckless driving and $200 for failing to stop after an accident to render aid. He received a suspended six-month jail term and was placed on probation for failing to stop after an accident involving personal injury.

The personal injury charge involved failure to give assistance to William Fuller, 52, of RD 1, city, last April 12 near Corriganville, after the man was struck by Isner's car. Fuller spent several months in Sacred Heart Hospital as a result of his injuries.

Isner was also involved in another accident at the intersection of U. S. Route 40 and the Mt. Savage Road when his car struck a vehicle driven by John Patrick Sirna of Ridgeley within an hour after Fuller was injured.

Cpl. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police, investigated and preferred charges at Saturday's hearing.

Cpl. Baker said Fuller was awarded a settlement of $5,000 in Circuit Court several weeks ago in a damage suit brought in connection with his injuries.

Jaycees To Consider Constitution Changes

A number of changes in the constitution and by-laws will be considered by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce at its next meeting at 6:30 p. m. next Wednesday at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

One significant change would insert the Jaycee Creed in the constitution. It reads:

"We believe that faith in God gives meaning and purpose to human life: that the brotherhood of man transcends the sovereignty of nations; that economic justice can best be won by free men through free enterprise; that government should be of laws rather than of men; that earth's great treasure lies in human personality and that service to humanity is the best work of life."
